Soviets Claim Astronaut Orbits Globe In 5-Ton Spaceship; Skepticism on Day

SOVIETS REPORT MAN IN SPACE—An announcement from the Soviet Union said a man rode around the earth once today and landed safely at a prearranged target point. The statement from the government and Communist Party said the satellite space ship Vostok with Maj. Yuri Alekseyevich Gagarin, 27, aboard rose into outer space at 9:07 a. m, Moscow time, rounded the globe safely and landed at 10:55 a. m., 108 minutes after the launching. (NEA Telephoto).

Officials Are Silent About Some Loose Ends

By STANLEY JOHNSON

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet astronaut has orbited the globe for more than an hour and returned safely to receive the plaudits of scientists and political leaders alike.

Soviet announcement of the feat brought praise from President Kennedy and U.S. space experts left behind in the contest to put the first man into successful space flight.

By the Soviet account, Maj. Yuri Alekseyevich Gagarin rode a five-ton spaceship once around the earth in an orbit taking an hour and 20 minutes. He was in the air a total of an hour and 48 minutes.

Some Are Skeptical

The whole sequence of events and the announcements relating to it raised a number of questions. The Soviet announcement said the flight took place today between 9:07 and 10:55 a.m., but some persons in Moscow's Western colony were skeptical that the feat actually came off today.

There was a curious sequence of events leading up to the announcement.

Rumors had been circulating several days that the space coup had been pulled off. Two days ago, Soviet TV technicians moved into the Central Telegraph Office with the evident purpose of getting pictures of correspondents in sources, that the flight had been made.

Reports Flight Was Friday

Then Tuesday night the Daily Worker, London Communist newspaper with apparently sound connections in Moscow, reported that the flight took place last Friday. In splash headlines, the Daily Worker heralded "the first man in space," saying he had completed three orbits before returning to earth suffering from "after-effects of the flight."

That led up to today.

About 9:30 a.m., Western correspondents were tipped off to be listening to their radios at 10 a.m. The announcement came at 10 a.m., saying the astronaut still was in orbit. At two intervals the radio broadcast messages, reportedly from him over South America and Africa.

Reported Canceled

Then came the announcement that the spaceship had been called back to earth.

Some in the Western colony expressed wonderment that the Soviet Union, with its tight control over communications, would take such a chance—announcing the flight before a successful completion.

As these skeptics saw it, the event would have turned into perhaps the most publicized disaster in history if anything had gone wrong between 10 a.m. and the announced time of landing, 55 minutes later.

That led them back to speculation whether the London Daily Worker knew what it was talking about in reporting the space flight took place last Friday.

Silent on Loose Ends

Soviet officials were not commenting tonight on the various loose ends connected with the story.

There still was no disclosure on where the rocket was fired or where Gagarin landed.

A scientific writer for the Soviet news agency Tass said the ship was slowed by reverse blasts and then settled to earth by parachute.

The astronaut's picture was flashed on Moscow television screens. He was described by an announcer as having "a kind, Russian face, eyes set well apart,

Adenauer Calls On President

Seeks Assurance Of U. S. Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer visited President Kennedy today seeking personal assurance of full U.S. support for West Berlin and the defense of Western Europe.

Flanked by advisers, the chancellor arrived at the White House and was quickly led into the President's office.

Reports from Bonn in advance of Adenauer's departure for Washington said the German leader was worried that the Kennedy administration's efforts to improve relations with the Soviet Union would slow down the strengthening of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's defense system.

Ready With Contribution

Adenauer arrived here Tuesday night and promptly declared that "we are prepared to make a contribution in keeping with our abilities."

One problem between the United States and West Germany for many months has been U.S. urging that West Germany bear a greater share of the cost of Western expenses for defense and for aid to underdeveloped countries.

Shortly after Adenauer left Bonn, the West German government announced that it would pay ahead of schedule $587 million on its postwar debt to the United States.

The chancellor flew to Washington in a German jet airliner and was met by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

"It is most opportune that you could arrange to consult with us at precisely this time," Rusk said, "when a new American administration is shaping the major policy lines which we will expect to follow during the years ahead."

Commitment Expected

Diplomatic officials said it was a foregone conclusion that the

Israel Says Proof Will Come Eichmann Initiated Jew Plot

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel's attorney general pointed a finger at Adolf Eichmann in court today and vowed that Jewry always will remember him as the man who succeeded in part in carrying out the Nazi plan to exterminate Europe's 11 million Jews.

"There is no pardon and there can be no forgetting," Atty. Gen. Gideon Hausner cried out, his voice ringing with emotion.

Hausner's voice began to rise in volume. Suddenly, he began gesturing and his black robes whirled around him.

"Adolf Eichmann was not just an ordinary cog in the wheel," he said. "We will prove to this court that he initiated, planned, organized, and attempted to carry out efforts to exterminate the Jews in Europe."

The attorney general, replying to questions from Supreme Court Justice Moshe Landau, president of the court, said he would need all of today's session and part on Friday's to complete his argument.

While Eichmann looked on woodenly from his bullet-proof prisoner's dock, Hausner firmly rejected the defense contention that Israel lacks the right to try the accused architect of extermination.

"If we don't try Eichmann," he told the three-judge panel, "it is quite possible that he will not be tried at all, and a crime without precedent would not be punished."

Hits Legality Challenges

Throughout much of the second day of the trial, Hausner hammered persistently at defense challenges regarding legality of the proceedings.

If Hausner's impassioned words had any effect upon Eichmann, the defendant's expression failed to show it as he stared at the attorney general.

Eichmann is being tried on Israle's charge that he committed "crimes against the Jewish people and crimes against humanity" as chief of the Jewish affairs section of the Nazi Gestapo. Israel holds him responsible in the death of about six million Jewis.

State Will Pay Grants Next Feb.

Students Will Get From $100 to $800

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York State will begin paying annual tuition grants of $100 to $800 next February to college students.

Nearly every New Yorker attending a private college within the state, and some attending the public colleges, are eligible.

The so-called scholar-incentive program became law Tuesday when Gov. Rockefeller affixed his signature to the bill sent him by the 1961 Legislature.

Rockefeller also signed other higher-education bills providing for more Regents scholarships and an expanded loan program for college students.

Also Authorizes Tuition

At the same time, the governor authorized the trustees of the State University and the Board of Higher Education in New York City to charge tuition at the public colleges under their jurisdiction. There has been no indication that the trustees or the board will use this optional authority immediately.

The scholar-incentive program was Rockefeller's prime project for the 1961 legislative session and it gave him the most trouble.

The grants will range from $100 to $300, depending on family income, for undergraduate students and from $200 to $800 for graduate students.

If family income reported for tax purposes — after exemptions and deductions—is $1,800 or less, the student qualifies for the maximum grant. Lesser grants are given for those with greater income.

$26 Million For Full Year

But all eligible students may receive $100 grants, no matter how wealthy the family.

The program is expected to encompass about 121,000 students at a cost of $6.6 million in the current fiscal year and $26 million when it operates on a full-year basis.

To be eligible, a New York resident must attend or plan to attend a college within the state where the tutition is more than $200. Nearly all private and a few public colleges charge more than $200.

The student then must apply for a grant, submit income tax information, and be approved by the State Board of Regents, which will promulgate standards.

The grants will be available a long as the student stays in college.

Bill Demands Registry Of Fathers Who Desert

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The State Social Welfare Department was instructed today to establish in its Albany headquarters a central registry of fathers who desert their families.

The order was in the form of a bill passed by the 1961 Legislature and signed by Gov. Rockefeller today.

The purpose of the registry is to assist the department, local welfare agencies and police to track down deserting fathers and force them to support their families.

This would help reduce welfare costs, legislators said.

The registry is to contain personal information about the fathers, including a description of their habits.

The bill was the project of a legislative committee that held hearings across the state last year on the cost of welfare programs.

The governor signed this legislation Tuesday:

Public Defender — New York City and counties of 100,000 or more population were authorized to create the office of public defender. Lawyers named to the office will represent defendants in criminal trials who have no money to hire their own lawyers.

The bill also authorized such counties to appropriate funds for legal aid societies to provide legal services for indigents.

Drivers' Licenses — Effective Oct. 1, it will be a misdemeanor for a driver to allow another person to use his motor vehicle license for any deception, or for anyone to use a forged or fictitious license or one belonging to another person. The law now bars only usage of another person's license while driving.

The State Motor Vehicle Department said some youths under 18 used fraudulent licenses or those of older persons to buy liquor. The legal drinking age is 18 in New York State.

2,271 Attend 1st Night of Lions 14th Exposition

The Industrial Exposition and Home Show of the Kingston Lions Club enjoyed the largest opening night attendance in its history Tuesday night with 2,271 people visiting the state armory on Manor Avenue.

The total for opening night last year was 2,203.

Crowds thronging the huge drill shed saw the largest and most diversified group of exhibitors on Exposition record, it was reported by Chairman Stephen T. McGrath.

Mayor Edwin F. Radel cut the ribbon opening the 14th annual show and was followed into the armory by a large and eager crowd.

The mayor remarked that he is "confident that this year's show will be a tremendous success. It's greater in scope, and features a wider variety of exhibitors than in past years."

This year's total of 133 booths gives area residents an opportunity to see everything from a real Mohawk Indian to a heavy-duty bulldozer.

Among many interesting attractions is the Kingston Police Department's display of guns, including riot and teargas guns and submachine guns.

There are also actual photographs used in the apprehension of burglars, and tear gas pencils and grenades. According to a spokesman for the police force all items are removed from the armory each night of the Exposition and returned for viewing the next day.

The Homemaking Sub-District 4-H Club Demonstrations were held at 74 John Street Saturday. The sub-district demonstrators included representatives from Sullivan, Ulster and Orange Counties, who exhibited skills in areas of general foods, poultry, bread, dairy and vegetable foods, clothing, home management and home improvement. A total of 28 girls were present for the event.

Demonstration work, an important part of the 4-H educational program, assists young people in developing skill in a chosen area. Although the awards presented provide incentive for future participation, the educational experience is considered the most important factor in 4-H Club demonstration work.

Eight demonstrations from the dairy, vegetable, poultry and bread groups were chosen to go on to state fair competition. Among those selected for outstanding skill in Ulster County were: Estelle Cleveland, Wallkill, zesty salads and dressings; Bernadette Brennie, highland, apple bran bread; Mary Jane Capozzi, Clintondale, dairy luncheon and Judy Wildrick, Wallkill, angel food cake. Three demonstrators from other counties were also chosen in clothing to represent the sub-district at district demonstration day in Minneola, L. I.

Other girls participating from Ulster County were Marilyn Nickerson, Katsbaan, breakfast is ready; Lynn Charlton, Hurley, chocolate oatmeal cookies; Jean McCord, Gardiner, cinnamon puffs; Linda McCord, Wallkill, grape and pear salad; and Denise Franklin, New Paltz, cream puffs.

Warning

Pittsburgh (AP) — Burglars looting coin boxes in a laundromat made so much noise they awakened a man living upstairs. Thinking the burglars were late customers, the man called them on the laundromat pay phone and said: "If you people don't stop making so much noise, I'm going to call the police." The burglars left quietly.

matter of FACT

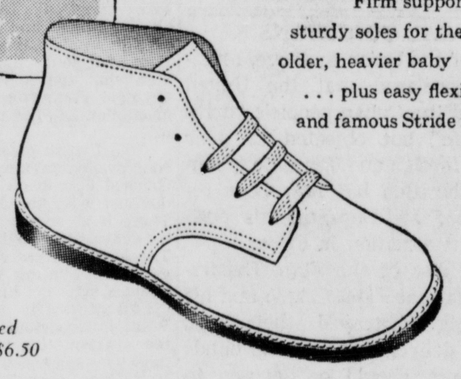

The so-called "silent world" of the sea is really a noisy place. One of the noisemakers is the dolphin. Dolphins have a sharp, high-pitched whistle and they seem to enjoy imitating. During World War II the dolphins gave the Navy an occasional scare. A favorite dolphin imitation sounded just like a submarine motor.

matter of FACT

The so-called "silent world" of the sea is really a noisy place. One of the noisemakers is the dolphin. Dolphins have a sharp, high-pitched whistle and they seem to enjoy imitating. During World War II the dolphins gave the Navy an occasional scare. A favorite dolphin imitation sounded just like a submarine motor.

AN APPEAL TO CUBANS

In his State of the Union message, President Kennedy declared that the United States supported the Cuban people's "drive for a better life" but objected to their "domination by foreign and domestic tyrannies." This declaration has now been reinforced by the State Department's position paper on the situation in Cuba.

The basic premise of the State Department pamphlet is that Fidel Castro and his followers, having "betrayed their own revolution" and delivered it into the hands of an alien power, should be deposed to make way for a government that would help Cubans achieve "freedom, democracy and social justice." Our real quarrel with the Castro regime is brilliantly summed up in one sentence of the statement: "Never in history has any revolution so rapidly devoured its children."

Few Americans will any longer dispute this judgment. For a long time it has been obvious that the Castro revolution, which at first appeared so promising because it overthrew the hated Batista government, has merely substituted one tyranny for another. Nor can there be any doubt that the new regime, which has accepted the aid and thus become essentially the pawn of the great Communist powers, is vastly more dangerous to Western Hemisphere peace and security than was the Batista regime.

It does not follow that the United States should intervene with force, either overtly or behind the scenes. The administration should think searchingly, with the most careful regard for consequences in terms of the impact on Latin American opinion, before undertaking any open or secret aid to counter-revolutionary movements.. It is enough, for the time being, that our government has told the truth about the Fidelism and called upon the Cuban people to reject it.

Whether this is a man's world or a woman's is open to argument—which usually grows louder and more spirited after marriage.

CIVIL DEFENSE LIMPS

No one seriously contends that the United States has an effective program of civil defense ready to swing into action in case of nuclear attack. Even among those who know most about the program because they spend full time in its development, there appears to be widespread agreement that civil defense is embryonic.

This feeling was made clear in a recent statement by Frank B. Ellis, head of the Office of Civil Defense Mobilization. After reviewing the various civil defense undertakings he declared that "a national program of the known life saving measures is still far from operational readiness."

Some critics are inclined to be more blunt. Notable among these is Senator Butler of Maryland, who thinks that civil defense is not embryonic but stillborn. He has urged, in a letter to President Kennedy, that headquarters of civil defense be returned to Washington from Battle Creek, Mich., as "the first move toward the attainment of an adequate civil defense program."

One may question whether there are compelling reasons to move the central OCDM office back to the nation's capital. But there is no question that the civil defense effort must be greatly increased before it even approaches being adequate.

There is another matter, the most fundamental of all. That is whether it is even sensible to think of civil defense as a deterrent to attack and a practical means of minimizing loss of life in case of attack. The feebleness of the program thus far gives reason for thinking that the American people have not yet arrived at a clear answer to this question. It should be deeply considered in the light of modern conditions. And if the consensus is "yes," then we had better push our civil defense preparations a lot harder than they have been pushed up to now.

POLITICS AND OLYMPICS

The Olympic games are presumed to be the acme of universal sports. But in recent years, the Olympics have become involved in politics, those who manage the games assuming to do what all the diplomacy of the entire world and the United Nations has been unable to do, namely, to decide what is China.

You may recall the television show of the Rome Olympics, when the delegation from Formosa carried a sign stating their protest against being regarded as Formosa, which, of course, they are not. Their proper title is the Republic of China and they are so recognized by the United Nations.

But it seems that the Marquess of Exeter, a great British sportsman, favors Red Chinese participation in the Olympics. He has been quarrelling over this with General John Grombach, an American athlete who wanted to know why the Britisher was so excited about getting Red China in. So he hired an investigating agency in England to give him the low-down on the Marquess. This offended the Marquess, who adopts the position that he is emotionally a just man only interested in athletics.

However, it was found that the Marquess of Exeter is an excellent businessman who is a bank director and is also in many firms which have business with Soviet countries. The Marquess is a distinguished athlete, better known as Lord Burghley, and has gained many honors. However, the British Who's Who lists him as associated with numerous businesses, including the National Provincial Bank, Ltd,, which acts as correspondent for Soviet and Red Chinese banks.

The conflict therefore is between the British view that Red China is China and the American view that the Republic of China is China. The Olympic Committee cannot solve this difference of opinion and has no business to become involved in it.

The British press has taken an interest in the controversy, particularly playing up the fact that General Grombach employed a "Private Eye" to discover who the Marquess of Exeter really is. There is no secret about that. As Lord Burghley, he achieved a distinguished career as a hurdler. The British press ridiculed the attack on Exeter as a Red-hunting which, of course, it was not. Besides, why not hunt Reds?

All of this it not of very great significance. What is important is that the Olympic Committee is attempting to settle a political question. It might be suggested that as the British recognize Red China, they are entitled to promote the Red China cause in the Olympics. On the other hand, the nations which reject Red China would then be justified in boycotting the Olympic games if the Red Chinese were admitted. Red China is a moral and emotional problem. However, the games were not organized for this sort of politics. They ought to keep out of politics and propaganda altogether. It is stepping out of line when they attempt to make a political decision.

Therefore the Olympic Committee ought to conform to the listing of nations by the United Nations. That would settle the entire business. It is, by international treaty, the proper body to prepare such a list. Neither the Marquess of Exeter not General Grombach is empowered to recognize or to refuse to recognize a nation. Nor is the Olympic Committee empowered to do anything of the sort. To avoid just such a controversy as has risen the Olympic Committee should mind its own business.

This is one of these peculiar little questions which makes for lots of trouble between nations and certainly neither Great Britain nor the United States needs to fight over this at the present time. The Marquess may feel that he is a great authority on international relations but it does no good to get excited about Red China which did not show up at Rome anyhow and is not likely to until that country is recognized by the United Nations and the United States. It would be more sporting to fight this battle where it belongs, in the United Nations arena, and not in the Olympic Committee, the members of which are no great shakes as politicians and diplomats. Besides, the Red China question may have to be settled by war some day.

In a statement the learned Marquess said that there is only one China, namely, Peking. "As far as Taiwan is concerned we could also recognize an administration if it were under a different name hence giving up the term of China."

To an American, of course, this is nonsense.

Rejoice if Tuberculin Skin Test Reads 'Positive'

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The tuberculin skin test is a source of confusion to so many correspondents, I'd like to discuss it at some length.

Ordinarily the test is done in one of two ways. In both instances, an extract of a growth of tubercle bacilli is used. In both instances, the organisms have been killed so that neither exposes those being tested to the remotest danger of infection.

In the skin patch test (Vollmer), the extract is impregnated in a piece of gauze that adheres to a strip of plaster, as in the familiar Band-Aid. After the skin is cleaned, all that has to be done is to stick the plaster, gauze side down, on an area of skin. Between the shoulders is usually the best place since it is least in the way in this protected area.

In the Montoux test (pronounced man-too), the extract is injected between the layers of the skin to produce a sort of mosquito bite.

While there are some technicalities involved in the reading of these tests in general they are read as "negative" or "positive," after 48 to 96 hours.

Now the negative test simply means that the body has not yet manufactured protective antibodies for defensive purposes against invasion by tubercle bacili. By inference, it also means that the person with the negative test has not yet been invaded by tubercle bacilli.

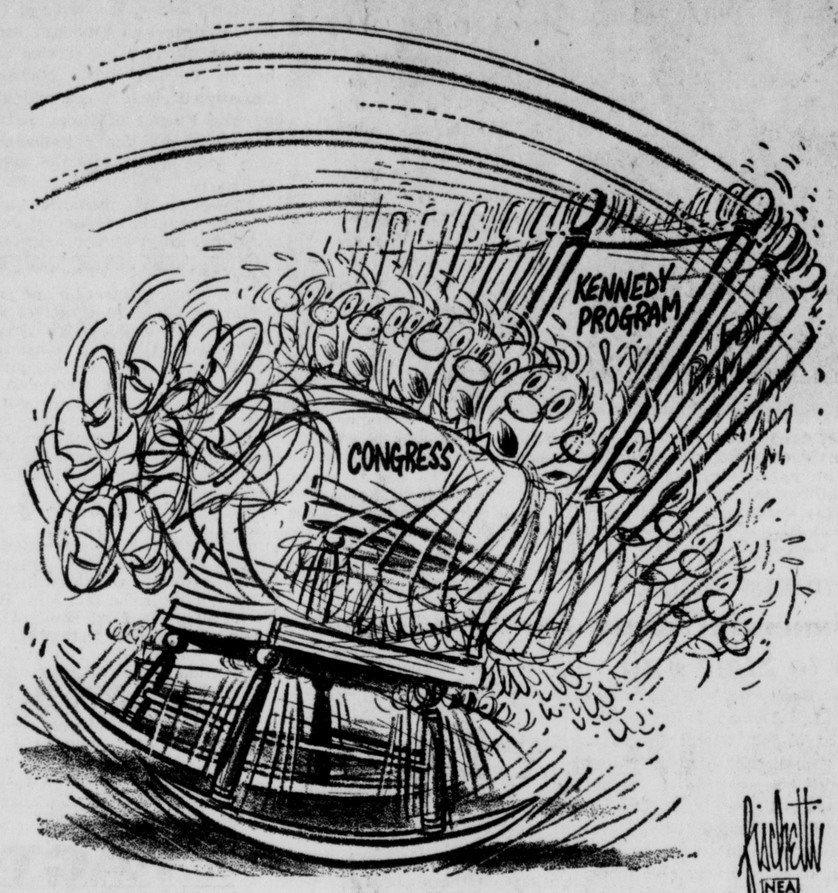

The negative test is a cause for both rejoicing and anxiety. Rejoicing because it means that tubercle bacilli have never invaded the body in the past and probably are not present at the moment. Anxiety because it indicates some susceptibility to a future invasion by these treacherous enemies of mankind.

The positive test simply means that the body has manufactured protective antibodies. It does NOT mean necessarily that the individual is presently suffering from active tuberculosis. Indeed, most often, it indicates that the individual has engaged the enemy and put him to rout.

In other words somewhere in the body there was a brief hand-to-hand struggle with a small band of invaders who were moved down in short order. Thus, in the absence of evidences of active disease, the positive test is consoling since, like a successful smallpox scar, it indicates you have achieved some immunity to protect you in future.

"I Don't Find This Relaxing at All"

Washington News

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Patterns for living with automation and liking it are gradually being worked out by various devices in new labor-management contracts. In general, they follow the old principle of, "If you can't lick 'em, join 'em."

More and more, union leaders are coming around to the view that there's no use trying to stop progress. Management, for its part, is recognizing increasingly that it has responsibilities to its employes as well as to its stockholders.

Viewed from both those angles, ways are sought to make the new technologies in manufacturing and processing a blessing to both management and labor—not just monsters that cause strikes or destroy jobs.

MOST NOTABLE EXAMPLE is perhaps the Pacific Maritime Assn. employers' agreement with the Harry Bridges International Longshoremen's union. It was signed after four years of discussion and five months of tough bargaining, going into effect this year and running to July 1, 1966.

In the first place, the Longshoremen agreed to abandon their long-standing opposition to waterfront mechanization. Employers are therefore freed from all the old union restrictions on size of sling loads, double handling, gang sizes and "witness" labor that gets paid for standing around doing nothing. All labor-saving devices may now be used to handle cargo efficiently.

In return, the employers are paying $1.5 million a year for 5½ years into a mechanization fund. It will be used in part to permit longshoremen to retire at age 62 instead of 65, each having a vested interest in the fund up to $7,920.

The fund will also put a floor under wages which will guarantee longshoremen a minimum wage of $98.75 for a 35-hour week, without layoffs.

An agreement similar to this was later made applicable to East Coast longshoremen by an arbitration award.

In the new Teamsters Union contract signed Feb. 1 with the Central States motor carriers, tentative agreement was made for payment into the Hoffa union's pension and welfare fund of $5 for every bulk container or piggyback shipment.

Effective date of this provision is being delayed a year pending joint union-carrier study to determine if this is the best way to deal with this situation. But it is also being considered in current Teamsters negotiations with New England carriers. And it is expected to come up later in bargaining with carriers of the 13 Western states.

APPLICATION OF SUCH A principle to "fishyback" container shipments by water and "birdieback" shipments by air is also being proposed. But railroads are still bucking the idea as an illegal restraint on movement of interstate commerce.

There were about a million piggyback shipments by rail last year. At $5 a trailer, this would put another $5 million into the Hoffa union's $300 million welfare fund.

In addition to these prime examples, there are numerous other joint labor-management studies of automation going on.

Kaiser Steel and United Steelworkers representatives are trying to find a formula for sharing the benefits of the new technology in their industry.

Republic Steel and Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers have a joint human relations committee studying the subject.

In the shift from military aircraft production to missiles, United Auto Workers and Machinists Union worked out new agreements with Douglas and Convair for severance pay or extended unemployment benefit payments to laid-off employes.

THE AUTO INDUSTRY made earlier moves to solve some of the labor relations problems by advancing technology through the "annual improvement" wage increase and supplemental unemployment benefits, or "SUB." But they are no longer considered complete plans.

New proposals are expected to be presented when the auto industry contracts are renegotiated this summer.

Kennedy's Tax Message May Change Image of Him

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 11 — Within a few days the American people will get for the first time some basic information which will enable them to begin to make up their minds whether or not they like their new President.

For what has happened thus far hasn't really been decisive. It doesn't matter much whether er the Kennedy household hires a French chef or whether the "Peace Corps" is going to convert native Africans to civilization. What does matter is whether the Federal government is going to collect more tax money out of the worker's take-home pay.

The President is planning to send his tax message to Congress next week. It has been deplayed for unexplained reasons, though it is widely suspected that the drafts of the message proposed by the President's "task forces" and advisers — the "theoretical" boys —have run into some penetrating criticism from members of Congress—the "practical" boys.

It's always wise to have a lot of idea men around. Perhaps, however, the comment of Prime Minister Macmillan in a speech in Britain not long ago apropos of the Socialist Labor party is worth repeating as applicable to the current situation in this country. Mr. Macmillan said the Socialists have had some "original and sound ideas, but the trouble is that some of the ideas that are original are not sound and some of the sound ideas are not original."

A Complicated Affair

Tax rates and regulations are at present a complicated affair that cannot be defended as either equitable or productive of adequate tax revenues. There isn't, to be sure, any tax system that will yield enough revenue for the "spenders." But the important fact today about new taxes is not whether they are going to be made more equitable as between different classes of taxpayers, but whether forthcoming changes will disrupt the economic stability of the country for a long time to come. Far from being a cure for recession, tax changes can prolong a recession by producing a disequilibrium in the economy.

The average citizen will be affected in many ways and particularly in his purchasing power. It seems ironical that, with all the talk about increasing consumer power to buy, the government should be considering a tax program that will curtail incomes for many people and many businesses.

Take, for instance, the Social Security taxes which affect almost everybody. Some will go up in a few months, and some will be further increased at the end of the next year. If Congress goes ahead with pension changes and medical care for the aged, the Social Security taxes on the whole program will go up by nearly 33 per cent on a person who makes a little less than $90 a week. Thus, the man who earns $4,800 a year or more now pays $144 a year in Social Security taxes, but the amount the Federal government will take from him will go up to $193.75. This means that the employer and the employe together will pay nearly $100 a year more than they do now. This may subtract billions of dollars in purchasing power.

More Red Tape

Perhaps the most irritating change is coming in the plan to withhold taxes on interest and dividends at the source. Low-income persons, especially retired people who do not have much income, will find their regular monthly stipend decreased. Also, if the companies have withheld more than later will be found due in taxes on certain individuals, a lot of red tape and plenty of time will be necessary before the money improperly collected will be refunded. Likewise, this means more trouble and expense for the businesses concerned. It is not clear as yet whether this procedure will apply to interest on savings accounts, but it does mean a lot more work without recompense.

There's another item that will cause much controversy. It is the proposal to remove the limited tax credit on dividends. The argument against full taxation of dividends is that the citizen is taxed doubly if he puts his money in a corporation but not if it is invested in a partnership or a proprietorship. The argument being made here in favor of it is that "double taxation" is a myth.

Another plan of the Administration calls for an increase in certain taxes which will add to the cost of tires, tubes and the like. This isn't going to help business, either.

'Havens' Need Correction

There are, to be sure, some "tax havens" that need correction, such as those enjoyed abroad by individuals who stay there for relatively brief intervals and get certain benefits anyway. Also, there is need to eliminate abuses in what is defined as "ordinary and necessary expenses" in business. But such a reform process tends to upset many established practices that have long been considered legitimate and equitable but which the government, in its zest for more tax collections, feels it will have to modify.

All this adds up to painful change—an impact on the economy which may not be felt for some months but would appear to be inevitable.

Once the tax message of the President is sent to Congress, it will be interesting to see what happens to the popularity curve of the President in the Gallup Poll.

Hunger Big Threat To Wests' Survival

BY LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Analyst

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., (NEA)—The population of the world will pass three billion in 1961. This is the grim, explosive situation that lies behind President Kennedy's massive foreign aid program.

The United Nations, which makes the three billion estimate, also forecasts that, by the year 2000, the figure will be doubled.

Yet, even today, more than 65 per cent of the earth's population lives at the barest subsistence level. Several million people die each year of malnutrition. Hunger makes life little more than drab search for food over large areas of Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Aside from purely humanitarian considerations, hunger is a serious threat to the West's survival. Where large numbers of people are inadequately nourished, the stability of the distressed countries where they live is jeopardized. In a world growing smaller, such centers of unrest are a danger to the other parts of the world.

The world's depressed areas also present a grave economic problem to the highly industrialized countries of the West.

Because technical progress in the industrialized states is taking place at an ever increasing rate, there is already a problem as to where to find markets for the goods produced.

For example, India, with its population of 438 million, buys no more from the United States than does highly industrialized Switzerland with a population of only five million. Yet the U. S. is India's largest source of supply.

Industrial production in the underdeveloped countries has increased only five per cent since the end of the last war. But the increase in the industrialized countries of the West has been 45 per cent.

Thus the gap between the rich and poor nations becomes wider and provides all the elements for an unstable international economic situation.

It is precisely in the famine areas that the population is increasing most rapidly. The highest rate of growth is in Latin America. But the countries in Asia and Africa are not far behind.

Of course, large families are traditional in many of the new independent countries and are even considered a blessing. But the reason for the population increase also is due to the increasing availability of modern medicine and medical care supplied mostly by the West in competition with Soviet Russia. As a result, infant mortality has dropped and the life span is longer than before.

But it is in these incomplete and inadequate blessings of Western civilization that seeds of Communist revolution are contained. As the U.N. survey noted, "the additional years that modern society now bestows on man are unhappy ones."

Aid to the underdeveloped countries is no longer a question of charity which can be measured or even justice which can be put off indefinitely. Raising their standard of living is the only means by which the free world can check Communist expansion and assure its own political and economic survival.

The leaders of the former colonial countries are working under the pressure of time to show to their people that independence can lead to economic improvement.

Unless the non-Communist industrialized countries assist them with technical knowledge, capital and by enlisting their own energies in moving toward social and economic development, they will become easy prey for Russia and Communist China.

The Marquess is a distinguished athlete, better known as Lord Burghley, and has gained many honors. However, the British Who's Who lists him as associated with numerous businesses, including the National Provincial Bank, Ltd,, which acts as correspondent for Soviet and Red Chinese banks.

The conflict therefore is between the British view that Red China is China and the American view that the Republic of China is China. The Olympic Committee cannot solve this difference of opinion and has no business to become involved in it.

The British press has taken an interest in the controversy, particularly playing up the fact that General Grombach employed a "Private Eye" to discover who the Marquess of Exeter really is. There is no secret about that. As Lord Burghley, he achieved a distinguished career as a hurdler. The British press ridiculed the attack on Exeter as a Red-hunting which, of course, it was not. Besides, why not hunt Reds?

All of this it not of very great significance. What is important is that the Olympic Committee is attempting to settle a political question. It might be suggested that as the British recognize Red China, they are entitled to promote the Red China cause in the Olympics. On the other hand, the nations which reject Red China would then be justified in boycotting the Olympic games if the Red Chinese were admitted. Red China is a moral and emotional problem. However, the games were not organized for this sort of politics. They ought to keep out of politics and propaganda altogether. It is stepping out of line when they attempt to make a political decision.

Therefore the Olympic Committee ought to conform to the listing of nations by the United Nations. That would settle the entire business. It is, by international treaty, the proper body to prepare such a list. Neither the Marquess of Exeter not General Grombach is empowered to recognize or to refuse to recognize a nation. Nor is the Olympic Committee empowered to do anything of the sort. To avoid just such a controversy as has risen the Olympic Committee should mind its own business.

This is one of these peculiar little questions which makes for lots of trouble between nations and certainly neither Great Britain nor the United States needs to fight over this at the present time. The Marquess may feel that he is a great authority on international relations but it does no good to get excited about Red China which did not show up at Rome anyhow and is not likely to until that country is recognized by the United Nations and the United States. It would be more sporting to fight this battle where it belongs, in the United Nations arena, and not in the Olympic Committee, the members of which are no great shakes as politicians and diplomats. Besides, the Red China question may have to be settled by war some day.

In a statement the learned Marquess said that there is only one China, namely, Peking. "As far as Taiwan is concerned we could also recognize an administration if it were under a different name hence giving up the term of China."

To an American, of course, this is nonsense.

Rejoice if Tuberculin Skin Test Reads 'Positive'

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The tuberculin skin test is a source of confusion to so many correspondents, I'd like to discuss it at some length.

Ordinarily the test is done in one of two ways. In both instances, an extract of a growth of tubercle bacilli is used. In both instances, the organisms have been killed so that neither exposes those being tested to the remotest danger of infection.

In the skin patch test (Vollmer), the extract is impregnated in a piece of gauze that adheres to a strip of plaster, as in the familiar Band-Aid. After the skin is cleaned, all that has to be done is to stick the plaster, gauze side down, on an area of skin. Between the shoulders is usually the best place since it is least in the way in this protected area.

In the Montoux test (pronounced man-too), the extract is injected between the layers of the skin to produce a sort of mosquito bite.

While there are some technicalities involved in the reading of these tests in general they are read as "negative" or "positive," after 48 to 96 hours.

Now the negative test simply means that the body has not yet manufactured protective antibodies for defensive purposes against invasion by tubercle bacili. By inference, it also means that the person with the negative test has not yet been invaded by tubercle bacilli.

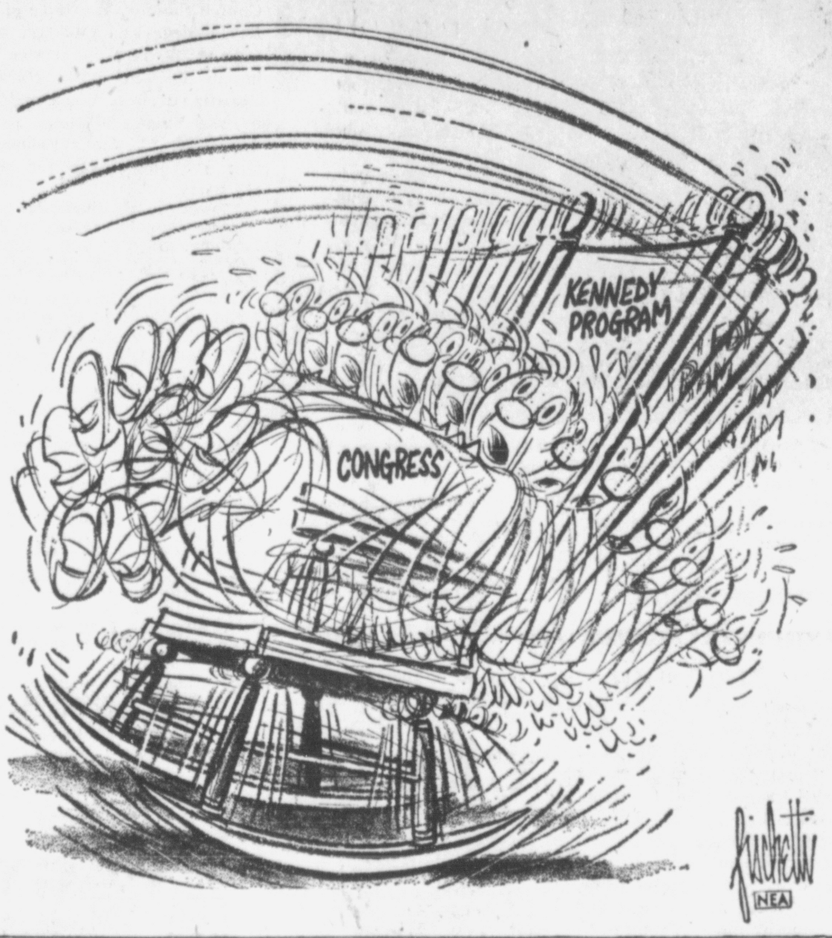

The negative test is a cause for both rejoicing and anxiety. Rejoicing because it means that tubercle bacilli have never invaded the body in the past and probably are not present at the moment. Anxiety because it indicates some susceptibility to a future invasion by these treacherous enemies of mankind.

The positive test simply means that the body has manufactured protective antibodies. It does NOT mean necessarily that the individual is presently suffering from active tuberculosis. Indeed, most often, it indicates that the individual has engaged the enemy and put him to rout.

In other words somewhere in the body there was a brief hand-to-hand struggle with a small band of invaders who were moved down in short order. Thus, in the absence of evidences of active disease, the positive test is consoling since, like a successful smallpox scar, it indicates you have achieved some immunity to protect you in future.

"I Don't Find This Relaxing at All"

Washington News

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Patterns for living with automation and liking it are gradually being worked out by various devices in new labor-management contracts. In general, they follow the old principle of, "If you can't lick 'em, join 'em."

More and more, union leaders are coming around to the view that there's no use trying to stop progress. Management, for its part, is recognizing increasingly that it has responsibilities to its employes as well as to its stockholders.

Viewed from both those angles, ways are sought to make the new technologies in manufacturing and processing a blessing to both management and labor—not just monsters that cause strikes or destroy jobs.

MOST NOTABLE EXAMPLE is perhaps the Pacific Maritime Assn. employers' agreement with the Harry Bridges International Longshoremen's union. It was signed after four years of discussion and five months of tough bargaining, going into effect this year and running to July 1, 1966.

In the first place, the Longshoremen agreed to abandon their long-standing opposition to waterfront mechanization. Employers are therefore freed from all the old union restrictions on size of sling loads, double handling, gang sizes and "witness" labor that gets paid for standing around doing nothing. All labor-saving devices may now be used to handle cargo efficiently.

In return, the employers are paying $1.5 million a year for 5½ years into a mechanization fund. It will be used in part to permit longshoremen to retire at age 62 instead of 65, each having a vested interest in the fund up to $7,920.

The fund will also put a floor under wages which will guarantee longshoremen a minimum wage of $98.75 for a 35-hour week, without layoffs.

An agreement similar to this was later made applicable to East Coast longshoremen by an arbitration award.

In the new Teamsters Union contract signed Feb. 1 with the Central States motor carriers, tentative agreement was made for payment into the Hoffa union's pension and welfare fund of $5 for every bulk container or piggyback shipment.

Effective date of this provision is being delayed a year pending joint union-carrier study to determine if this is the best way to deal with this situation. But it is also being considered in current Teamsters negotiations with New England carriers. And it is expected to come up later in bargaining with carriers of the 13 Western states.

APPLICATION OF SUCH A principle to "fishyback" container shipments by water and "birdieback" shipments by air is also being proposed. But railroads are still bucking the idea as an illegal restraint on movement of interstate commerce.

There were about a million piggyback shipments by rail last year. At $5 a trailer, this would put another $5 million into the Hoffa union's $300 million welfare fund.

In addition to these prime examples, there are numerous other joint labor-management studies of automation going on.

Kaiser Steel and United Steelworkers representatives are trying to find a formula for sharing the benefits of the new technology in their industry.

Republic Steel and Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers have a joint human relations committee studying the subject.

In the shift from military aircraft production to missiles, United Auto Workers and Machinists Union worked out new agreements with Douglas and Convair for severance pay or extended unemployment benefit payments to laid-off employes.

THE AUTO INDUSTRY made earlier moves to solve some of the labor relations problems by advancing technology through the "annual improvement" wage increase and supplemental unemployment benefits, or "SUB." But they are no longer considered complete plans.

New proposals are expected to be presented when the auto industry contracts are renegotiated this summer.

Kennedy's Tax Message May Change Image of Him

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 11 — Within a few days the American people will get for the first time some basic information which will enable them to begin to make up their minds whether or not they like their new President.

For what has happened thus far hasn't really been decisive. It doesn't matter much whether er the Kennedy household hires a French chef or whether the "Peace Corps" is going to convert native Africans to civilization. What does matter is whether the Federal government is going to collect more tax money out of the worker's take-home pay.

The President is planning to send his tax message to Congress next week. It has been deplayed for unexplained reasons, though it is widely suspected that the drafts of the message proposed by the President's "task forces" and advisers — the "theoretical" boys —have run into some penetrating criticism from members of Congress—the "practical" boys.

It's always wise to have a lot of idea men around. Perhaps, however, the comment of Prime Minister Macmillan in a speech in Britain not long ago apropos of the Socialist Labor party is worth repeating as applicable to the current situation in this country. Mr. Macmillan said the Socialists have had some "original and sound ideas, but the trouble is that some of the ideas that are original are not sound and some of the sound ideas are not original."

A Complicated Affair

Tax rates and regulations are at present a complicated affair that cannot be defended as either equitable or productive of adequate tax revenues. There isn't, to be sure, any tax system that will yield enough revenue for the "spenders." But the important fact today about new taxes is not whether they are going to be made more equitable as between different classes of taxpayers, but whether forthcoming changes will disrupt the economic stability of the country for a long time to come. Far from being a cure for recession, tax changes can prolong a recession by producing a disequilibrium in the economy.

The average citizen will be affected in many ways and particularly in his purchasing power. It seems ironical that, with all the talk about increasing consumer power to buy, the government should be considering a tax program that will curtail incomes for many people and many businesses.

Take, for instance, the Social Security taxes which affect almost everybody. Some will go up in a few months, and some will be further increased at the end of the next year. If Congress goes ahead with pension changes and medical care for the aged, the Social Security taxes on the whole program will go up by nearly 33 per cent on a person who makes a little less than $90 a week. Thus, the man who earns $4,800 a year or more now pays $144 a year in Social Security taxes, but the amount the Federal government will take from him will go up to $193.75. This means that the employer and the employe together will pay nearly $100 a year more than they do now. This may subtract billions of dollars in purchasing power.

More Red Tape

Perhaps the most irritating change is coming in the plan to withhold taxes on interest and dividends at the source. Low-income persons, especially retired people who do not have much income, will find their regular monthly stipend decreased. Also, if the companies have withheld more than later will be found due in taxes on certain individuals, a lot of red tape and plenty of time will be necessary before the money improperly collected will be refunded. Likewise, this means more trouble and expense for the businesses concerned. It is not clear as yet whether this procedure will apply to interest on savings accounts, but it does mean a lot more work without recompense.

There's another item that will cause much controversy. It is the proposal to remove the limited tax credit on dividends. The argument against full taxation of dividends is that the citizen is taxed doubly if he puts his money in a corporation but not if it is invested in a partnership or a proprietorship. The argument being made here in favor of it is that "double taxation" is a myth.

Another plan of the Administration calls for an increase in certain taxes which will add to the cost of tires, tubes and the like. This isn't going to help business, either.

'Havens' Need Correction

There are, to be sure, some "tax havens" that need correction, such as those enjoyed abroad by individuals who stay there for relatively brief intervals and get certain benefits anyway. Also, there is need to eliminate abuses in what is defined as "ordinary and necessary expenses" in business. But such a reform process tends to upset many established practices that have long been considered legitimate and equitable but which the government, in its zest for more tax collections, feels it will have to modify.

All this adds up to painful change—an impact on the economy which may not be felt for some months but would appear to be inevitable.

Once the tax message of the President is sent to Congress, it will be interesting to see what happens to the popularity curve of the President in the Gallup Poll.

Hunger Big Threat To Wests' Survival

BY LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Analyst

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., (NEA)—The population of the world will pass three billion in 1961. This is the grim, explosive situation that lies behind President Kennedy's massive foreign aid program.

The United Nations, which makes the three billion estimate, also forecasts that, by the year 2000, the figure will be doubled.

Yet, even today, more than 65 per cent of the earth's population lives at the barest subsistence level. Several million people die each year of malnutrition. Hunger makes life little more than drab search for food over large areas of Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Aside from purely humanitarian considerations, hunger is a serious threat to the West's survival. Where large numbers of people are inadequately nourished, the stability of the distressed countries where they live is jeopardized. In a world growing smaller, such centers of unrest are a danger to the other parts of the world.

The world's depressed areas also present a grave economic problem to the highly industrialized countries of the West.

Because technical progress in the industrialized states is taking place at an ever increasing rate, there is already a problem as to where to find markets for the goods produced.

For example, India, with its population of 438 million, buys no more from the United States than does highly industrialized Switzerland with a population of only five million. Yet the U. S. is India's largest source of supply.

Industrial production in the underdeveloped countries has increased only five per cent since the end of the last war. But the increase in the industrialized countries of the West has been 45 per cent.

Thus the gap between the rich and poor nations becomes wider and provides all the elements for an unstable international economic situation.

It is precisely in the famine areas that the population is increasing most rapidly. The highest rate of growth is in Latin America. But the countries in Asia and Africa are not far behind.

Of course, large families are traditional in many of the new independent countries and are even considered a blessing. But the reason for the population increase also is due to the increasing availability of modern medicine and medical care supplied mostly by the West in competition with Soviet Russia. As a result, infant mortality has dropped and the life span is longer than before.

But it is in these incomplete and inadequate blessings of Western civilization that seeds of Communist revolution are contained. As the U.N. survey noted, "the additional years that modern society now bestows on man are unhappy ones."

Aid to the underdeveloped countries is no longer a question of charity which can be measured or even justice which can be put off indefinitely. Raising their standard of living is the only means by which the free world can check Communist expansion and assure its own political and economic survival.

The leaders of the former colonial countries are working under the pressure of time to show to their people that independence can lead to economic improvement.

Unless the non-Communist industrialized countries assist them with technical knowledge, capital and by enlisting their own energies in moving toward social and economic development, they will become easy prey for Russia and Communist China.

Focus on Health In Science World

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chubby children, lonely alcoholics, and a view about heart attacks figure in the medical news:

Roly-Polies

Parents often express pride their children are chubby, and thus well-fed. But actually excess fat is not good at any age, warns the Nutrition Foundation.

It reports much evidence that overweight youngsters are more handicapped in their performances socially, mentally and physically than most parents realize.

Off the Wagon

A longing for companionship rather than a longing for alcohol sends many alcoholics back to bars and renewed drinking, French researchers theorize.

In their view, many people are simply afraid of being alone, particularly in big cities. So alcoholism may be largely a social rather than medical problem, they hold.

Too Little Thyroid

Lack of thyroid hormone produces emotional or personality changes similar to those of neurotics. The thryoid patients become extremely tired, their thinking is clouded, memory for recent events is impaired; they are likely to become irritable, nervous, emotionally explosive, and to suffer from insomnia.

Fats, Diet and Heart

Too much fat in the diet is being blamed by some experts for setting the stage for heart attacks and strokes.

But the amounts of fats consumed may not be so important as the efficiency with which the body can dispose of fats circulating in the bloodstream, seven different medical studies suggest. This efficiency can vary with individuals, of course. Some of the reports, made to the Angiology Research Foundation, say that an anti-coagulant drug, heparin, helps clear fats from the blood.

Focus on Health In Science World

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chubby children, lonely alcoholics, and a view about heart attacks figure in the medical news:

Roly-Polies

Parents often express pride their children are chubby, and thus well-fed. But actually excess fat is not good at any age, warns the Nutrition Foundation.

It reports much evidence that overweight youngsters are more handicapped in their performances socially, mentally and physically than most parents realize.

Off the Wagon

A longing for companionship rather than a longing for alcohol sends many alcoholics back to bars and renewed drinking, French researchers theorize.

In their view, many people are simply afraid of being alone, particularly in big cities. So alcoholism may be largely a social rather than medical problem, they hold.

Too Little Thyroid

Lack of thyroid hormone produces emotional or personality changes similar to those of neurotics. The thryoid patients become extremely tired, their thinking is clouded, memory for recent events is impaired; they are likely to become irritable, nervous, emotionally explosive, and to suffer from insomnia.

Fats, Diet and Heart

Too much fat in the diet is being blamed by some experts for setting the stage for heart attacks and strokes.

But the amounts of fats consumed may not be so important as the efficiency with which the body can dispose of fats circulating in the bloodstream, seven different medical studies suggest. This efficiency can vary with individuals, of course. Some of the reports, made to the Angiology Research Foundation, say that an anti-coagulant drug, heparin, helps clear fats from the blood.

Ulster Receives $109,786 Share Of Motor Fuel Tax

Ulster County has been allocated $109,786.24, an increase of $20,941.42 over the corresponding quarter last year, as its share of the distribution of $4,420,637.35 in state motor fuel tax receipts to the 57 counties outside of New York City.

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt announced today the amount is the share of state collected motor fuel tax for the three months ending March 31, which is being returned to the counties in accordance with the State Highway Law.

The law provides that 10 per cent of the state-wide collection of the state's gasoline tax and tax on diesel motor fuel is alloted to the counties on the proportional basis of county road and town highway mileage in each county. The money is earmarked by statute for deposit in the county road funds.

The amount distributed in April last year was $3,606,824.51.

Allocations to neighboring counties was as follows:

Woodstock Man Named to IBM Personnel Post

ALFRED J. BAGNALL

The appointment of Alfred J. Bagnall of Woodstock as field engineering personnel manager has been announced by Richard J. Whalen, general manager of the IBM Federal Systems Division Command Control Center at Kingston.

Bagnall joined IBM in early 1956 as an employment interviewer at the Command Control Center. Two years later he was named personnel representative in the midwestern division, field engineering, at Denver, Colo. Late the following year he was named to a similar post in the newly-formed field engineering western division in Denver, Colo.

Bagnall is a member of the Woodstock Junior Chamber of Commerce, and Delta Sigma Phi and Phi Delta Kappa fraternities. He attended Syracuse University and received a bachelor of arts degree from Alfred University.

He, his wife, Audrey, and children, Thomas, 7, and Diana, 8, reside on 59 Harder Road, Woodstock.

Plan Survey Here Of Real Property For Equalization

ALBANY—Field work in connection with a new statewide survey of real property values will be started soon in Otsego, Tioga and Ulster Counties, the State Board of Equalization and Assessment reported today.

The new survey will determine values based on 1961 market levels. Field work already has been started in Chemung, Schenectady Counties. It is expected the new check of all 57 counties of the state outside of the City of New York will take about two years.

Completing Work

The Equalization Board's staff is now completing field work connected with the statewide survey undertaken in 1959. Work is still being done in Dutchess, Putnam and Rensselaer Counties.

The two-year cycle of real property value surveys is part of the Equalization Board's program to keep state equalization rates more currently geared to market value trends.

The product of the two-year survey is expected to be frequent small adjustments in state equalization rates to reflect market value trends rather than the substantial changes which occurred when property values were surveyed only once every five years.

Information obtained by the board in its 1959 survey will be used for the first time in computing state equalization rates to be established for 1961 assessment rolls.

Seek Cooperation

Again in the new survey, representatives of the Equalization Board will be requesting the cooperation and assistance of local officials and residents. Findings will be discussed with local assessors and other officials as survey work is completed.

Throughout the state, more than 33,000 properties representative of major types of real property in the localities will be appraised by board representatives. A substantial number of these properties will be different than those included on previous survey appraisal lists.

The rates established by the board is expressed as a percentage the assessed value bears to market value. When market values rise but assessments do not, rates drop.

A rate of 50, as an example, would mean that a community assesses property for tax purposes at half its actual value. A reduction in rate will affect the state aid to be received by a town and in some cases will reflect higher school taxes.

©THE WEST END BREWING COMPANY OF UTICA, N.Y.

What was it about the beer in those days that tasted so good?

by Walter J. Matt

This picture was taken at our brewery's annual clambake in the summer of 1895.

When my father came to this country from Germany in 1878, he had some very strong convictions about the way beer should be made.

He had learned the trade in the celebrated brewery of the Duke of Baden in the Black Forest region. And up to the day he died, 3 years ago, at the age of 99, he felt that many of the old ways were still the best ways to make beer (although they were certainly not the fastest).

Three years ago, when I returned from Europe with some movies I had taken of the Baden brewery that he loved so, he turned to me with tears in his eyes and said, "You see, Walter, all those wonderful things I told you about Baden — they were really so."

What my father learned about beer in the old country

My father believed in the natural way of making beer. He felt that beer should be made from the harvest, not from the laboratory.

In later years, when many breweries turned to using syrups and extracts as a convenience, my father would have none of it.

To this day, only whole grain is ever used in Utica Club beer. No commercial syrups or extracts.

My father ran his brewery the way mother ran her kitchen. Right up to his 90th year, he even did the shopping himself. And he bought nothing but the best. Ever since I can remember, the malt we've used in Utica Club has been "choice grade." This is not one of those vague words that anyone can use — like "fine," for example — but the highest grade you can buy.

My father was so proud of the ingredients he used that he put them right on the label for the whole world to see. You can see them there today.

My father felt that being a brewer was a way of life, not just a way of making a living. You could find him among the kettles and vats in the brewery every day. Even on Sunday he would come in for several hours to check the aging beer, because beer is a living thing that must be looked after every minute until it is bottled.

My father felt that brewing was an art, not a science. An art that you hand down to your children. (That's my father in the middle, my brother Frank on the right and me on the left.)

He had the old-world philosophy that the head man in a brewery should be a brewmaster, first and foremost, rather than a salesman or a financier. And he himself was one of the greatest brewmasters this country has ever known.

Real foam vs. artificial bubbles

Now it may surprise you to learn that many of the beers in the U.S. today are artificially carbonated. (What they do is inject carbon dioxide under pressure into the beer while it is in the storage tank.) This makes it possible for a brewer to reduce the aging time to 2 or 3 weeks and still turn out a beer with "life."

My father felt that beer should have a natural life of its own; no artificial carbonation.

To create this natural life, a beer must be aged for months instead of for weeks. Not in a bottle in a warehouse, you understand, but in refrigerated vats, under close supervision.

Natural aging is a very expensive proposition, requiring 3 or 4 times as much storage space, 3 or 4 times as many of the huge vats, and 3 or 4 times as much refrigeration capacity. (In other words, a very substantial investment in extra equipment to turn out the same quantity of beer.)

Does all this trouble really pay?

You have to be something of a saint to do it. Especially during the warm weather months, when the dealers are hollering for their beer. It takes a very stubborn man to tell them they can't have their beer because it hasn't been aged enough yet. But my father was a very stubborn man.

What a difference it makes in the taste of a glass of beer when it's made this way.

It has character. The head is thick and creamy. The taste is mellow and mature.

And this is the way we still make Utica Club beer today (except that it's light, not dark). It is one of the few beers left in the country that has a natural life of its own.

However, I will be the first to admit that not everybody likes it. People who were brought up on highly carbonated postwar beers might find Utica Club a little too different at first.

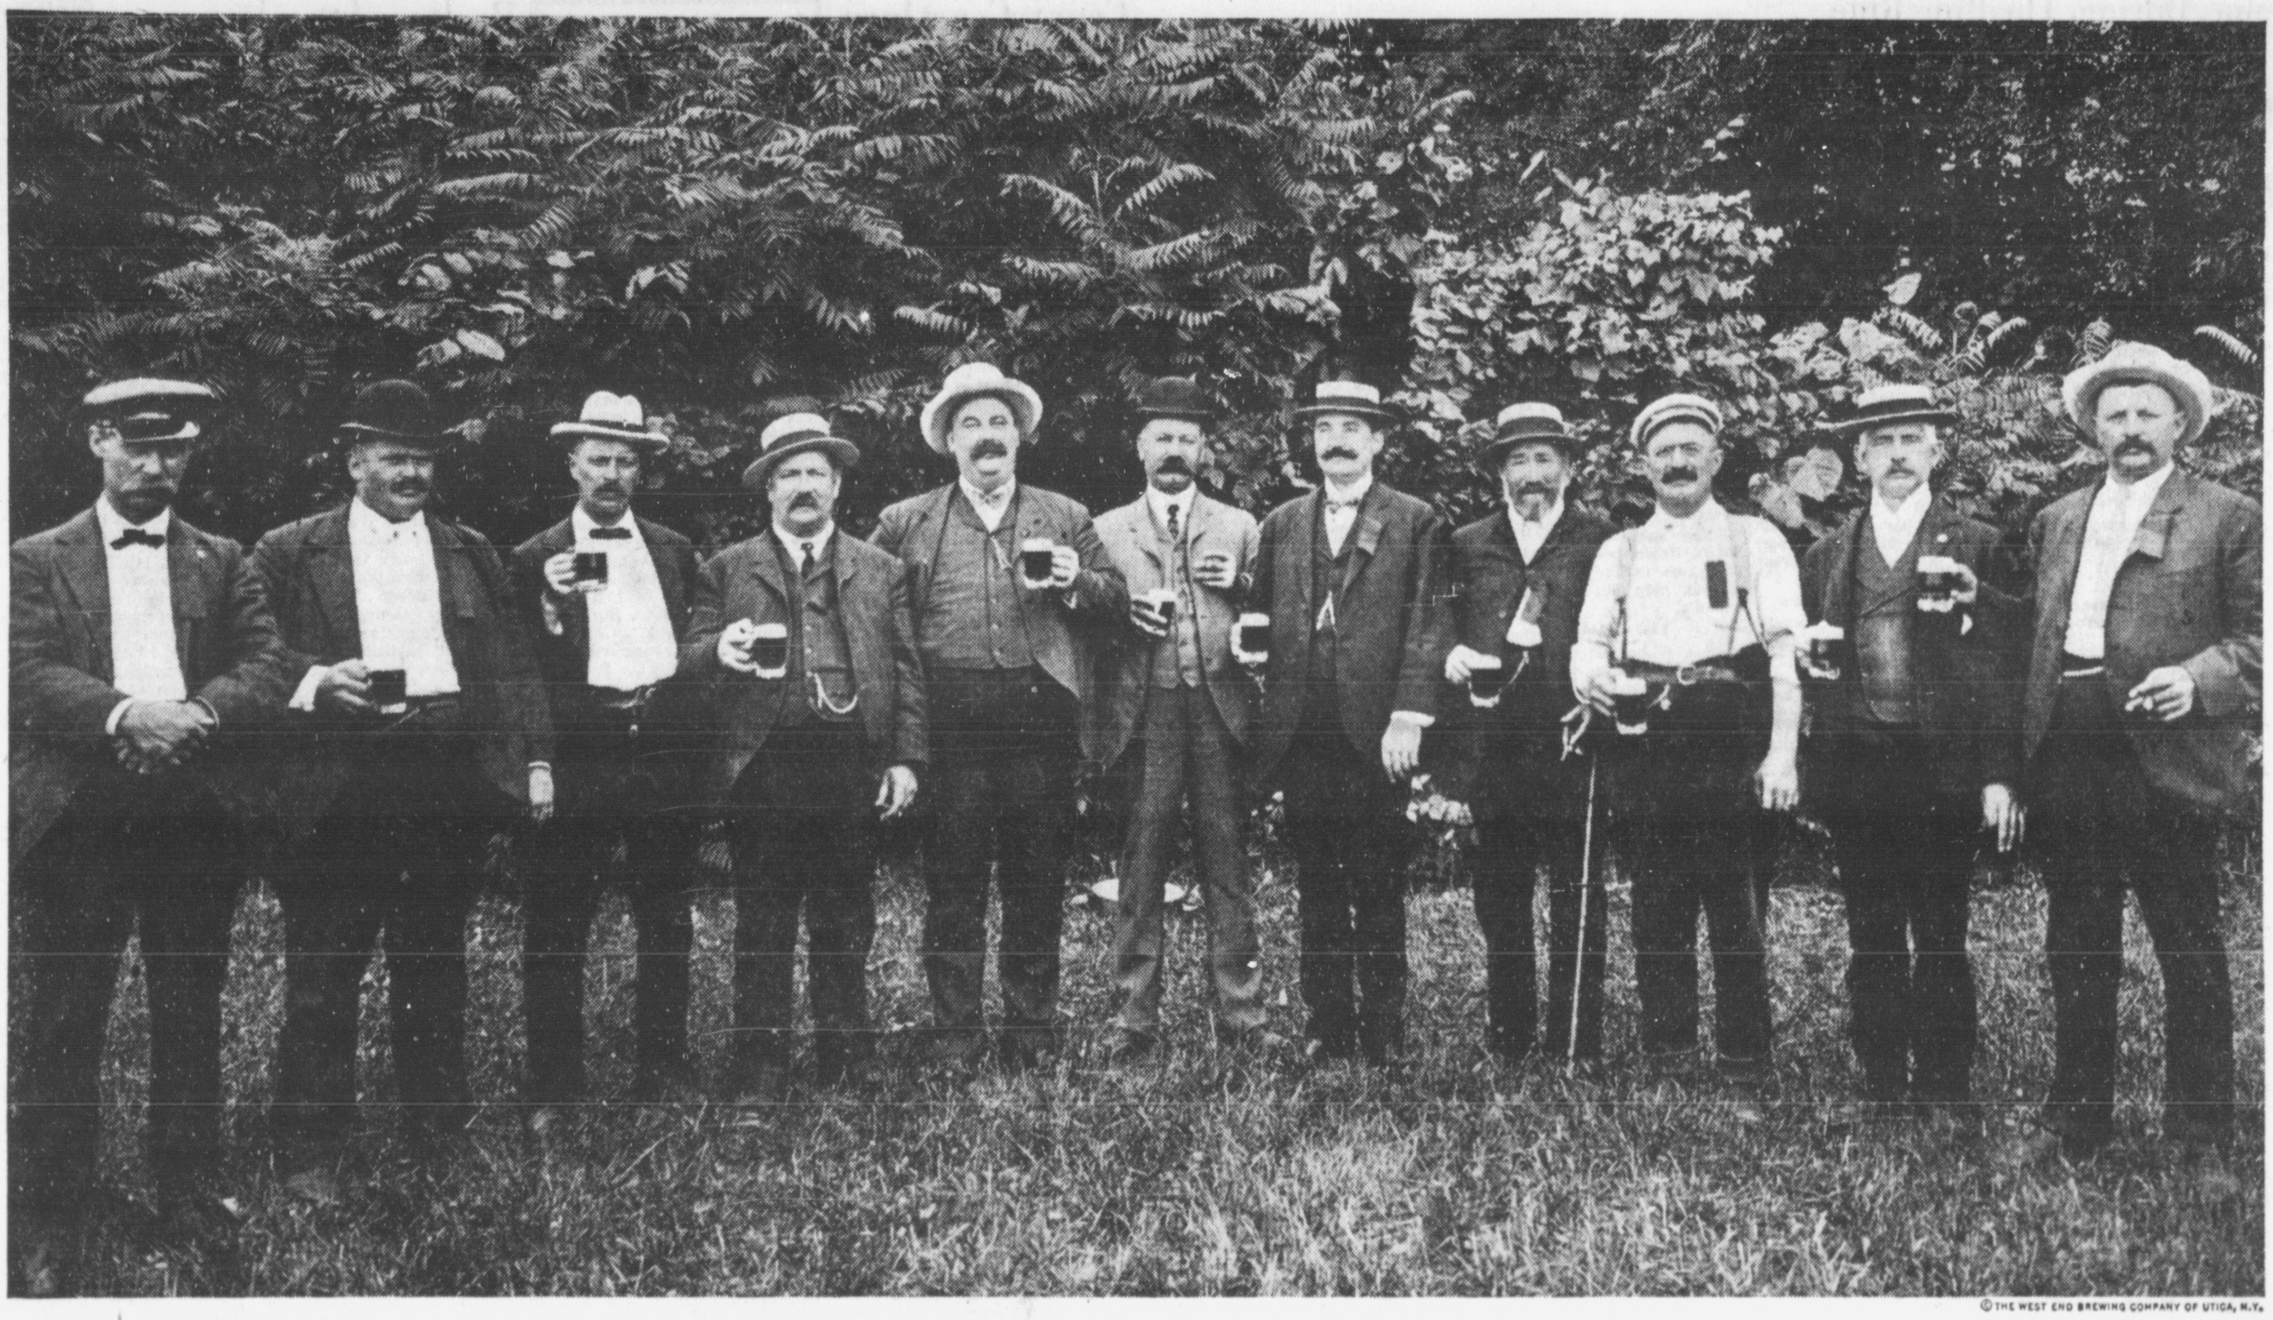

But if you're the beer drinker who's been paying a premium price to get the imported German, Danish or Dutch brands, your reaction to Utica Club will probably be, "Why didn't somebody tell me about this before?"

Just remember: A naturally-aged beer like Utica Club should be poured "with a whack." (Don't tilt the glass.) If it's a can of Utica Club, try it with one punch only, using a full-sized punch. Makes quite a difference in the taste.

And let me know how you like it.

What was it about the beer in those days that tasted so good?

by Walter J. Matt

This picture was taken at our brewery's annual clambake in the summer of 1895.

My father, F. X. Matt, is the fifth man from the right.

When my father came to this country from Germany in 1878, he had some very strong convictions about the way beer should be made.

He had learned the trade in the celebrated brewery of the Duke of Baden in the Black Forest region. And up to the day he died, 3 years ago, at the age of 99, he felt that many of the old ways were still the best ways to make beer (although they were certainly not the fastest).

Three years ago, when I returned from Europe with some movies I had taken of the Baden brewery that he loved so, he turned to me with tears in his eyes and said, "You see, Walter, all those wonderful things I told you about Baden — they were really so."

What my father learned about beer in the old country

My father believed in the natural way of making beer. He felt that beer should be made from the harvest, not from the laboratory.

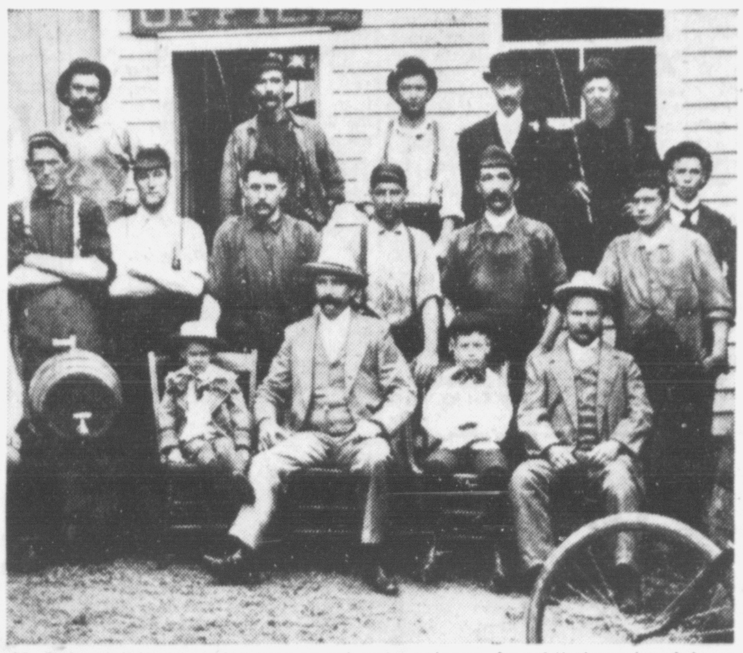

In later years, when many breweries turned to using syrups and extracts as a convenience, my father would have none of it.

To this day, only whole grain is ever used in Utica Club beer. No commercial syrups or extracts.

My father ran his brewery the way mother ran her kitchen. Right up to his 90th year, he even did the shopping himself. And he bought nothing but the best. Ever since I can remember, the malt we've used in Utica Club has been "choice grade." This is not one of those vague words that anyone can use — like "fine," for example — but the highest grade you can buy.

My father was so proud of the ingredients he used that he put them right on the label for the whole world to see. You can see them there today.

My father felt that being a brewer was a way of life, not just a way of making a living. You could find him among the kettles and vats in the brewery every day. Even on Sunday he would come in for several hours to check the aging beer, because beer is a living thing that must be looked after every minute until it is bottled.

My father felt that brewing was an art, not a science. An art that you hand down to your children. (That's my father in the middle, my brother Frank on the right and me on the left.)

He had the old-world philosophy that the head man in a brewery should be a brewmaster, first and foremost, rather than a salesman or a financier. And he himself was one of the greatest brewmasters this country has ever known.

Real foam vs. artificial bubbles

Now it may surprise you to learn that many of the beers in the U.S. today are artificially carbonated. (What they do is inject carbon dioxide under pressure into the beer while it is in the storage tank.) This makes it possible for a brewer to reduce the aging time to 2 or 3 weeks and still turn out a beer with "life."

My father felt that beer should have a natural life of its own; no artificial carbonation.

To create this natural life, a beer must be aged for months instead of for weeks. Not in a bottle in a warehouse, you understand, but in refrigerated vats, under close supervision.

Natural aging is a very expensive proposition, requiring 3 or 4 times as much storage space, 3 or 4 times as many of the huge vats, and 3 or 4 times as much refrigeration capacity. (In other words, a very substantial investment in extra equipment to turn out the same quantity of beer.)

Awesome, Daring, Thrilling Ride

Soviet Astronaut Makes History And Puts Moon, Mars Bit Closer

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—In an awesome, daring and thrilling ride, a Soviet astronaut has just turned a momentous page in human history.

For, says Moscow, he has realized the ancient human dream of vaulting into space and safely back home again.

Still ahead, but closer now, lies the goals of leaping to the moon or Mars, or beyond, in the space ocean of so many tantalizing mysteries.

Benefits for All

Human exploration of space may well reap untold and surprising new benefits for all people. Or space could become, perhaps, just an extended arena for the political-military testings of men since history began.

The Soviet Union is first, apparently as the result of a careful five-year-plan or so calculated to seize this prize.

It is another triumph in rapid-fire reachings which have skimmed much of the glory of firsts in the young space age.

This is the first toe-step, by a doughty pioneer. But space beckons many more Russian, American and other space astronauts, to till a fertile new field which now lies open.

The world will read with interest Maj. Yuri Gagarin's eyewitness account of what he felt, what he may have seen of the earth rolling beneath him, or perhaps stars in diamond brilliance in the blackness of space.

Experience Regulates Future

Upon his experience depends, partly, the question how soon other men go up, and how far. Is space perhaps too hazardous—are there dangers which had not been foreseen?

The Soviets gave clear notice of their push for manned flight back in November 1957, with Sputnik II. It carried up the dog, Laika. She perished, with no attempt made to recover her.

But this was the first testing whether a living body could withstand the unknowns of crushing, increased weight of rocket take-off, and the weightlessness of floating in space. And whether life truly could be supported against the hazards of radiation and streaking meteors.

To these questions, Laika answered "yes."

Some space experts think the Soviet Union had started a good two years earlier in preparing the way for man into space, and other exploits.

Few Main Goals

All give her unquestionably the advantage of tremendously powerful booster rockets to lift heavy, and roomy, satellites.

Some say the Soviet Union was quicker to realize the potential for war—and space—of rockets developed by the Germans in World War II.

Others credit the Soviets' rapid advances also to faster development of excellent guidance systems, and to concentration upon a few main goals.

The first three Sputniks circled near the earth—testing the problems of near-earth space. Then, abruptly, the Soviets shot for the moon, hitting it, photographing its backside, sending a rocket into orbit around the sun.

Then, starting last year, came the launching of huge five-ton and seven-ton spacecraft around the earth. These carried dogs and other life, preparatory to man.

A hitch developed, apparently, last December when a mistake caused the spacecraft to go amiss and burn up in the atmosphere.

It was a rare admission of any failure.

But Reds Come Up With Big One

U.S. Launchings Exceed Soviet Firings by 3-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. rocket and satellite launchings have exceeded Soviet firings by almost 3-1. There were 27 American space objects orbiting the earth in late 1960 and only 10 Soviet. The United States then had two spheres whizzing around the sun and the Soviet Union one.

Reds More Spectacular

But Soviet space feats have consistently been more spectacular and have been "firsts"—starting with man's first scientific thrust beyond his earthly moorings, the original Sputnik sent up by Moscow on Oct. 4, 1957.

Sputnik I weighed 184 pounds, compared with later space objects weighing several tons, and reached a peak orbital limit of 588 miles into space.

Soviet scientists followed up that launching exactly a month later with another even more astounding. They sent up Sputnik II with a dog, Laika, aboard the 1,119-pound sphere. The satellite zoomed spaceward to a distance of 1,045 miles but burned up when it re-entered the earth's atmosphere and the dog perished.

Sputnik III went up May 15, 1958, with 2,919 pounds to a maximum height of 1,175 miles. It burned up in the atmosphere more than two years later—Aug. 6, 1960.

Lunik Goes Farther Out

The next Soviet rocket on Aug. 27, 1958, sent up two dogs in a still heavier object—3,718 pounds. They did not go as high—280 miles—but were brought back down, alive.

The Soviets ventured farther out into space during 1959. A "Lunik" space rocket passed the moon Jan. 2 and went into orbit around the sun five days later. It weighed 3,832 pounds.

On July 2 a dog and a rabbit took the Soviets into the 2-ton payload class when they rode a 4,400-pound sphere out and back.

Lunik II hit the moon Sept. 13. The 3,324-pound object staked a claim by carrying a banner with the Soviet coat of arms. Lunik III circled the moon Oct. 4 in a Sputnik two-year anniversary launching, photographed its dark side and relayed the pictures to Moscow by television. Lunik III weighed 3,416 pounds.

The Soviets sent a cosmic ship with a dummy man into orbit May 15, 1960. It weighed 4½ tons and climbed as high as 230 miles.

Later in 1960—on Aug. 19—a second cosmic ship weighing just over 5 tons took the dogs Belka and Strelka around the earth with mice, flies and plant life aboard. They flew outward 210 miles and returned safely to earth.

Triple Launching

Eight days later, using a multi-stage rocket with powerful new thrust, the Soviets worked a triple-launching system to send a half-ton interplanetary station on its way to Venus. It was destined to arrive close to the surface of Venus ir the middle of May, when the planet's distance from earth is about 30 million miles.

Another animal-carrying Soviet space ship was fired March 9. It took the dog Chernushka—Blackie—around the earth 155 miles up and brought her down without ill effects. Other small animal life was aboard that 5-ton vehicle.

West Thinks So

Soviet Say No Astronauts Lost Lives in Tests

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

No, Soviet officials insist.

But some Western sources say they believe one or a few Russians did perish in unsuccessful attempts. Brig. Gen. Don Flickinger, head of the medical section of the U.S. Air Force astronaut selection and training program, says he thinks so.

"Utter fabrication," is the Soviet reply.

County Court Jury Will Decide on Jackson's Games

Whether Dell Jackson, proprietor of a taxi service and candy store on West Strand, operated a game room in his establishment and violated the gambling law, will be decided by a jury in County Court.

Jackson was indicted on a charge of violating Section 970, Penal Law, between May 1 and October 1, 1960, at his place of business by permitting gambling on the premises. The charge is that he "cut" the game and thereby violated the common gambler law.

Witnesses for the prosecution, represented by Assistant District Attorney Francis Vogt, testified they had visited the Jackson place on various occasions during the time specified and that Dell "cut" the game. While he "cut" the game he also played in the games and frequently lost to other players.

Among those who testified at the morning session today was Agnes M. Lovlid of Chambers Street, who testified she had been at the Jackson place on occasions and observed him "cut" games.

Also testifying that he had visited the place and played pinochle was Hydrecht S. Armstrong, former Kingston police officer and guard at the IBM Kingston plant. Armstrong testified he had observed Jackson "cut" games which were played in the rear room of the West Strand place.

In front was a candy store which was patronized by those playing cards in the rear room.

Not His Living: Contention

Appearing for Jackson was Charles Saccoman who contended the defendant had not violated the gambling law since he was a player in the game and did not make his living by gambling, but through his taxi service and store.

Prior to summations just before noon, Saccoman moved to dismiss the indictment on the grounds the prosecution had failed to show that Jackson had "continuously" operated a gambling room between May and October 1960 and that he had "made a living" through gambling.

Motion Denied

Acting Judge Francis X. Tucker before whom the case was tried denied the motion. The indictment was returned during the term of County Judge Raymond J. Mino, who therefore disqualified himself to preside, and referred the matter to Judge Tucker.

Summations were completed prior to the noon recess and Judge Tucker reserved his charge to the jury until court convened this afternoon.

Israel Says . . .

I ask?" Hausner asked. "The International Court in The Hague has no jurisdicition over individuals."

Hausner's outburst came in he second morning of Eichmann's trial on Israeli charges of "crimes against the Jewish people and crimes against humanity." One of these is the crime of genocide—mass murder. The state alleges that Eichmann, as chief of the Jewish Affairs Section of the Nazi Gestapo, bears direct responsibility for the slaughter of an estimated six million Jews.

Hausner reminded the three-judge court that in thousands of years of Jewish history there had been previous attempts to wipe the Jewish people off the face of the earth.

Then, suddenly raising his voice and stabbing the air with his left hand, he said: "There is no no pardon and there can be no forgetting."

Looks Little Haggard

Eichmann looked a little haggard when he came into court on this second day. His wispy hair was slightly rumpled. Dark circles ringed his eyes. He coughed frequently, blew his nose, and removed his spectacles to wipe his eys.

Through most of the morning session, he sat quite still, cupping his chin on his right hand. He made only one or two penciled notes on the paper in front of him.

The only time he showed any animation was in the moment before the judges came into the courtroom. Then, speaking through the private microphone in the glass-enclosed prisoner's dock, he exchanged a few words with his chief defense lawyer, Dr. Robert Servatius of Cologne, West Germany.

But Reds Come Up With Big One

U.S. Launchings Exceed Soviet Firings by 3-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. rocket and satellite launchings have exceeded Soviet firings by almost 3-1. There were 27 American space objects orbiting the earth in late 1960 and only 10 Soviet. The United States then had two spheres whizzing around the sun and the Soviet Union one.

Reds More Spectacular

But Soviet space feats have consistently been more spectacular and have been "firsts"—starting with man's first scientific thrust beyond his earthly moorings, the original Sputnik sent up by Moscow on Oct. 4, 1957.

Sputnik I weighed 184 pounds, compared with later space objects weighing several tons, and reached a peak orbital limit of 588 miles into space.

Soviet scientists followed up that launching exactly a month later with another even more astounding. They sent up Sputnik II with a dog, Laika, aboard the 1,119-pound sphere. The satellite zoomed spaceward to a distance of 1,045 miles but burned up when it re-entered the earth's atmosphere and the dog perished.

Sputnik III went up May 15, 1958, with 2,919 pounds to a maximum height of 1,175 miles. It burned up in the atmosphere more than two years later—Aug. 6, 1960.

Lunik Goes Farther Out

The next Soviet rocket on Aug. 27, 1958, sent up two dogs in a still heavier object—3,718 pounds. They did not go as high—280 miles—but were brought back down, alive.

The Soviets ventured farther out into space during 1959. A "Lunik" space rocket passed the moon Jan. 2 and went into orbit around the sun five days later. It weighed 3,832 pounds.

On July 2 a dog and a rabbit took the Soviets into the 2-ton payload class when they rode a 4,400-pound sphere out and back.

Lunik II hit the moon Sept. 13. The 3,324-pound object staked a claim by carrying a banner with the Soviet coat of arms. Lunik III circled the moon Oct. 4 in a Sputnik two-year anniversary launching, photographed its dark side and relayed the pictures to Moscow by television. Lunik III weighed 3,416 pounds.

The Soviets sent a cosmic ship with a dummy man into orbit May 15, 1960. It weighed 4½ tons and climbed as high as 230 miles.

Later in 1960—on Aug. 19—a second cosmic ship weighing just over 5 tons took the dogs Belka and Strelka around the earth with mice, flies and plant life aboard. They flew outward 210 miles and returned safely to earth.

Triple Launching

Eight days later, using a multi-stage rocket with powerful new thrust, the Soviets worked a triple-launching system to send a half-ton interplanetary station on its way to Venus. It was destined to arrive close to the surface of Venus in the middle of May, when the planet's distance from earth is about 30 million miles.

Another animal-carrying Soviet space ship was fired March 9. It took the dog Chernushka—Blackie—around the earth 155 miles up and brought her down without ill effects. Other small animal life was aboard that 5-ton vehicle.

West Thinks So

Soviet Say No Astronauts Lost Lives in Tests

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

No, Soviet officials insist.

But some Western sources say they believe one or a few Russians did perish in unsuccessful attempts. Brig. Gen. Don Flickinger, head of the medical section of the U.S. Air Force astronaut selection and training program, says he thinks so.

"Utter fabrication," is the Soviet reply.

CountyCourtJury Will Decide on Jackson's Games

Whether Dell Jackson, proprietor of a taxi service and candy store on West Strand, operated a game room in his establishment and violated the gambling law, will be decided by a jury in County Court.

Jackson was indicted on a charge of violating Section 970, Penal Law, between May 1 and October 1, 1960, at his place of business by permitting gambling on the premises. The charge is that he "cut" the game and thereby violated the common gambler law.

Witnesses for the prosecution, represented by Assistant District Attorney Francis Vogt, testified they had visited the Jackson place on various occasions during the time specified and that Dell "cut" the game. While he "cut" the game he also played in the games and frequently lost to other players.

Among those who testified at the morning session today was Agnes M. Lovlid of Chambers Street, who testified she had been at the Jackson place on occasions and observed him "cut" games.

Also testifying that he had visited the place and played pinochle was Hydrecht S. Armstrong, former Kingston police officer and guard at the IBM Kingston plant. Armstrong testified he had observed Jackson "cut" games which were played in the rear room of the West Strand place.

In front was a candy store which was patronized by those playing cards in the rear room.

Not His Living: Contention

Appearing for Jackson was Charles Saccoman who contended the defendant had not violated the gambling law since he was a player in the game and did not make his living by gambling, but through his taxi service and store.

Prior to summations just before noon, Saccoman moved to dismiss the indictment on the grounds the prosecution had failed to show that Jackson had "continuously" operated a gambling room between May and October 1960 and that he had "made a living" through gambling.

Motion Denied

Acting Judge Francis X. Tucker before whom the case was tried denied the motion. The indictment was returned during the term of County Judge Raymond J. Mino, who therefore disqualified himself to preside, and referred the matter to Judge Tucker.

Summations were completed prior to the noon recess and Judge Tucker reserved his charge to the jury until court convened this afternoon.

Israel Says . . .

I ask?" Hausner asked. "The International Court in The Hague has no jurisdicition over individuals."

Hausner's outburst came in he second morning of Eichmann's trial on Israeli charges of "crimes against the Jewish people and crimes against humanity." One of these is the crime of genocide—mass murder. The state alleges that Eichmann, as chief of the Jewish Affairs Section of the Nazi Gestapo, bears direct responsibility for the slaughter of an estimated six million Jews.

Hausner reminded the three-judge court that in thousands of years of Jewish history there had been previous attempts to wipe the Jewish people off the face of the earth.

Then, suddenly raising his voice and stabbing the air with his left hand, he said: "There is no no pardon and there can be no forgetting."

Looks Little Haggard

Eichmann looked a little haggard when he came into court on this second day. His wispy hair was slightly rumpled. Dark circles ringed his eyes. He coughed frequently, blew his nose, and removed his spectacles to wipe his eys.

Through most of the morning session, he sat quite still, cupping his chin on his right hand. He made only one or two penciled notes on the paper in front of him.

The only time he showed any animation was in the moment before the judges came into the courtroom. Then, speaking through the private microphone in the glass-enclosed prisoner's dock, he exchanged a few words with his chief defense lawyer, Dr. Robert Servatius of Cologne, West Germany.

Praise, Quips Greet Report Of Space Man

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union's man-in-space feat drew praise and a quip or two today from a group of American college students touring the Soviet Union.

Karen O'Brien, of Potsdam, N. Y., said with a broad smile on her face:

"He is probably lonelier than we are."

She added soberly:

"Our guides have been giving us all kinds of propaganda since we have been here, but I don't think they would announce this unless it was true."

Kathleen Burns of Rochester, N. Y., commented:

"I think it is swell—but God help him whoever he is. I really think they are ahead of us scientifically.

"We have seen some wonderful scientific equipment in the high schools here. I wish our universities had it so good."

"The achievement of putting up a man is certainly magnified by what you see in the streets of Moscow," William Tonne of Secaucus, N. J., said, to which Miss Burns added:

"The government must put its money some place. You certainly don't observe the results among the people. I have never seen poorly dressed people."

Teacher Is Found With Wrist Cut, Saved by Hull

Mrs. Myers, who resides with her mother, Mrs. Agnes Cross, and her daughter, Brenda, 16, at 2 Park Circle, Mt. Marion, had reportedly been suffering from a nervous condition.

Razor is Found

Kingston state police reported that a straight-edged razor was found at the scene.

Trooper Edward Whalen said Mrs. Myers suffered a severe laceration, cutting all the tendons in her wrist. There was no note.

She parked her car on the sideroad, apparently cutting her wrist in the car, then getting out of the vehicle and crossing the road to the opposite (westerly) side, state police said.

Hull Applies Tourniquet

Vernon Hull, 44, of 187 Downs Street, and Robert DeGroat, 32, of Colonial Gardens who had been working in the vicinity, found Mrs. Myers a few moments later collapsed alongside the road. Both men are employed by Bert Bishop of Kingston.

While DeGroat ran for help, Hull applied a tourniquet to Mrs. Myers' upper arm, "which saved her life," Trooper Whalen told The Freeman.

DeGroat called state police and Fatum's Ambulance, which rushed Mrs. Myers to Kingston Hospital. Hospital authorities described her condition today as "apparently fair." Mrs. Myers is a widow.

Cpl. Edward Shannon and Trooper Charles Teelon, both BCI, of the local state police, joined Trooper Whalen in the investigation.

Flames Damage Residence Here, Trailer Burns

Firemen were dispatched to the home of Dr. John Olivet, 75 St. James Street at 9:11 a. m. today to extinguish fire which damaged the walls, ceiling and an oriental rug in a living room.

Firemen were called out twice Tuesday -- at 11:17 a. m. when a motor on a combination washer-dryer caused smoke in the home of William J. O'Reilly Jr., 55 West Chestnut Street, and at 12:27 p. m. to extinguish fire in a U-Haul trailer.

Woman Reports Blast

Fire Chief James M. Brett and Deputy Chief Edwin Murphy were in charge of firemen from Wiltwyck and Central Fire Stations, who responded to the alarm for fire in the Olivet home which was sounded after a woman reported she heard an explosion.

According to fire officials, Harold Stingle, of 17 Josephine Avenue was using steel wool and paint remover to take varnish off a wooden panel when the wool apparently came in contact with an electric fixture, causing a spark which ignited varnish on the wall and a canvass drop on the floor.

Trailer Is Damaged

Fire damage was confined to the walls, ceiling and rug.

Engine 1 was sent to the O'Reilly home yesterday and firemen disconnected the smoking motor on the washer-dryer.

The origin of the fire which damaged a wooden trailer owned by the U-Haul Corp., Portland, Oregon, parked at Ruger's Service Station, 550 Albany Avenue, was not determined.

Apparatus from Wiltwyck and Wick's Fire stations extinguished the trailer fire, which caused extensive damage. Firemen used a booster line and pressurized water to quell the flames.

Deputy Chief Murphy was in charge of firemen.

Dykstra Named Ford Co. Head

DETROIT (AP)—John Dykstra was named president of Ford Motor Co. today.

Dykstra, who has been vice president in charge of manufacturing, succeeds Henry Ford II, who took over temporarily after Robert S. McNamara resigned to become secretary of defense.

Ford will continue as chairman and chief executive officer of the company founded by his grandfather.

Dykstra, a native of Steins, Holland, will be 63 on Sunday. He is a former executive of the old Hudson Motor Car Co. and former manufacturing manager for Oldsmobile Division of General Motors. He has been with Ford since March 1947.

Henry Ford II stepped down as president last Nov. 9 in favor of McNamara. That shift lasted only one month before President Kennedy summoned McNamara to Washington. Ford officially resumed his dual role of president and chairman on Jan. 3.

At the time, he said the move was temporary because he felt the job should be divided.

President Won't Oppose UN Talk On Peiping Seat

LONDON (AP)—In a reversal of long-standing policy, President Kennedy's administration has decided not to oppose U.N. debate next fall on Red China's bid for a seat in the United Nations, informed diplomats reported today.

Instead the U.S. government is working on new strategy to keep Peiping out of the world body—at least until 1962. The diplomats said Kennedy told British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan at their meeting last week he needs at least 12 months to prepare Americans to accept the Red Chinese into the world organization.

The informants, familiar with some details of President Kennedy's talks with Macmillan in Washington last week, gave this account:

Macmillan told Kennedy the West is running out of votes in the United Nations to keep the question of seating Communist China off the U.N. assembly agenda and that an attempt next fall to prevent a full debate on the issue will carry the danger of a humiliating defeat.

Kennedy generally agreed. He indicated Washington, too, thinks the moratorium cannot be sustained. But it emerged clearly that he considers the American people need more time in which to accustom themselves to the idea of Peiping's entry into the United Nations.

Chamber Adopts

S. James Matthews, Parks and Recreation; H. Irving Etchells, State Legislative Affairs and Lawrence A. Quilty, chairman of the Traffic and Transportation Committee.

Statements for the annual renewal of Chamber of Commerce memberships will be sent out about a week before the beginning of the fiscal year on May 1.

All Chamber of Commerce memberships renewals will now become payable at that time. Those previously paid at different times of the year will be pro-rated. The new membership signs for all paid-up members, starting on May 1, will bear the expiration date of April 30, 1962.

Two other actions taken last night involved area highway directional signals. An effort will be made to re-open the question of modifying the large signs at the Broadway - Albany Avenue interchange because of the many objections heard. An effort will also be made to have a directional sign also indicating Kingston for the Washington Avenue approach to the city from the traffic circle at the Thruway exit.

One-Day Member Drive

Pepper and Egbert are developing plans for an intensive one-day drive for new Chamber of Commerce members. It will probably be held very early in May, May 1 being the start of the fiscal year. The drive last year, headed by Egbert resulted in 87 new members for 1960-61. The goal for this year will be 75. If the usual very high percentage of renewals come in and the goal for new members is reached, considerably more funds than now budgeted will be available for promotional purposes.

The next regular meeting of the Chamber Board of Directors will take place May 9.

Teacher to Face Trial on Monday At Poughkeepsie

Twenty-one of 24 indictment counts pending against Gabriel Deeb, 36, of Hyde Park, a suspended Arlington Junior High School teacher, were dismissed Tuesday by acting Dutchess County Judge W. Vincent Grady.

Assistant District Attorney Eugene Frink joined former assistant district attorney Edward A. Miller, attorney for Deeb, in consenting to the dismissal of the counts.

Deeb is scheduled for trial on Monday, April 17, on three counts which accuse him of committing a morals offense with a boy.

Driver Is Held After Auto Fires

A Kingston man whose car went out of control on Main Street in East Kingston late Tuesday afternoon was arrested shortly before midnight for leaving the scene of a property damage accident.

Gerald Tierney, 24, of 18 Otis Street, was issued a summons by Trooper Edward Whalen of the Kingston state police.

His arrest followed an investigation resulting from two fires which broke out in his automobile—one about 7 p. m., the other shortly after 10 p. m.

Trooper Whalen said that the first fire, which apparently resulted from a lighted cigarette butt in the upholstery of the seat, was extinguished by the East Kingston Fire Department. The car was parked on Main Street, East Kingston, at the time.

Fire broke out again about 10:15 p. m. and the fire company again dispatched equipment to the scene. Firemen also notified state police who dispatched Trooper Whalen to investigate.

The 1954 sedan was described as a total loss. The case is still under investigation.

State Will . . .

Regents' Scholarships — The number of Regents' scholarships available for the 1961 fall semester is changed from a percentage basis—now 5 per cent of the total high school graduating class—to a flat number, 17,000. In effect, this doubles the number of scholarships awarded most recently.

In addition, the bill eliminates the 2,500 special engineering and science scholarships and increases from 300 to 600 the number of nursing scholarships.

Regents' scholarships range from $250 to $700 a year, depending on need.

State Pays All Interest

Student Loans—The Higher Education Assistance Corp., which has arranged student loans at low interest since it was created in 1958, now can lend a student up to $1,500 in one year and up to $7,500 over his college career. The previ limits limits were $1,000 and $5,000.

In addition, the state will pay all interest while the student is in college. After graduation, the student will assume interest payments up to 3 per cent and the state any amount above that to a limit of 6 per cent.

Depending on the amount borrowed, students will have from 4 to 12 years after leaving college to repay the loans.

Campus Construction — The bill provides a method by which the state could guarantee $500 million in bonds to be issued by the State Dormitory Authority, if voters approve in the statewide election next November. The authority, henceforth to be known as the New York State College Buildings Authority, constructs buildings at public and private colleges.

fine bushy brows and high forehead."

Gagarn, 27, and his wife, a medical school graduate, have two daughters. He comes from the Smolensk area.

Praise From Khrushchev

Premier Khrushchev sent his congratulations, and said: "The whole Soviet people admires your glorious exploit, which will be remembered through the ages as an example of courage, valor and heroism in the service of mankind."

Khrushchev, who has been vacationing on the Black Sea, said he expected to see the astronaut soon in Moscow.

The spaceship, similar to those the Soviet Union has used to retrieve dogs from space, was named Vostok, or east.

The maximum of its orbit sent it 188 miles above the earth, while the minimum of the circling swing was 110 miles.

The official announcement said: "On April 12, 1961, at 9:07 a.m. the spaceship satellite Vostok, carrying a man on board, ascended into space and, having accomplished a flight around the globe, successfully landed on the sacred soil of our Motherland, the Soviet Union."

Woman in Coma 5½ Years Dies

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—Mrs. Delores G. Ruslow, 28, of Gloversville, who has been in a coma since she was injured 5½ years ago in an automobile accident, died Tuesday.

Mrs. Ruslow had been a patient in Nathan Littauer Hospital since the accident.

She was injured in a crash on the State Thruway.

Two Youths Held For Burglary at Hospital on 7th

Apprehended at the East O'Reilly Street Laundromat Inc. shortly before 11:30 p. m. Tuesday, two 17-year-old youths were later arrested on charges of burglary, first degree and accused of entering Kingston Hospital and ripping open a vending machine on April 7.

Police identified the youths as Donald Van Norstrand, of 621 Broadway, and Arthur Raymond Short Jr., of 141 Chambers Street.

Arraigned today before City Judge Aaron E. Klein the youth waived preliminary examination. The case was remitted to the grand jury for investigation and Van Norstrand and Short were committed to the county jail without bail.

A third youth, identified by police as Raymond Van Norstrand, 17, who had overstayed an Easter vacation leave from Wassaic State School, was turned over to authorities of that institution.

According to police, Patrolman Meyer Levy was driving his car to police headquarters to report for duty about 11:25 p. m. when he spotted a youth standing on the sidewalk in front of the laundromat at 9 East O'Reilly Street. Levy saw two other youths standing near the cigarette vending machine in the building and his suspicions were aroused. He drove to police headquarters and picked up Patrolmen Richard Dempsey and George Dougherty.

The three officers hurried back to the laundromat and took the three youths in custody.

Detectives Leonard Ellsworth and Charles McCullough took statements from the trio, and later lodged burglary charges against Donald Van Norstand and Short.

Information filed by the detectives accused the defendants of breaking into a vending machine at Kingston Hospital and taking $50.45.

Patient, Ordered South, May Deduct Expenses: Ruling

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — In a 2-1 decision, the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled that a patient and his family's living expenses are deductible from his federal income tax if a physician orders him away from home.

The court ruled Tuesday that Robert M. Bilder, a Newark, N.J., attorney, properly deducted transportation and living expenses for himself, his wife and his daughter for the winters of 1954-55-56 when he went to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., for several months on doctor's orders.

Judge Harry E. Kalodner rejected the view of Internal Revenue Service which held that Bilder was entitled only to travel costs. The U.S. Tax Court said Bilder could also deduct his own living expenses but not those of his wife.

Kalodner said that Bilder, suffering from inward stress and tension, needed his family and that his wife "acted more or less as a nurse."

Motel Burglary Probe Continues

Investigation of the $1,900 burglary at the Rochambeau motel, South Road, Town of Poughkeepsie, today was resumed by police of that township.

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "Since I've been selling stocks, I have discovered that the price I receive for my shares is always lower than the quoted price in the papers. Sometimes it is much as a point less. I realize I must pay an extra commission to the odd-lot dealer, but I would appreciate further details." J. M.

A) If the stocks you are selling are listed on a major exchange, I would say that something must be radically wrong.

The usual spread on a listed odd-lot transactions is one-eigth or one-quarter of a point. But is entirely different if over-the-counter sales are involved, because here you have no odd-lot dealer to assist you.

Daily over-the-counter quotations do not represent actual transactions and are intended only as a guide to the range within which securities could have been bought or sold during a stated period. In unlisted transactions of any amount, your broker may act either as agent or as principal.

As agent, he will sell your stock to someone else at the going market price and then deduct his commission charge. As principal, he will take your stock into his own portfolio at a net price, i.e., one which includes his commission plus an allowance for inventory risk. Varying circumstances cause unlisted trades to be handled in either of these two ways.

If you are unhappy about your executions, I suggest that you ask your broker to bill you on an agency basis.

Q) "Our investment club purchased Bristol-Myers shares at 41, a bone of contention among us. I think we should hold." L.L.

A) I couldn't agree with you more. Bristol-Myers (NYSE) recently estimated that 1961 earnings will rise substantially above the $2.05 per share posted in 1960. Numerous new consumer products are being introduced. I look for continued growth in the shares.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Praise, Quips Greet Report Of Space Man

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union's man-in-space feat drew praise and a quip or two today from a group of American college students touring the Soviet Union.

Karen O'Brien, of Potsdam, N. Y., said with a broad smile on her face:

"He is probably lonelier than we are."

She added soberly:

"Our guides have been giving us all kinds of propaganda since we have been here, but I don't think they would announce this unless it was true."

Kathleen Burns of Rochester, N. Y., commented:

"I think it is swell—but God help him whoever he is. I really think they are ahead of us scientifically.

"We have seen some wonderful scientific equipment in the high schools here. I wish our universities had it so good."

"The achievement of putting up a man is certainly magnified by what you see in the streets of Moscow," William Tonne of Secaucus, N. J., said, to which Miss Burns added:

"The government must put its money some place. You certainly don't observe the results among the people. I have never seen poorly dressed people."

Teacher Is Found With Wrist Cut, Saved by Hull

Mrs. Myers, who resides with her mother, Mrs. Agnes Cross, and her daughter, Brenda, 16, at 2 Park Circle, Mt. Marion, had reportedly been suffering from a nervous condition.

Razor is Found

Kingston state police reported that a straight-edged razor was found at the scene.

Trooper Edward Whalen said Mrs. Myers suffered a severe laceration, cutting all the tendons in her wrist. There was no note.

She parked her car on the sideroad, apparently cutting her wrist in the car, then getting out of the vehicle and crossing the road to the opposite (westerly) side, state police said.

Hull Applies Tourniquet

Vernon Hull, 44, of 187 Downs Street, and Robert DeGroat, 32, of Colonial Gardens who had been working in the vicinity, found Mrs. Myers a few moments later collapsed alongside the road. Both men are employed by Bert Bishop of Kingston.

While DeGroat ran for help, Hull applied a tourniquet to Mrs. Myers' upper arm, "which saved her life," Trooper Whalen told The Freeman.

DeGroat called state police and Fatum's Ambulance, which rushed Mrs. Myers to Kingston Hospital. Hospital authorities described her condition today as "apparently fair." Mrs. Myers is a widow.

Cpl. Edward Shannon and Trooper Charles Teelon, both BCI, of the local state police, joined Trooper Whalen in the investigation.

Flames Damage Residence Here, Trailer Burns

Firemen were dispatched to the home of Dr. John Olivet, 75 St. James Street at 9:11 a. m. today to extinguish fire which damaged the walls, ceiling and an oriental rug in a living room.

Firemen were called out twice Tuesday — at 11:17 a. m. when a motor on a combination washer-dryer caused smoke in the home of William J. O'Reilly Jr., 55 West Chestnut Street, and at 12:27 p. m. to extinguish fire in a U-Haul trailer.

Woman Reports Blast

Fire Chief James M. Brett and Deputy Chief Edwin Murphy were in charge of firemen from Wiltwyck and Central Fire Stations, who responded to the alarm for fire in the Olivet home which was sounded after a woman reported she heard an explosion.

According to fire officials, Harold Stingle, of 17 Josephine Avenue was using steel wool and paint remover to take varnish off a wooden panel when the wool apparently came in contact with an electric fixture, causing a spark which ignited varnish on the wall and a canvass drop on the floor.

Trailer Is Damaged

Fire damage was confined to the walls, ceiling and rug.

Engine 1 was sent to the O'Reilly home yesterday and firemen disconnected the smoking motor on the washer-dryer.

The origin of the fire which damaged a wooden trailer owned by the U-Haul Corp., Portland, Oregon, parked at Ruger's Service Station, 550 Albany Avenue, was not determined.

Apparatus from Wiltwyck and Wick's Fire stations extinguished the trailer fire, which caused extensive damage. Firemen used a booster line and pressurized water to quell the flames.

Deputy Chief Murphy was in charge of firemen.

President Won't Oppose UN Talk On Peiping Seat

LONDON (AP)—In a reversal of long-standing policy, President Kennedy's administration has decided not to oppose U.N. debate next fall on Red China's bid for a seat in the United Nations, informed diplomats reported today.

Instead the U.S. government is working on new strategy to keep Peiping out of the world body—at least until 1962. The diplomats said Kennedy told British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan at their meeting last week he needs at least 12 months to prepare Americans to accept the Red Chinese into the world organization.

Macmillan told Kennedy the West is running out of votes in the United Nations to keep the question of seating Communist China off the U.N. assembly agenda and that an attempt next fall to prevent a full debate on the issue will carry the danger of a humiliating defeat.

Kennedy generally agreed. He indicated Washington, too, thinks the moratorium cannot be sustained. But it emerged clearly that he considers the American people need more time in which to accustom themselves to the idea of Peiping's entry into the United Nations.

Chamber Adopts

S. James Matthews, Parks and Recreation; H. Irving Etchells, State Legislative Affairs and Lawrence A. Quilty, chairman of the Traffic and Transportation Committee.

Statements for the annual renewal of Chamber of Commerce memberships will be sent out about a week before the beginning of the fiscal year on May 1.

All Chamber of Commerce memberships renewals will now become payable at that time. Those previously paid at different times of the year will be pro-rated. The new membership signs for all paid-up members, starting on May 1, will bear the expiration date of April 30, 1962.

Two other actions taken last night involved area highway directional signals. An effort will be made to re-open the question of modifying the large signs at the Broadway - Albany Avenue interchange because of the many objections heard. An effort will also be made to have a directional sign also indicating Kingston for the Washington Avenue approach to the city from the traffic circle at the Thruway exit.

One-Day Member Drive

Pepper and Egbert are developing plans for an intensive one-day drive for new Chamber of Commerce members. It will probably be held very early in May, May 1 being the start of the fiscal year. The drive last year, headed by Egbert resulted in 87 new members for 1960-61. The goal for this year will be 75. If the usual very high percentage of renewals come in and the goal for new members is reached, considerably more funds than now budgeted will be available for promotional purposes.

The next regular meeting of the Chamber Board of Directors will take place May 9.

Teacher to Face Trial on Monday At Poughkeepsie

Twenty-one of 24 indictment counts pending against Gabriel Deeb, 36, of Hyde Park, a suspended Arlington Junior High School teacher, were dismissed Tuesday by acting Dutchess County Judge W. Vincent Grady.

Assistant District Attorney Eugene Frink joined former assistant district attorney Edward A. Miller, attorney for Deeb, in consenting to the dismissal of the counts.

Deeb is scheduled for trial on Monday, April 17, on three counts which accuse him of committing a morals offense with a boy.

Driver Is Held After Auto Fires

A Kingston man whose car went out of control on Main Street in East Kingston late Tuesday afternoon was arrested shortly before midnight for leaving the scene of a property damage accident.

Gerald Tierney, 24, of 18 Otis Street, was issued a summons by Trooper Edward Whalen of the Kingston state police.

His arrest followed an investigation resulting from two fires which broke out in his automobile—one about 7 p. m., the other shortly after 10 p. m.

Trooper Whalen said that the first fire, which apparently resulted from a lighted cigarette butt in the upholstery of the seat, was extinguished by the East Kingston Fire Department. The car was parked on Main Street, East Kingston, at the time.

Fire broke out again about 10:15 p. m. and the fire company again dispatched equipment to the scene. Firemen also notified state police who dispatched Trooper Whalen to investigate.

The 1954 sedan was described as a total loss. The case is still under investigation.

State Will . . .

in religious education are ineligible.

Regents' Scholarships — The number of Regents' scholarships available for the 1961 fall semester is changed from a percentage basis—now 5 per cent of the total high school graduating class—to a flat number, 17,000. In effect, this doubles the number of scholarships awarded most recently.

In addition, the bill eliminates the 2,500 special engineering and science scholarships and increases from 300 to 600 the number of nursing scholarships.

Regents' scholarships range from $250 to $700 a year, depending on need.

State Pays All Interest

Student Loans—The Higher Education Assistance Corp., which has arranged student loans at low interest since it was created in 1958, now can lend a student up to $1,500 in one year and up to $7,500 over his college career. The previ limits limits were $1,000 and $5,000.

In addition, the state will pay all interest while the student is in college. After graduation, the student will assume interest payments up to 3 per cent and the state any amount above that to a limit of 6 per cent.

Depending on the amount borrowed, students will have from 4 to 12 years after leaving college to repay the loans.

Campus Construction — The bill provides a method by which the state could guarantee $500 million in bonds to be issued by the State Dormitory Authority, if voters approve in the statewide election next November. The authority, henceforth to be known as the New York State College Buildings Authority, constructs buildings at public and private colleges.

fine bushy brows and high forehead."

Gagarn, 27, and his wife, a medical school graduate, have two daughters. He comes from the Smolensk area.

Praise From Khrushchev

Premier Khrushchev sent his congratulations, and said: "The whole Soviet people admires your glorious exploit, which will be remembered through the ages as an example of courage, valor and heroism in the service of mankind."

Khrushchev, who has been vacationing on the Black Sea, said he expected to see the astronaut soon in Moscow.

The spaceship, similar to those the Soviet Union has used to retrieve dogs from space, was named Vostok, or east.

The maximum of its orbit sent it 188 miles above the earth, while the minimum of the circling swing was 110 miles.

The official announcement said: "On April 12, 1961, at 9:07 a.m. the spaceship satellite Vostok, carrying a man on board, ascended into space and, having accomplished a flight around the globe, successfully landed on the sacred soil of our Motherland, the Soviet Union."

Two Youths Held For Burglary at Hospital on 7th

Apprehended at the East O'Reilly Street Laundromat Inc. shortly before 11:30 p. m. Tuesday, two 17-year-old youths were later arrested on charges of burglary, first degree and accused of entering Kingston Hospital and ripping open a vending machine on April 7.

Police identified the youths as Donald Van Norstrand, of 621 Broadway, and Arthur Raymond Short Jr., of 141 Chambers Street.

Arraigned today before City Judge Aaron E. Klein the youth waived preliminary examination. The case was remitted to the grand jury for investigation and Van Norstrand and Short were committed to the county jail without bail.

A third youth, identified by police as Raymond Van Norstrand, 17, who had overstayed an Easter vacation leave from Wassaic State School, was turned over to authorities of that institution.

According to police, Patrolman Meyer Levy was driving his car to police headquarters to report for duty about 11:25 p. m. when he spotted a youth standing on the sidewalk in front of the laundromat at 9 East O'Reilly Street. Levy saw two other youths standing near the cigarette vending machine in the building and his suspicions were aroused. He drove to police headquarters and picked up Patrolmen Richard Dempsey and George Dougherty.

The three officers hurried back to the laundromat and took the three youths in custody.

Detectives Leonard Ellsworth and Charles McCullough took statements from the trio, and later lodged burglary charges against Donald Van Norstand and Short.

Information filed by the detectives accused the defendants of breaking into a vending machine at Kingston Hospital and taking $50.45.

Patient, Ordered South, May Deduct Expenses: Ruling

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — In a 2-1 decision, the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled that a patient and his family's living expenses are deductible from his federal income tax if a physician orders him away from home.

The court ruled Tuesday that Robert M. Bilder, a Newark, N.J., attorney, properly deducted transportation and living expenses for himself, his wife and his daughter for the winters of 1954-55-56 when he went to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., for several months on doctor's orders.

Judge Harry E. Kalodner rejected the view of Internal Revenue Service which held that Bilder was entitled only to travel costs. The U.S. Tax Court said Bilder could also deduct his own living expenses but not those of his wife.

Kalodner said that Bilder, suffering from inward stress and tension, needed his family and that his wife "acted more or less as a nurse."

Motel Burglary Probe Continues

Investigation of the $1,900 burglary at the Rochambeau motel, South Road, Town of Poughkeepsie, today was resumed by police of that township.

Daily Quotations Serve as Guide for Unlisted Shares

Q) "Since I've been selling stocks, I have discovered that the price I receive for my shares is always lower than the quoted price in the papers. Sometimes it is much as a point less. I realize I must pay an extra commission to the odd-lot dealer, but I would appreciate further details." J. M.

A) If the stocks you are selling are listed on a major exchange, I would say that something must be radically wrong.

The usual spread on a listed odd-lot transactions is one-eigth or one-quarter of a point. But is entirely different if over-the-counter sales are involved, because here you have no odd-lot dealer to assist you.

Daily over-the-counter quotations do not represent actual transactions and are intended only as a guide to the range within which securities could have been bought or sold during a stated period. In unlisted transactions of any amount, your broker may act either as agent or as principal.

As agent, he will sell your stock to someone else at the going market price and then deduct his commission charge. As principal, he will take your stock into his own portfolio at a net price, i.e ., one which includes his commission plus an allowance for inventory risk. Varying circumstances cause unlisted trades to be handled in either of these two ways.

If you are unhappy about your executions, I suggest that you ask your broker to bill you on an agency basis.

Q)"Our investment club purchased Bristol-Myers shares at 41, a bone of contention among us. I think we should hold." L.L.

A) I couldn't agree with you more. Bristol-Myers (NYSE) recently estimated that 1961 earnings will rise substantially above the $2.05 per share posted in 1960. Numerous new consumer products are being introduced. I look for continued growth in the shares.

New Ground Gained in 1961 Legislature

Rocky Looks on Broad, Liberal Program as Model for Nation

EDITOR'S NOTE—The governorship in political crucial New York state will be up for grabs in 1962. Nelson Rockefeller is seeking re-election—perhaps with an eye on presidential '64. That's why his recent legislative record is an informed look at that record and the possibilities ahead.

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y., (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is slowly revamping Republican politics in New York State in what well may be much preparation for a bid for the GOP nomination for president in 1964.

"We've got to get close to the people," in his prescription for returning a Republican — he's not saying who he has in mind—to the White House.

The governor gained new ground in the 1961 legislature on a broad, liberal program he has mapped for the Republican party in New York. He also looks on it as a model for a national policy.

Basically, the program is concerned with state spending for education, commuter transportation and other big-city problems, minority groups and steps to stimulate the state's economy.

Because much of this plan entails big spending, the Rockefeller program generated a good deal of private grumbling among the conservatives who dominate the Republican majorities in both houses of the legislature.

He Put Them Through

The governor met opposition and reluctance, sometimes had to compromise. But he won passage of a $26-million a year plan for state grants to students in private colleges, $8 million in financial assistance for commuter railroads serving New York City, $33.7 million State Theater for ballet and operetta and other new spending that brought the state's 1961-62 budget to a record $2.4 billion.

The legislators also voted a 10 per cent, $90-million rebate on 1960 income taxes. The governor was quick to point out that "while many other states were increasing their taxes, New York was the only state in the union to make such a refund."

1962 Will Tell

The effect his legislative approach will have on the governor and the New York Republican party will be measured in the 1962 election, when Rockefeller will be up for re-election.

The 52-year-old multimillionaire, who won the governorship in his first try for an elective office, may have a harder campaign in 1962 than he did in 1958.

Rockefeller's campaign techniques then—a folksy, smiling, "hiya fella" approach to individuals — were considered highly effective.

There were few, clear-cut issues discussed. The election, many observers felt, was a popularity contest between the aging, somber W. Averell Harriman and the breezy, youthful-looking Rockefeller.

A Different Campaign

Next time, however, the governor will have a record to offer —and defend—plus all other difficulties an incumbent meets—demands to do things, complaints over things not done and, always, appeals for more spending.

But if, as a result of his program, a present split in the New York Democratic organization and other factors, Rockefeller won a substantial victory next year, it would have an important psychological effect on his chances for selection as the Republican nominee two years later.

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON

TAKING CARE OF EVERYBODY

President Kennedy recently said: "The United States can take care of itself." I agree, but if so, why should we take care of the world, as he continues to think we should?

It says in the BIBLE, "If any provide not for his own, and specially for those of his own house, he is worse than an infidel."

E. F. Hutton

The Marshall Plan of 1947 was a good thing. It was to have ended 12 years ago. But like all political bureaucracies, it has grown like a cancer.

Strange, that Russia, a war-ravaged country, refused even limited Marshall aid, but look at her today!

In giving relief to depressed areas abroad, we have created depressed areas at home. We have given away over $80 billion. This is the equivalent of the value of our 32 largest cities.

We are financing our competitors. We have given the world our latest technology, capital and know-how.

With our billions, foreign countries have now established industries which undersell ours, both here and abroad. American industry pays high wages and taxes to help build foreign competition, which pays low wages but has high productivity with its modern machinery. In addition, an outfit called GATT permits the dumping of low-cost foreign goods on American markets, without action by Congress.

We now have the congenial Congo on our hands!! Duty calls!

May Act on Resignation

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The State Board of Education was expected to act today on the resignation of Dr. William B. Axtell, 53, as president of West Virginia Institute of Technology at Montgomery.

Axtell came to West Virginia in 1953 from St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y., where he was head of the Education Department.

Axtell submitted his resignation, effective June 30.

He earned his doctorate in education at Syracuse University and his bachelor's degree at Union College, Schenectady, N.Y.

Deaths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON (AP)—Donald Cameron, 45, navy commander who led a daring midget submarine attack on the German battleship Tirpitz in October, 1943, died Monday after a brief illness. The attack did not succeed and Cameron and another officer were captured.

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Isaac Rosengarten, 74, author and editor of the monthly "Jewish Forum," died Monday. He had been associated with the English-Jewish magazine since its founding in 1917 and had been its editor for 40 years. Rosengarten was born in Zager, Lithuania, and came to New York in 1891.

EDITOR'S NOTE—The governorship in political crucial New York state will be up for grabs in 1962. Nelson Rockefeller is seeking re-election—perhaps with an eye on presidential '64. That's why his recent legislative record is an informed look at that record and the possibilities ahead.

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y., (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is slowly revamping Republican politics in New York State in what well may be much preparation for a bid for the GOP nomination for president in 1964.

"We've got to get close to the people," in his prescription for returning a Republican — he's not saying who he has in mind—to the White House.

The governor gained new ground in the 1961 legislature on a broad, liberal program he has mapped for the Republican party in New York. He also looks on it as a model for a national policy.

Basically, the program is concerned with state spending for education, commuter transportation and other big-city problems, minority groups and steps to stimulate the state's economy.

Because much of this plan entails big spending, the Rockefeller program generated a good deal of private grumbling among the conservatives who dominate the Republican majorities in both houses of the legislature.

He Put Them Through

The governor met opposition and reluctance, sometimes had to compromise. But he won passage of a $26-million a year plan for state grants to students in private colleges, $8 million in financial assistance for commuter railroads serving New York City, $33.7 million State Theater for ballet and operetta and other new spending that brought the state's 1961-62 budget to a record $2.4 billion.

The legislators also voted a 10 per cent, $90-million rebate on 1960 income taxes. The governor was quick to point out that "while many other states were increasing their taxes, New York was the only state in the union to make such a refund."

1962 Will Tell

The effect his legislative approach will have on the governor and the New York Republican party will be measured in the 1962 election, when Rockefeller will be up for re-election.

The 52-year-old multimillionaire, who won the governorship in his first try for an elective office, may have a harder campaign in 1962 than he did in 1958.

Rockefeller's campaign techniques then—a folksy, smiling, "hiya fella" approach to individuals — were considered highly effective.

There were few, clear-cut issues discussed. The election, many observers felt, was a popularity contest between the aging, somber W. Averell Harriman and the breezy, youthful-looking Rockefeller.

A Different Campaign

Next time, however, the governor will have a record to offer —and defend—plus all other difficulties an incumbent meets—demands to do things, complaints over things not done and, always, appeals for more spending.

But if, as a result of his program, a present split in the New York Democratic organization and other factors, Rockefeller won a substantial victory next year, it would have an important psychological effect on his chances for selection as the Republican nominee two years later.

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON

TAKING CARE OF EVERYBODY

President Kennedy recently said: "The United States can take care of itself." I agree, but if so, why should we take care of the world, as he continues to think we should?

It says in the BIBLE, "If any provide not for his own, and specially for those of his own house, he is worse than an infidel."

E. F. Hutton

The Marshall Plan of 1947 was a good thing. It was to have ended 12 years ago. But like all political bureaucracies, it has grown like a cancer.

Strange, that Russia, a war-ravaged country, refused even limited Marshall aid, but look at her today!

In giving relief to depressed areas abroad, we have created depressed areas at home. We have given away over $80 billion. This is the equivalent of the value of our 32 largest cities.

We are financing our competitors. We have given the world our latest technology, capital and know-how.

With our billions, foreign countries have now established industries which undersell ours, both here and abroad. American industry pays high wages and taxes to help build foreign competition, which pays low wages but has high productivity with its modern machinery. In addition, an outfit called GATT permits the dumping of low-cost foreign goods on American markets, without action by Congress.

We now have the congenial Congo on our hands!! Duty calls!

May Act on Resignation

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The State Board of Education was expected to act today on the resignation of Dr. William B. Axtell, 53, as president of West Virginia Institute of Technology at Montgomery.

Axtell came to West Virginia in 1953 from St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y., where he was head of the Education Department.

Axtell submitted his resignation, effective June 30.

He earned his doctorate in education at Syracuse University and his bachelor's degree at Union College, Schenectady, N.Y.

Deaths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON (AP)—Donald Cameron, 45, navy commander who led a daring midget submarine attack on the German battleship Tirpitz in October, 1943, died Monday after a brief illness. The attack did not succeed and Cameron and another officer were captured.

NEW YORK (AP) — A former New York State senator was among 11 persons cited Tuesday night by the Garden Club of America.

Former Sen. Thomas C. Desmond of Newburgh was awarded the Eloise Payne Luquer Medal for special achievement in botany.

The citation said he had developed a "magnificent and extraordinarily diversified" botanical collection at his arboretum over the last 30 years and had stimulated horticultural education.

Pedestrians Are Subject to Rules Of Traffic Safety

ALBANY—Not all pedestrians realize it, but they, too are subject to rules and regulations of New York State. Article 27 of the State's Vehicle and Traffic Law points that out.

Usually, pedestrians keep a sharp lookout to avoid tangling with a 3,000 or 4,000 pound motor vehicle for, when that happens, they usually come out second best. Even so, hundreds are killed and thousands are injured each year by automobiles simply because they do not obey the rules of safety. Their accidents cannot always be blamed on the motorist.

736 Were Killed

For instance, 736 were killed and 26,313 were hurt in 1960. A typical one month's score, that for last September, shows 61 pedestrians died in motor vehicle accidents. But 31 of them actually were violating the law themselves at the time of the accident.

Fifteen died crossing the street between intersections, seven were killed when they disobeyed the traffic signal, five were struck when they came out from behind parked cars, two were standing in the road, one was hitching a ride and one was walking in the same direction as traffic. They were not supposed to be doing any of those things.

The Vehicle and Traffic Law states specifically that pedestrians must obey traffic-control signals. It holds that every pedestrian crossing a roadway any place except within a marked or unmarked crosswalk at an intersection must yield the right-of-way to vehicles.

Has Right of Way

When a pedestrian is using the crosswalk while traffic signals are not in operation or there are none located, he has the right of way over an approaching vehicle using the same half of the roadway. However, no pedestrian is allowed to leave the curb or other place of safety to run into the path of a vehicle when it would be impossible for the driver to stop or slow down.

Blind pedestrians have special privileges when they are crossing a road or a street carrying a white cane in a raised or extended position or accompanied by a "seeing eye" dog. Motorists must give them the right-of-way, slowing down or stopping if necessary.

The law also is very definite on hitch-hiking. It says no person shall stand in a roadway for the purpose of soliciting a ride. Neither shall he stand there for the purpose of soliciting from or selling to an occupant of any vehicle. The latter also applies to parking lot attendants, particularly in areas where entertainment is being offered—such as race tracks, fairs or other outdoor entertainment.

Pedestrians walking along roadways must use the sidewalk if available and in safe condition but, if not, they must walk only on the left side of the roadway facing approaching traffic. Upon the approach of any vehicle from the opposite direction, they must move to the left as far as practical.

While these rules for the relationship between motorists and pedestrians give certain rights to each, the State Department of Motor Vehciles urges sincere cooperation on the part of both. Only if this cooperation is observed will the toll of pedestrians lives be reduced.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—More stocks to buy and more persons bidding for them are bringing the nation's stock exchanges heavy trading days and price records.

And the same rush to buy or sell is spilling over into an even bigger market. This is the much larger number of stocks that are unlisted on any exchange but are traded over hundreds of counters of dealers across the nation.

It all adds up to a huge turnover in ownership, to a spreading of stock holding to still more first-time owners.

The very volume of trading helps build up enthusiasm. It is part of the snowballing confidence that of late has sent the stock price averages to new highs.

Stock ownership has mushroomed in the nation in the last 10 years. The public that turned wary after getting its fingers burned in 1929—and a large public that was too young then to buy, or not even born—is in the market now in volume.

The number of stocks available also has grown several folds since those earlier days of stock market exuberance. More companies offer stock, either listed or unlisted. And the big companies have many times the number of shares outstanding they did only 10 10 years ago, not to mention 30 years ago.

These two factors account for much of the rise in volume on the stock exchanges.

There are 15 million stock owners now to follow the market. They may shift from one share into another that looks better to them. They may add to their holdings, some on a regular buying schedule, or urge their neighbors to consider stock owning as a way of saving or investing.

The examples of those of the 15 million lucky enough to have made big profits, if only on paper, inspire still more to try their luck.

Personal incomes have risen steadily, meaning more money available for stock buying, or other use, after the essentials of life are provided.

And those individuals who put sizable parts of their incomes into pension funds, mutual funds, insurance policies, savings institutions, all are adding to the total of funds available for investing, whether it be in mortgages or in stocks.

Pedestrians Are Subject to Rules Of Traffic Safety

ALBANY—Not all pedestrians realize it, but they, too are subject to rules and regulations of New York State. Article 27 of the State's Vehicle and Traffic Law points that out.

Usually, pedestrians keep a sharp lookout to avoid tangling with a 3,000 or 4,000 pound motor vehicle for, when that happens, they usually come out second best. Even so, hundreds are killed and thousands are injured each year by automobiles simply because they do not obey the rules of safety. Their accidents cannot always be blamed on the motorist.

736 Were Killed

For instance, 736 were killed and 26,313 were hurt in 1960. A typical one month's score, that for last September, shows 61 pedestrians died in motor vehicle accidents. But 31 of them actually were violating the law themselves at the time of the accident.

Fifteen died crossing the street between intersections, seven were killed when they disobeyed the traffic signal, five were struck when they came out from behind parked cars, two were standing in the road, one was hitching a ride and one was walking in the same direction as traffic. They were not supposed to be doing any of those things.

The Vehicle and Traffic Law states specifically that pedestrians must obey traffic-control signals. It holds that every pedestrian crossing a roadway any place except within a marked or unmarked crosswalk at an intersection must yield the right-of-way to vehicles.

Has Right of Way

When a pedestrian is using the crosswalk while traffic signals are not in operation or there are none located, he has the right of way over an approaching vehicle using the same half of the roadway. However, no pedestrian is allowed to leave the curb or other place of safety to run into the path of a vehicle when it would be impossible for the driver to stop or slow down.

Blind pedestrians have special privileges when they are crossing a road or a street carrying a white cane in a raised or extended position or accompanied by a "seeing eye" dog. Motorists must give them the right-of-way, slowing down or stopping if necessary.

The law also is very definite on hitch-hiking. It says no person shall stand in a roadway for the purpose of soliciting a ride. Neither shall he stand there for the purpose of soliciting from or selling to an occupant of any vehicle. The latter also applies to parking lot attendants, particularly in areas where entertainment is being offered—such as race tracks, fairs or other outdoor entertainment.

Pedestrians walking along roadways must use the sidewalk if available and in safe condition but, if not, they must walk only on the left side of the roadway facing approaching traffic. Upon the approach of any vehicle from the opposite direction, they must move to the left as far as practical.

While these rules for the relationship between motorists and pedestrians give certain rights to each, the State Department of Motor Vehciles urges sincere cooperation on the part of both. Only if this cooperation is observed will the toll of pedestrians lives be reduced.

Shell's automotive experts have developed many ways to make their own cars run better and last longer. The numbers on this classic 1930 V-16 indicate some of the areas deserving attention, as described below.

Shell recommends 21 ways to make your car last longer

Shell scientists dedicate their working lives to the care and feeding of automobiles.

They can offer dozens of tips on prolonging the life of your second biggest investment. Here are some useful samples:

AMERICANS spend more than 2 billion dollars a year on automotive replacement parts. This expense is enough to give every man, woman, and child in the U. S. a $12 birthday present.

With a little care you can avoid much of this expense and keep your car youthful. Here are a few tips from Shell's experts.

1. Break in a new car properly. A long break-in period at low speed is no longer necessary. But manufacturers recommend:

A. Don't accelerate at full throttle or change gears abruptly. Sudden shocks to gears in the rear axle and transmission can cause lasting damage.

B. Vary your speeds—and especially avoid sustained high speed.

C. Try not to stop too suddenly—it can harm brake surfaces.

2. Warm up slowly. Racing an engine to warm it up ages it fast. A short warm-up at moderate speed is good for your car even in summer, and even more necessary during colder months when the oil tends to move sluggishly at first. Never race your cold engine to warm up, though. It may damage critical working parts before lubrication can be fully established.

There's no need for long idling; but drive slowly for the first few minutes.

3. Use your engine to save your brake linings. Anticipate your slowdowns. Use the brake as little as possible.

When you see you'll have to slow down, take your foot off the accelerator early and let the engine's compression do some of the job.

4. Have your engine's spark timing set to proper specifications. The spark timing determines whether your plugs fire at exactly the right instant. With incorrect timing you lose power and cut mileage. Also your car may knock. Chronic knocking can eventually damage your engine.

5. Use a gasoline that controls knock. If your engine persists in knocking, you may need a gasoline with more anti-knock components, for a higher octane rating.

Today's Super Shell contains all of the anti-knock ingredients required to help your car deliver knock-free performance.

6. Learn to read tail pipe smoke signals. Blue smoke means too much oil is getting into the combustion chambers.

Excessive blue smoke is a warning that piston rings may be worn—and need replacing. Your mechanic calls this a "ring job."

Black smoke is an indication of too much gasoline in the air-fuel mixture. Your carburetor may need an adjustment.

White smoke is mostly water vapor. Don't worry about it. Your engine makes a gallon of water for every gallon of gasoline burned. On cold days some of this shows up as vapor.

7. Have your oil checked whenever you fill up with gasoline. An oil check is a simple safety check for your engine. It is also free, and takes less than a minute.

By the way, oil does not wear out. But it can be lost through leaks or burning. And it does get dirty. Worse yet, oil can become contaminated by combustion by-products—including acid.

To be really safe, use new Shell X-100® Premium Motor Oil. It only costs about $3.60 more per year than regular oils—no more than most premiums.

New Shell X-100 Premium Motor Oil fights engine acid a brand-new way—with an amazing chemical shield that clings tightly to all metal surfaces.

For most cars Shell recommends an oil change once a month in winter, every 60 days in summer—never more than 2,000 miles between changes.

8. Avoid high speeds and save your tires. Every extra mile your tires last is money in your pocket. High speeds increase wear drastically—by as much as 80% over normal wear—so it pays to go easy.

9. Rotate tires every 5,000 miles. Your tires will last longer because they will all wear evenly, and at the same rate. Note: See your Shell dealer for a set of valve caps; they will prevent air from getting out and dirt from getting in around the tire valve.

10. Check wheel alignment and balance. The shock of hitting curbs or dropping into deep holes can cause misalignment.

An out-of-line wheel can increase tire wear as much as 50 per cent. An unbalanced wheel pounds the tire against the pavement, wearing the tread unevenly.

Have an expert check wheel alignment and balance at least twice a year. Proper tire inflation at all times is also essential.

11. Save your battery with 11¢ worth of baking soda. Dirt and corrosion can actually cause current leaks—and can shorten your battery's life by many months. If corrosion is visible, wash the battery off with a solution of baking soda and water. Use a wire brush if necessary. Then rinse thoroughly with warm water. Ask your Shell dealer to check your battery terminals.

12. Change your oil filter element every other oil change. Abrasive specks as small as 1/1000th of an inch in diameter can shorten the life of your engine. The oil filter element in your car has the exacting task of keeping tiny, dangerous specks of metal and other abrasives out of the engine, while allowing oil to flow freely.

The filter catches and holds these foreign particles until it can hold no more. But when the oil filter is clogged up, it cannot work effectively.

Replacing the filter element every other oil change helps your engine to last longer.

13. Get a lubrication job regularly. Dirt and moisture can work into chassis joints and bushings, causing friction and wear. Grease can also eventually pound out, leaving the parts unprotected.

See your Shell dealer for a Shellubrication. He has the charts, equipment, Shell lubricants for your car, and the skill for a really thorough job.

14. Have your car's cooling system checked twice a year. In time, the inhibitors in your anti-freeze lose some of their ability to prevent rust, corrosion and sediment from forming in your cooling system.

Let your Shell dealer check the cooling system—including hoses and hose connections—no less than twice a year. When he drains and refills he will add a special Cooling System Protector.

15. Keep door and body panel drain holes clear to foil rust. You never see them, but there are little drain holes at the bottom of body panels and doors. They can get clogged so that the panels actually hold water. Rust forms more easily and can eat holes right through the metal.

You have probably noticed this ugly sight in other cars. Make sure drain holes are always kept clear.

16. Keep road salt washed off. Nothing can damage a car's appearance more than the chemicals used to clear icy, snowy roads. They can eat not only the finish, but the body structure itself. Make sure you get it all off—not only from the paint but from the bright metal parts, as well.

17. Use these tips to help your car stay new looking longer. A good coat of polish provides a film that protects your car's finish. But before you polish your car, always wash it—and always in the shade.

Some new car finishes need only a good washing to keep them bright, but others require waxing. It's a good idea to check your owner's manual. Older cars are almost certain to benefit from a good waxing.

18. Protect chrome against rust invasion. Chrome, itself, can't rust. But it actually has millions of tiny holes which can let the moisture right through to the metal beneath. Dirt invites this invasion, so clean the chrome thoroughly and frequently, and wax it for further protection.

19. "Bandage" minor scratches in your car's finish. Small scratches in the finish expose bare metal which can rust. Until you can have the scratches refinished, keep rust from forming with a coat of touch-up paint or even a strip of cellulose tape on the scratches. Use clear nail polish on scratches in the chrome.

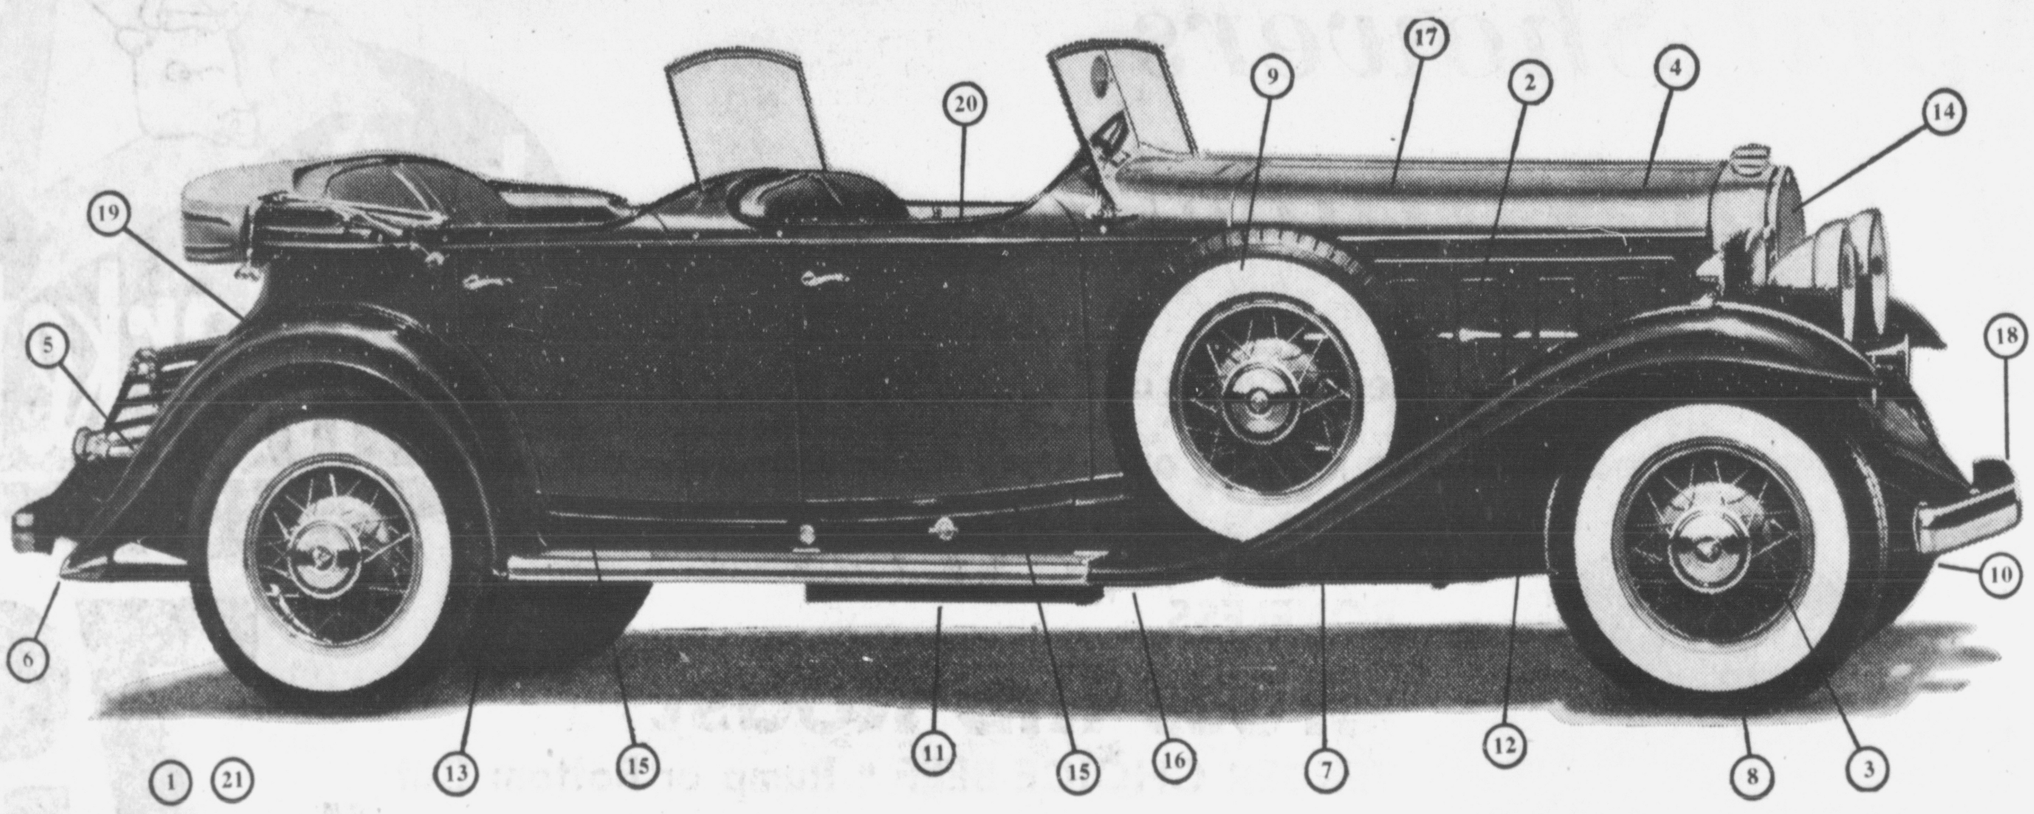

20. Pamper carpets and upholstery. Ground-in dirt wears out carpets before their time. Give them a weekly whisking or vacuuming; shampoo once in a while.

21. Let your Shell dealer help your car last longer. Your car may have cost you thousands of dollars. After your home, this is probably your biggest single investment.

Treat it carefully. Feed it well. Let your Shell dealer help you on both counts. You will save money—and increase your driving pleasure, too.

SHELL®

A BULLETIN FROM SHELL RESEARCH
—where 1,997 scientists are working to make your car go better and better.

Shell's automotive experts have developed many ways to make their own cars run better and last longer. The numbers on this classic 1930 V-16 indicate some of the areas deserving attention, as described below.

Shell recommends 21 ways to make your car last longer

Shell scientists dedicate their working lives to the care and feeding of automobiles.

They can offer dozens of tips on prolonging the life of your second biggest investment. Here are some useful samples:

AMERICANS spend more than 2 billion dollars a year on automotive replacement parts. This expense is enough to give every man, woman, and child in the U. S. a $12 birthday present.

With a little care you can avoid much of this expense and keep your car youthful. Here are a few tips from Shell's experts.

1. Break in a new car properly. A long break-in period at low speed is no longer necessary. But manufacturers recommend:

A. Don't accelerate at full throttle or change gears abruptly. Sudden shocks to gears in the rear axle and transmission can cause lasting damage.

B. Vary your speeds—and especially avoid sustained high speed.

C. Try not to stop too suddenly—it can harm brake surfaces.

2. Warm up slowly. Racing an engine to warm it up ages it fast. A short warm-up at moderate speed is good for your car even in summer, and even more necessary during colder months when the oil tends to move sluggishly at first. Never race your cold engine to warm up, though. It may damage critical working parts before lubrication can be fully established.

There's no need for long idling; but drive slowly for the first few minutes.

3. Use your engine to save your brake linings. Anticipate your slowdowns. Use the brake as little as possible.

When you see you'll have to slow down, take your foot off the accelerator early and let the engine's compression do some of the job.

4. Have your engine's spark timing set to proper specifications. The spark timing determines whether your plugs fire at exactly the right instant. With incorrect timing you lose power and cut mileage. Also your car may knock. Chronic knocking can eventually damage your engine.

5. Use a gasoline that controls knock. If your engine persists in knocking, you may need a gasoline with more anti-knock components, for a higher octane rating.

Today's Super Shell contains all of the anti-knock ingredients required to help your car deliver knock-free performance.

6. Learn to read tail pipe smoke signals. Blue smoke means too much oil is getting into the combustion chambers.

Excessive blue smoke is a warning that piston rings may be worn—and need replacing. Your mechanic calls this a "ring job."

Black smoke is an indication of too much gasoline in the air-fuel mixture. Your carburetor may need an adjustment.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Are you a success?

There are many ways to measure success, but the chances are that you've done pretty well in life—at least in the eyes of your neighbors—if:

You have been living at a rate of only $1,000 a year over your income for the last five years, and your credit is still good.

Boss Asks Advice

The boss, instead of pushing a buzzer when he wants you, strolls out to your desk to ask advice.

The barber can tell you in complete honesty, "Nope, it isn't getting any thinner on top."

None of your children has been sent to reform school.

All your brothers-in-law have steady jobs.

You can play pool instead of golf and still keep your standing in the community.

Your home has one more bathroom than it does bedrooms — and the garage has a door that opens automatically.

Both the minister and the postman call you by your first name, but the bank president addresses you as "mister" with a note of firm respect.

The family dog is too old to have any more pups, and the family cat is still too young to have kittens.

Blonde Only Question

She trusts you absolutely — but still gets a bit upset if you talk more than 10 minutes to a strange blonde at a party.

A letter arrives from the Internal Revenue Service, and when you fearfully open it you find inside a message congratulating you on the detailed accuracy of your last income tax return.

You are able to take martinis or leave them alone, and you prove it— by letting them alone.

In any given year your church and charitable contributions total more than your medical costs.

You weigh no more than 10 pounds above what you tipped the scales in college.

The doctor envies you because he's on a diet—and you can still eat anything you want to.

You don't have to worry about your job at the office. Nobody else wants it.

You can still bend over—knees stiff—and touch the ground 15 times without puffing or bragging, on some days!

Notes of Interest On New York Men At U. S. Capital

By JOSEPH R. COYNE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Harold C. Ostertag, R-N. Y., is mighty proud of what he now calls his best seller.

It's a report drawn up by the Library of Congress at Ostertag's request a year ago on the export-import picture and the nation's unfavorable balance of international payments.

Only 300 copies were made available and those were gobbled up by financial houses and schools.

The Senate reprinted 5,500 copies at the request of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., but that supply, too, was soon exhausted.

Now the House Foreign Affairs Committee has revised the report to bring it up to date, changed the title to "Gold and the U.S. Balance of Payments Deficit," and ordered 3,000 copies printed.

Jack Calkins, administrative aide to Rep. Howard W. Robison, R-N.Y., keeps an egg-timer on his desk.

It was a gift from his former boss and Robison's predecessor, W. Sterling Cole of Bath, who disliked telephone conversations more than two minutes long.

Near the egg timer is this poem written by Cole and entitled "The Egg and You." It reads:

"An egg that takes too long to cook
"Ain't worth for you a second look.
"A tale that takes too long to tell
"Tags its teller as a carousel.
"To make an egg or tale of class
"Let stand the sand, turn off the gas!"

This is a story about a former president of the United States and a missing four-cent postage stamp.

It began on March 26 at Palm Desert, Calif., when former President Dwight D. Eisenhower wrote a letter to Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y.

The letter, which thanked Keating for his support of a bill restoring Eisenhower's five-star general rank, was mailed from Indio, Calif., on March 27.

It arrived at Keating's office a few days later with this notation on the envelope: "Postage due 4 cents."

Keating paid the four cents. He said he didn't mind. "It was certainly worth more than four cents to get this cordial note from this great American," he said.

Central Will Retire Auburn Freight Depot

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Public Service Commission today authorized the New York Central Railroad to place its freght station at Auburn under the jurisdiction of its freight service center at Syracuse.

The order permits the road to retire its Auburn freight depot, but the commission said service would not be reduced by the move. The change is intended to centralize paper work, the commission said.

The Central also was authorized to transfer the control of seven non-agency freight stations from Auburn to Syracuse. These stations are at Jordan, North Port Byron, Port Byron, North Weedsport, Weedsport, Skaneateles Junction and Sennett.

Easy Does It

To wash the outside of ground floor windows conveniently, use a long-handled string mop. Then rinse with a hose.

Action Is Settled

A negligence action brought by Francis Fuscardo against George Phelloes of Kingston and Tobin Packing Company was settled in County Court Tuesday after it had been partially tried. The action involved an alleged food poisoning and was before County Judge Raymond J. Mino. Richter and Werbalowsky appeared for plaintiff and Napoletano, Kelly and Saccoman with David Williams for defendants.

Empire State Had 480,000 Men in Union Army

Battle Flags at Capitol Tell Story of New York Volunteers

(Editor's NOTE: Today is the 100th anniversary of the shot fired on Fort Sumter, the shot that exploded into Civil War. Brave men and boys carried the battle colors of New York State's units. These flags, many torn, blood-stained, crumbling, are gathered in the Flag Room at the State Capitol. They tell the story of the Empire State's fighting men).

By JOHN MULLIGAN

A breeze rustles the old flags in their glass cases.

It is 4:30 a.m., the hour the first shell of the Civil War shrieked into Fort Sumter — a hundred years ago today.

Shadowy figures converge from the corridors of time, from more than 2,100 battlefields, from beneath nearly 50,000 white headstones marked "N.Y.," from 5,000 nameless graves of New Yorkers from mighty Gettysburg to humble Pole Cat Station, Va.

Wraiths of lean color-bearers, all in step, all proudly erect.

Gently, they take the bullet-torn, blood-stained banners from their cases. Down the broad seventy-Seven Steps to the Capitol lawn they march to pass in review before the mounted statue of Albany-born Gen. Philip Sheridan.

Fourth of Union Army

Their flags represent fully a fourth of the Union Army, more than 480,000 men of the Empire State, overwhelmingly volunteers.

In a war where battles often turned on flags, these were bravest of the brave — the men who carried the colors through what Blue and Gray called "the deadly iron hail."

One hundred and three of them wear the Congressional Medal of Honor, earned capturing enemy colors or retrieving their own.

Hid Flag in Prison

Another drummer boy, 15-year-old John Otto Swan of Medina, proudly holds the banner of the 28th Infantry from Orleans, Ontario and Genesee Counties. He stuffed the silk flag in his coat lining at Chancellorsville when he was captured and hid it successfully at a Richmond prison until exchanged.

Private A. L. Van Ness of Dansville has the colors of the 27th Infantry of Rochester and nearby Livingston County. The cloth star pinned to its staff was picked up by him when it was shot out of the flag he carried up the Heights of Fredericksburg, Va.

Shot by Brother

A former Confederate named Townsend bears the American flag of Albany's 91st Infantry. Inducted into the rebel army against his will, he deserted and joined the 91st at Pensacola, Fla. He was fatally wounded carrying the flag at Port Hudson, La., the bullet was fired by his own brother, serving with the 10th Alabama, who recognized him too late.

Many march behind the faded banner of Oswego and Ontario Counties' 147th Infantry, which took 77.2 per cent casualties at Gettysburg. But survivors watched Lee's surrender at Appomattox Court House.

Heaviest Casualties

There's a note still pinned to the colors of New York City's Fifth Infantry, "Duryee's Zouaves," recording that of its 490 men, 117 were killed and 200 wounded at Manassas Plains. The Fifth claimed the heaviest casualties for any unit on either side in a single engagement.

Ten Hudson Valley men form the color guard of the 30th Infantry of Dutchess, Columbia, Rensselaer and Saratoga Counties. That many died carrying its colors in one battle, Second Bull Run.

Sgt. Francis Foley of New York City holds the American flag of the 90th Infantry. His blood, spilled fatally at Cedar Creek, Va., stains its stripes.

Private Henry Lloyd bears the colors of the 14th Heavy Artillery, recruited from 20 Upstate counties from Putnam to Chautauqua. He was killed at the head of this regiment, which led the assault on the "Crater" at terrible Petersburg, Va., an excavation blown out of Confederate lines by tunnelling Blue-clad Pennsylvania miners.

The passing colors of the North Country's 169th Infantry are fastened to a Confederate flagstaff that replaced one shot at the Crater. There are 100 holes each in its American and regimental flags.

Cpl. James Young carries the 44th Infantry (statewide) flag that he twice rescued in heavy crossfire at Hanover Court House, Va., where he was killed.

A Sgt. Hackett has the American flag of Albany and New York City's 43rd Infantry, which he hid when captured at the Wilderness, Va. When he died at infamous Andersonville Prison, the flag secretly was buried with him.

Flag Saved, Then Lost

The American flag of Manhattan's 37th "Irish Rifles" is borne by a Private Loyd. At Chancellorsville, he removed it from the staff to prevent its capture, wrapped it around his body and crawled off through the brush. When he was killed, comrades who did not know of the flag hastily buried him. Attempts to find his grave were futile.

One of every three New York volunteers was foreign-born, and reminders of lands where a Kathleen, Maria or Lisa often waited for word that never would come are written on their passing flags: The Irish Brigade, which included the famed Fighting Sixty-Ninth of New York City; the Irish Legion, Garibaldi Guards, Italian Legion, Schwarze Yaegers, German Artillery Corps, Mozart Regiment, Kossuth Guards, Hungarian Regiment, Polish Legion, Netherlands Legion, Guarde de Lafayette and 55th French Regiment; British Volunteers, and the Camerons Highlanders of the 78th and 79th Infantry, who fought in kilts.

Next come the flags of the 20th and 26th U.S. Colored Infantry and other Negro units; those of regiments in which New York State Indians served, of Troy's dreaded "Northern Black Horse Cavalry," the Seventh; of the lumberjacks of the 118th Adirondack Infantry, of the Railway Brigade, the 99th Naval Brigade, the Merchants Brigade, the huge Metropolitan Brigade, composed entirely of New York and Brooklyn policemen, of fire department units like the dashing 11th N.Y. Fire Zouaves, whose flag was presented by Laura Keene, a great actress of the day.

Flag on flag of the hundreds of New York regiments passes by, their stories better told in stark battle names on monuments across the state. There often stands Billy Yank, eternally at parade rest, facing South.

It is the voices of men long-dead, whispering a song they often marched to or sang around campfires in Dixie:

"We'll rally 'round the flag, boys,

"We'll rally once again,

"Shouting the battle cry of Freedom!"

$500,000 Sought For '58 Injury

Ray Neilson, 57, of Saugerties a former resident of Albany, is seeking $500,000 in Albany Supreme Court before Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth for permanent injuries which he alleges he suffered when a fellow worker dropped a conduit pipe while they were working at the West Milton Atomic Plant three years ago.

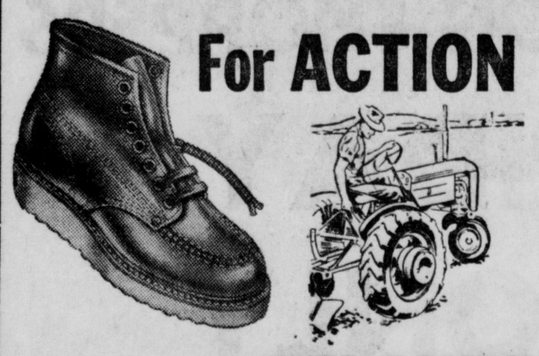

Neilson asks that amount from the Nieger Electric Company of New York City for whom he was working as a subcontractor. Neilson, employed as a painting foreman, was carrying a pipe with a fellow worker who dropped the pipe without warning causing Neilson to wrench his back.

Represented by Edward Segal, Neilson alleges a hernniated disc, which required an operation and later developed osteomyelitis, causing paralysis of his lower back and feet. He allegedly is now required to wear braces and move about with a cane.

Bruce R. Sullivan appears for the electric firm.

Battle Flags at Capitol Tell Story of New York Volunteers

(Editor's NOTE: Today is the 100th anniversary of the shot fired on Fort Sumter, the shot that exploded into Civil War. Brave men and boys carried the battle colors of New York State's units. These flags, many torn, blood-stained, crumbling, are gathered in the Flag Room at the State Capitol. They tell the story of the Empire State's fighting men).

By JOHN MULLIGAN

A breeze rustles the old flags in their glass cases.

It is 4:30 a.m., the hour the first shell of the Civil War shrieked into Fort Sumter — a hundred years ago today.

Shadowy figures converge from the corridors of time, from more than 2,100 battlefields, from beneath nearly 50,000 white headstones marked "N.Y.," from 5,000 nameless graves of New Yorkers from mighty Gettysburg to humble Pole Cat Station, Va.

Wraiths of lean color-bearers, all in step, all proudly erect.

Gently, they take the bullet-torn, blood-stained banners from their cases. Down the broad seventy-Seven Steps to the Capitol lawn they march to pass in review before the mounted statue of Albany-born Gen. Philip Sheridan.

Fourth of Union Army

Their flags represent fully a fourth of the Union Army, more than 480,000 men of the Empire State, overwhelmingly volunteers.

In a war where battles often turned on flags, these were bravest of the brave — the men who carried the colors through what Blue and Gray called "the deadly iron hail."

One hundred and three of them wear the Congressional Medal of Honor, earned capturing enemy colors or retrieving their own.

Hid Flag in Prison

Another drummer boy, 15-year-old John Otto Swan of Medina, proudly holds the banner of the 28th Infantry from Orleans, Ontario and Genesee Counties. He stuffed the silk flag in his coat lining at Chancellorsville when he was captured and hid it successfully at a Richmond prison until exchanged.

Private A. L. Van Ness of Dansville has the colors of the 27th Infantry of Rochester and nearby Livingston County. The cloth star pinned to its staff was picked up by him when it was shot out of the flag he carried up the Heights of Fredericksburg, Va.

Shot by Brother

A former Confederate named Townsend bears the American flag of Albany's 91st Infantry. Inducted into the rebel army against his will, he deserted and joined the 91st at Pensacola, Fla. He was fatally wounded carrying the flag at Port Hudson, La., the bullet was fired by his own brother, serving with the 10th Alabama, who recognized him too late.

View on Study of Waterway to N. Y.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Canada's views again are being sought on the possibility for a full-scale study of a long-proposed waterway between New York City and Montreal, through Lake Champlain.

The State Department has instructed the Amercan embassy at Ottawa to take up the matter, Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said Tuesday.

The inland passage from New York to the St. Lawrence Seaway and the Great Lakes would follow the Hudson River to Troy, N. Y., through the Champlain Division of the New York Barge Canal and Lake Champlain into the Richelieu River, and then possibly utilize the 6-foot-deep canal to Sorel, Que. The canal would have to be deepened to at least 14 feet.

The American embassy earlier this year informed Washington it had been unable to get any official Canadian expression on a new study. The embassy had been instructed Dec. 16 to obtain official comment.

"If Canada is not interested, we should proceed with plans to open up a water-access canal at some point south of the border," Aiken said.

The House of Commons has debated the subject recently without reaching agreement.

St. Lawrence Way Expects to Open For Ships on 15th

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP)—The St. Lawrence Seaway is expected to open for shipping Saturday, as scheduled, despite heavy ice fields in the lakes between Cornwall, Ont., and Montreal.

However, navigation may be restricted to daylight hours for the first few days, officials of the American St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp. and the Canadian St. Lawrence Seaway Authority said yesterday.

The opening will mark the seaway's third season.

Meanwhile, seaway officials and the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers agreed on a three-year wage pact for 1,000 workers .

The agreement, announced in Ottawa Tuesday, provides for a 2 per cent increase each of the first two years and a 5 per cent increase the third year. The basic wage in the third year will be $1.97 an hour, 17 cents higher than the old rate.

First chewing gum patent was issued to W. F. Semple, Mount Vernon, Ohio, in 1869.

When you think of bridge crimes you think of slams thrown out the window, games stolen, enormous penalties and similar horrors.

Such crimes are spectacular, but in the long run they cost far less than do the common small crimes.

One of the commonest of these is the crime of making just one bid too many.

Now look at the South hand. He opens one spade quite properly. North responds one no-trump and at this point South should pass. He has no reason to bid again.

He has a five card spade suit, but even if he is one of those players who opens four card spade suits he has no reason to rebid just because he has a fifth spade among his souvenirs.

True, he has only two hearts, but there is no reason to fear that the opponents are going to set one no-trump with the heart suit alone.

More important South has a minimum of no-trump pattern. He knows there is no game. He has no reason to want to raise the contract.

The punishment for the crime was definite indeed. South went down two tricks at two spades. If he had passed North would surely have made one no-trump and probably produced an overtrick.

Plattekill GOP Launches Drive On Membership

The membership committee of the Town of Plattekill Republican Club met Sunday afternoon to discuss details of the recently started membership drive.

Present at the meeting were Joseph Mortorana, executive chairman of the club; Carmine Sabarese, co-chairman from Modena; Albert Wilson, co-chairman from Plattekill; Mrs. Edith Wager, secretary and members of the membership committee. Representing Modena Election District were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wells, the Plattekill District, Raymond Hoppenstedt and the Clintondale District Charles Dellcemascolo, Ralph Van Siclen and Andrew Montrola.

Each district has been assigned a membership quota and a certificate of recognition will be awarded June 17 to the district reaching the highest percentage of its quota by that date. The presentation will be made in conjunction with another activity planned by the club.

Executive-Chairman Mortorana has extended an invitation to all enrolled Republicans in the Town of Plattekill to join the Republican Club. Numerous activities of community interest have been planned by the club which meets on the fourth Tuesday of each month at the Hasbrouck Hall in Modena. The next meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, April 25, at 8 p. m. at which time the recently adopted State Building Code will be presented for discussion.

Pad Sharp Corners

To prevent a toddler from hurting himself on sharp corners, tape "bumpers" of foam rubber sheeting on corners of furniture until the child has learned to walk.

THREE BOOTHS IMPORTANT TO COMMUNITY LIFE—The Lions Club Exhibition at the armory on Manor Avenue has three stations in a row that stress projects important to the life of Kingston or any other community. In the center is a display by the Girl Scouts of America, a Red Feather agency, inviting youngsters to join for reasons of character training, patriotism, and good living. Alongside is the YMCA booth, featuring its athletic program, day camp for youngsters, crafts, and an invitation to learn to swim in its indoor pool. At left are Kathy Coughlin and Ida May DePew at Gateway Industries booth, with displays of clothing, mats, and other articles made at the organization's training center for the handicapped in the building next to the YMCA, where machines and other equipment furnished by local industrialists is used to carry on the program under special supervision. High Falls Vols Talk Rescue Plan

Plans to instruct members of the High Falls Fire Company in use of their new resuscitator and to form a Red Cross rescue squad was among the matters discussed at the meeting of the High Falls Fire Department Tuesday night. Some fifteen members of the company volunteered for the school which will be held to instruct the men in rescue operations.

The meeting held at 8 p. m. at the firehouse was attended by 40 members with President John L. Smith presiding.

It was reported the new kitchen has been practically completed. The pool table, which is no longer used, was donated by the company to a youth group in Kerhonkson.

The new recreation room is practically completed and the company is now ready to let the contract for painting.

Following the business session refreshments were served by the Ladies Auxiliary.

Afros Seek Support

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Twenty-four African nations today sought U.N. support for a broad plan designed to develop Africa's resources with aid from the United States and other affluent nations.

The plan was drawn up in answer to the Kennedy administration's promise to give financial aid if the African nations seized the initiative and worked our their own long-range development program "by, of and for Africa."

The United States has more than 300 steel-making companies, with a total capacity of about 148 million tons annually.

No Word Received By Mrs. Powers On Mate's Release

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga. (AP)—The wife of imprisoned U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers said today that reports of her husband's impending release and decision to remain in the Soviet Union "were all a misunderstanding."

"I have heard nothing officially. I haven't heard one word that would lead me to believe such a thing," said Mrs. Powers in a telephone interview from her mother's home here.

The London Daily Mail said Tuesday that Powers would be freed from a Soviet prison May 1—exactly a year after his reconnaissance plane was shot down over the Soviet Union.

Mrs. Powers conceded that she had talked with a reporter from the Mail, but denied telling him that her husband was to be released.

Mrs. Powers described her husband as being "as all American as you or I. He has no bitterness toward the United States. He has resigned himself to the fact that he has 10 years to serve, perhaps less with time off for good behavior. He constantly expresses a desire to return to the United States with me."

Indict Girl, 16, In Lover's Lane Slaying of Man

TROY, N. Y. (AP) — Sixteen-year-old Betty Joy Ebert, Chicago runaway, was indicted Tuesday on a first-degree murder charge in the shooting of a man who took her to a lovers' lane and was robbed of $12.

The girl, whose father came east last month to plead that her home life had made her a "mixed-up little girl," has been held in county jail since the killing March 3 of James M. Kilduff, 36, of nearby Latham.

The two-count indictment returned by a grand jury to Justice Isadore Bookstein of State Supreme Court charges:

1. First-degree murder, for which the mandatory penalty is death in the electric chair at Sing Sing.

2. First-degree murder in the commission of a felony, for which a jury may recommend that the death penalty be waived.

No date was set for arraignment.

Police say Kilduff, a truck-driver and father of a 4-year-old daughter, offered Betty Joy a ride as she walked from a bus station after arriving here. She accepted the ride, with robbery in mind, and shot him after he had tried to make advances, she told police. She had purchased a .22-caliber revolver in Bennington, Vt.

Her father, Raymond C. Ebert, 46, of Chicago, told reporters here that his drnking and other family difficulties had driven Betty Joy up the wrong path.

MacKinnon Urged For ABC Again

Robert A. MacKinnon, local attorney, has been recommended for reappointment to the local Alcoholic Beverage Control Board by Robert F. Phinney, chairman of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors.

The board is a bi-partisan one composed of a Republican and Democratic member. MacKinnon is the Republican member of the board. The board is so constituted that the chairman of the board of supervisors appoints one member and the State Liquor Authority on the recommendation of the County Chairman makes the second appointment. Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, (R-Woodstock), chairman of the Ulster County Republican Committee, has recommended the reappointment of Harry E. Howard, a Democrat, to said Board.

The term of office is for a period of two years and will expire April 30, 1963.

G. W. Ball Vital Cog in Kennedy Administration

Aid Program, Link With Allies Two Big Jobs of Ex-Adlai Aide

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the truly important jobs in the Kennedy administration is in the hands of a man the country doesn't hear much about, George W. Ball, international lawyer.

The tall, husky Ball, 51, once associated with Adlai Stevenson's Chicago law firm, is assistant secretary of state for economic affairs. That gives him two jobs mainly, both carried out with one eye on the Soviet Union:

Long-Term Basis Now

1. Trying to pull this country's various foreign aid programs together and making them work better than they ever did by putting aid on a long-term basis instead of the year-to-year arrangement of the past.

2. Working closer with American allies—at a time when they are considering working closer together among themselves—not only on foreign aid but all the multitude of economic problems affecting this country's relations with them.

One of the handicaps of the past in helping backward peoples come abreast of the 20th century—at a time when communism insists it can do it better and faster—was the year to year kind of aid this country provided. When a recipient nation didn't know whether next year's aid was coming, it couldn't plan long-range to develop itself.

The Kennedy administration wants to change that by being able to say something like this: "You draw up the plans for your own development, looking years ahead, and if we approve you can count on so much help from us for the next years."

Rough Days Ahead

There's a catch in this: If a country isn't ready or willing to plan ahead it won't get the money.

Since Congress may not buy the long-range idea—it doesn't like to yield the power of being able to veto spending any year it chooses—the administration faces a tough time with the Senate and House.

But the Kennedy administration is optimistic in one direction—that a number of foreign allies, like Germany and Britain, will share a bigger part of the foreign aid expenses by chipping in themselves.

This country is anxious to see closer cooperation among its European allies, not only politically but economically. They've split themselves into two big trading groups: The Inner Six and the Outer Seven.

The seven are Britain, Austria, Denmark, Norway, Portugal, Sweden and Switzerland. The six are France, West Germany, Belgium, Italy, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

This country would like to see Britain get into the Inner Six group which contains United States' other biggest allies in Europe, West Germany and France.

Time Precious Factor

One reason this country would like to see it happen—and the British are considering the idea—is the belief it would bring the big West European countries closer together in cooperation.

Time itself may be a precious factor here since the chance of closer cooperation between Britain, France and West Germany may be better while French President Charles de Gaulle and German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer are in office than when their successors move in.

Last March the United States joined the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, whose 20 members are linked in a joint effort to keep their economies high while contributing to the economic development of underprivileged countries.

There are two pretty good reasons why Ball, despite the size of the job he has, may well remain pretty much in the background.

1. He's pretty quiet anyway.

2. In this administration it's the President who makes the big announcements.

Plattekill GOP Launches Drive On Membership

The membership committee of the Town of Plattekill Republican Club met Sunday afternoon to discuss details of the recently started membership drive.

Present at the meeting were Joseph Mortorana, executive chairman of the club; Carmine Sabarese, co-chairman from Modena; Albert Wilson, co-chairman from Plattekill; Mrs. Edith Wager, secretary and members of the membership committee. Representing Modena Election District were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wells, the Plattekill District, Raymond Hoppenstedt and the Clintondale District Charles Dellcemascolo, Ralph Van Siclen and Andrew Montrola.

Each district has been assigned a membership quota and a certificate of recognition will be awarded June 17 to the district reaching the highest percentage of its quota by that date. The presentation will be made in conjunction with another activity planned by the club.

Executive-Chairman Mortorana has extended an invitation to all enrolled Republicans in the Town of Plattekill to join the Republican Club. Numerous activities of community interest have been planned by the club which meets on the fourth Tuesday of each month at the Hasbrouck Hall in Modena. The next meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, April 25, at 8 p. m. at which time the recently adopted State Building Code will be presented for discussion.

Pad Sharp Corners

To prevent a toddler from hurting himself on sharp corners, tape "bumpers" of foam rubber sheeting on corners of furniture until the child has learned to walk.

THREE BOOTHS IMPORTANT TO COMMUNITY LIFE—The Lions Club Exhibition at the armory on Manor Avenue has three stations in a row that stress projects important to the life of Kingston or any other community. In the center is a display by the Girl Scouts of America, a Red Feather agency, inviting youngsters to join for reasons of character training, patriotism, and good living. Alongside is the YMCA booth, featuring its athletic program, day camp for youngsters, crafts, and an invitation to learn to swim in its indoor pool. At left are Kathy Coughlin and Ida May DePew at Gateway Industries booth, with displays of clothing, mats, and other articles made at the organization's training center for the handicapped in the building next to the YMCA, where machines and other equipment furnished by local industrialists is used to carry on the program under special supervision. High Falls Vols Talk Rescue Plan

Plans to instruct members of the High Falls Fire Company in use of their new resuscitator and to form a Red Cross rescue squad was among the matters discussed at the meeting of the High Falls Fire Department Tuesday night. Some fifteen members of the company volunteered for the school which will be held to instruct the men in rescue operations.

The meeting held at 8 p. m. at the firehouse was attended by 40 members with President John L. Smith presiding.

It was reported the new kitchen has been practically completed. The pool table, which is no longer used, was donated by the company to a youth group in Kerhonkson.

The new recreation room is practically completed and the company is now ready to let the contract for painting.

Following the business session refreshments were served by the Ladies Auxiliary.

Afros Seek Support

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Twenty-four African nations today sought U.N. support for a broad plan designed to develop Africa's resources with aid from the United States and other affluent nations.

The plan was drawn up in answer to the Kennedy administration's promise to give financial aid if the African nations seized the initiative and worked our their own long-range development program "by, of and for Africa."

The United States has more than 300 steel-making companies, with a total capacity of about 148 million tons annually.

No Word Received By Mrs. Powers On Mate's Release

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga. (AP)—The wife of imprisoned U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers said today that reports of her husband's impending release and decision to remain in the Soviet Union "were all a misunderstanding."

"I have heard nothing officially. I haven't heard one word that would lead me to believe such a thing," said Mrs. Powers in a telephone interview from her mother's home here.

The London Daily Mail said Tuesday that Powers would be freed from a Soviet prison May 1—exactly a year after his reconnaissance plane was shot down over the Soviet Union.

Mrs. Powers conceded that she had talked with a reporter from the Mail, but denied telling him that her husband was to be released.

Mrs. Powers described her husband as being "as all American as you or I. He has no bitterness toward the United States. He has resigned himself to the fact that he has 10 years to serve, perhaps less with time off for good behavior. He constantly expresses a desire to return to the United States with me."

Indict Girl, 16, In Lover's Lane Slaying of Man

TROY, N. Y. (AP) — Sixteen-year-old Betty Joy Ebert, Chicago runaway, was indicted Tuesday on a first-degree murder charge in the shooting of a man who took her to a lovers' lane and was robbed of $12.

The girl, whose father came east last month to plead that her home life had made her a "mixed-up little girl," has been held in county jail since the killing March 3 of James M. Kilduff, 36, of nearby Latham.

The two-count indictment returned by a grand jury to Justice Isadore Bookstein of State Supreme Court charges:

1. First-degree murder, for which the mandatory penalty is death in the electric chair at Sing Sing.

2. First-degree murder in the commission of a felony, for which a jury may recommend that the death penalty be waived.

No date was set for arraignment.

Police say Kilduff, a truck-driver and father of a 4-year-old daughter, offered Betty Joy a ride as she walked from a bus station after arriving here. She accepted the ride, with robbery in mind, and shot him after he had tried to make advances, she told police. She had purchased a .22-caliber revolver in Bennington, Vt.

Her father, Raymond C. Ebert, 46, of Chicago, told reporters here that his drnking and other family difficulties had driven Betty Joy up the wrong path.

MacKinnon Urged For ABC Again

Robert A. MacKinnon, local attorney, has been recommended for reappointment to the local Alcoholic Beverage Control Board by Robert F. Phinney, chairman of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors.

The board is a bi-partisan one composed of a Republican and Democratic member. MacKinnon is the Republican member of the board. The board is so constituted that the chairman of the board of supervisors appoints one member and the State Liquor Authority on the recommendation of the County Chairman makes the second appointment. Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, (R-Woodstock), chairman of the Ulster County Republican Committee, has recommended the reappointment of Harry E. Howard, a Democrat, to said Board.

The term of office is for a period of two years and will expire April 30, 1963.

G. W. Ball Vital Cog in Kennedy Administration

Aid Program, Link With Allies Two Big Jobs of Ex-Adlai Aide

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the truly important jobs in the Kennedy administration is in the hands of a man the country doesn't hear much about, George W. Ball, international lawyer.

The tall, husky Ball, 51, once associated with Adlai Stevenson's Chicago law firm, is assistant secretary of state for economic affairs. That gives him two jobs mainly, both carried out with one eye on the Soviet Union:

Long-Term Basis Now

1. Trying to pull this country's various foreign aid programs together and making them work better than they ever did by putting aid on a long-term basis instead of the year-to-year arrangement of the past.

2. Working closer with American allies—at a time when they are considering working closer together among themselves—not only on foreign aid but all the multitude of economic problems affecting this country's relations with them.

One of the handicaps of the past in helping backward peoples come abreast of the 20th century—at a time when communism insists it can do it better and faster—was the year to year kind of aid this country provided. When a recipient nation didn't know whether next year's aid was coming, it couldn't plan long-range to develop itself.

The Kennedy administration wants to change that by being able to say something like this: "You draw up the plans for your own development, looking years ahead, and if we approve you can count on so much help from us for the next years."

Rough Days Ahead

There's a catch in this: If a country isn't ready or willing to plan ahead it won't get the money.

Since Congress may not buy the long-range idea—it doesn't like to yield the power of being able to veto spending any year it chooses—the administration faces a tough time with the Senate and House.

But the Kennedy administration is optimistic in one direction—that a number of foreign allies, like Germany and Britain, will share a bigger part of the foreign aid expenses by chipping in themselves.

This country is anxious to see closer cooperation among its European allies, not only politically but economically. They've split themselves into two big trading groups: The Inner Six and the Outer Seven.

The seven are Britain, Austria, Denmark, Norway, Portugal, Sweden and Switzerland. The six are France, West Germany, Belgium, Italy, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

This country would like to see Britain get into the Inner Six group which contains United States' other biggest allies in Europe, West Germany and France.

Time Precious Factor

One reason this country would like to see it happen—and the British are considering the idea—is the belief it would bring the big West European countries closer together in cooperation.

Time itself may be a precious factor here since the chance of closer cooperation between Britain, France and West Germany may be better while French President Charles de Gaulle and German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer are in office than when their successors move in.

Last March the United States joined the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, whose 20 members are linked in a joint effort to keep their economies high while contributing to the economic development of underprivileged countries.

There are two pretty good reasons why Ball, despite the size of the job he has, may well remain pretty much in the background.

1. He's pretty quiet anyway.
2. In this administration it's the President who makes the big announcements.

Centennial Concert by Vassar Choir And Harvard Glee Club Sunday, April 16

The Vassar College Choir, the Harvard Glee Club, and the Eastman Wind Ensemble will combine on Sunday, April 16, under the baton of Donald M. Pearson to present a concert in honor of Vassar's Centennial. The program, scheduled for 4 p. m. in the Vassar Chapel, consists of two ceremonial motets by the 16th century composer Giovanni Gabrieli, and the Mass in E Minor by Anton Bruckner.

The two motets—In Ecclesiis and O Jesu Mi Dulcissime—were first published in Gabrieli's Sacrae Symphoniae, Book II, in Venice (1615). These motets were written for grand ceremonial occasions at St. Mark's in Venice. Both are scored for brass instruments with organ continuo and are for eight-part chorus. Miss Janet Kiehle will provide the organ continuo.

The Mass in E Minor by Bruckner (1824-1890) is scored for woodwinds and brasses. It was first performed under the composer's direction in 1869 for the special occasion of dedicating the votive chapel of the new Cathedral of Linz. Bruckner is often called the greatest composer of church music in the Romantic Era. It is an especially suitable work to honor Vassar's Centenary since it was composed in 1866, five years after Vassar College was chartered and one year before the first graduation exercises.

The combined chorus will number 180 voices—110 voices in the Vassar Choir, and 70 voices in the Harvard Glee Club. Professor Elliot Forbes is director of the Harvard Glee Club.

Seventeen players of The Eastman Wind Ensemble from the Eastman School of Music of the University of Rochester will provide the instrumental accompaniment for the concert. Frederick Fennell is conductor of this group which has achieved outstanding success in concerts and recordings.

Miss Lucie Bauer, '61, of Woodbridge, Connecticut, Chairman of the Vassar College Choir Committee is in charge of social arrangements for the Concert.

No tickets are necessary.

Mary E. Cahill Weds Michael J. Strong At St. Mary's of the Snow, Saugerties

SAUGERTIES — Miss Mary Elizabeth Cahill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cahill of 206 Washington Avenue, Saugerties, and Michael Jacob Strong, son of Mrs. John E. Gilman of Tivoli, and the late Jacob H. Strong Jr., were wed in double ring ceremonies at St. Mary's of the Snow Church in Saugerties on Monday, April 3. The Rev. Joseph F. Hamilton, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Church, officiated at the 2 p. m. marriage.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white silk organza which featured Swiss embroidery on the bodice and puffed sleeves. Her French silk illusion veil was attached to an organza cap and she carried a cascade bouquet of white phalaenopsis orchids and lilies of the valley.

Miss Anne M. Cahill was maid of honor for her sister. Other attendants were Eileen F. Cahill, another sister, and Miss Catherine Gilman of Tivoli.

Centennial Concert by Vassar Choir And Harvard Glee Club Sunday, April 16

The Vassar College Choir, the Harvard Glee Club, and the Eastman Wind Ensemble will combine on Sunday, April 16, under the baton of Donald M. Pearson to present a concert in honor of Vassar's Centennial. The program, scheduled for 4 p. m. in the Vassar Chapel, consists of two ceremonial motets by the 16th century composer Giovanni Gabrieli, and the Mass in E Minor by Anton Bruckner.

The two motets—In Ecclesiis and O Jesu Mi Dulcissime—were first published in Gabrieli's Sacrae Symphoniae, Book II, in Venice (1615). These motets were written for grand ceremonial occasions at St. Mark's in Venice. Both are scored for brass instruments with organ continuo and are for eight-part chorus. Miss Janet Kiehle will provide the organ continuo.

The Mass in E Minor by Bruckner (1824-1890) is scored for woodwinds and brasses. It was first performed under the composer's direction in 1869 for the special occasion of dedicating the votive chapel of the new Cathedral of Linz. Bruckner is often called the greatest composer of church music in the Romantic Era. It is an especially suitable work to honor Vassar's Centenary since it was composed in 1866, five years after Vassar College was chartered and one year before the first graduation exercises.

The combined chorus will number 180 voices—110 voices in the Vassar Choir, and 70 voices in the Harvard Glee Club. Professor Elliot Forbes is director of the Harvard Glee Club.

Seventeen players of The Eastman Wind Ensemble from the Eastman School of Music of the University of Rochester will provide the instrumental accompaniment for the concert. Frederick Fennell is conductor of this group which has achieved outstanding success in concerts and recordings.

Miss Lucie Bauer, '61, of Woodbridge, Connecticut, Chairman of the Vassar College Choir Committee is in charge of social arrangements for the Concert.

No tickets are necessary.

Lyric Choristers Will Feature Guest Singer at Spring Concert April 19 Here

CONSTANCE JESSUP

Constance Jessup, of Poughkeepsie, a favorite choice as soprano soloist with many area choral and orchestra groups, will be the guest artist at the spring concert of Lyric Choristers Wednesday night, April 19, 8:15 p. m. at the George Washington School auditorium. The mixed chorus who will be remembered for their fine Christmas program here is under the direction of Edward Green of Stone Ridge, supervising principal of the Rondout Valley School System.

Mrs. Jessup, a graduate of Oberlin Conservatory of Music, has appeared in Kingston as soloist with the Mendelssohn Club, St. Peter's Church Choral and Dramatic Society; and the Poughkeepsie Community Mixed Chorus, of which she is one of the assistant directors and conductor of the A Cappella Choir within the chorus.

While a resident of Niagara Falls she appeared with Niagara Falls Philharmonic Orchestra as soloist and in performances of numerous oratorios and operas. She presented concerts on stage and radio in Western New York including Niagara Falls, Buffalo, Erie, Pa., and also in Canada. Mrs. Jessup also appeared with the Arnor Musicale ensemble at Carnegie Recital Hall in New York.

The soprano has appeared as soloist with the Dutchess County Philharmonic Orchestra, the Euterpe and Singers Clubs in Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. Jessup has studied voice and choral conducting at Chautauqua Music Colony. She is former director of the Sacred Heart Church Choir in Oberlin, O., and the Holy Trinity Church Choir in Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. Jessup will be accompanied by Irene Leverett, also accompanist for the Community Mixed Chorus and noted for her folk song recitals.

Her numbers for the Lyric Choristers' concert will include Will o' the Wisp by Charles Gilbert Spross; Lullaby, Cyril Scott; Alleluia from Motet: Epsultate, jubilate, W. A. Mozart; Chere Nuit, Bachelete; and Jewel Song from "Faust," Gounod.

Tickets for the concert may be obtained from any member of the Lyric Choristers or at the door.

WHEN A NAME IS MISPRONOUNCED

Q: My husband and I were invited to a rather large tea and cocktail party last Sunday. The host and hostess were people we had met only twice before. When the hostesss introduced us to some of the other guests, she mispronounced our name, and I immediately corrected her. My husband took me to task later and said that I had embarrassed the hostess by doing this. He thinks I should have just let it go. I can't see that there was anything wrong in what I did and would like your opinion on the matter.

A: If she had used the wrong name in introducing you, you would have been right in correcting her, but it would have been better to let her mispronouncing of the right name go unnoticed at a big party where many rather casual introductions were being made.

R.S.V.P. was Omitted

Q: I recently received an invitation to a church wedding and reception. The invitation did not carry the usual R.S.V.P. so I did not reply and I understand that several other guests did not reply either. We were told later the R.S.V.P. was unnecessary and that anyone receiving an invitation to a wedding reception should know enough to acknowledge it. Will you please tell me if we were wrong?

A: You were not wrong. The family of the bride should have added R.S.V.P. to their invitations if they were interested in knowing how many would come to the reception.

Tips for Dressing Room Attendants

Q: When an attendant in a dressing room of a theatre or a restaurant has rendered no special service, except perhaps to hand you a towel, is it necessary to leave something on the plate which she has provided for tips, and if so, how much?

A: Yes, ten or twenty-five cents depending on how luxurious the theatre or restaurant may be.

Klein Adjourns Narcotics Case Until April 19

Three men and a woman arrested Saturday night on charges of illegal possession of narcotics in a police raid at a 251 Abeel Street apartment pleaded innocent Tuesday night before City Judge Aaron E. Klein and received adjournments until April 19 at 9 a. m.

The defendants are: Binford Hamilton Smith, 33, a presser, of High Falls, who authorities said rented the Abeel Street apartment a week prior to the raid; Gary Lewis, 18, a car washer, of 44 Tompkins Street, and his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth May Lewis, 26, same address, and Gilbert J. Henderson, 22, a car washer, of 223 Catherine Street.

Joseph Avis, attorney, appeared with Lewis and his wife and Henderson and requested the adjournment. Smith said he would retain counsel before the next court appearance.

The adjournment was granted for trial or disposition of the charges on April 19.

Assistant District Attorney Francis J. Vogt and Police Chief Robert F. Murphy were in charge of the raiding party which comprised state troopers, Deputy Police Chief Grover Hoffay, detectives and other department members.

Police said they seized five marijuana cigarettes in the Abeel Street rooms.

The defendants are specifically charged with violating Section 3305 of the State Public Health law.

Gen. James McPherson, highest-ranking Union officer killed in the Civil War, was born at Clyde, Ohio.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A changed man is Gary Crosby.

You can sense it just talking to him. The words flow freely. There is none of the doubt and suspicion that were once displayed by the first-born of Bing's boys.

He admits that change himself. "I was always fighting," he says. "I blamed myself for everything that went wrong."

Love Has Hand

What brought about the change? A series of physical reverses-plus love and marriage.

Two years ago, the four Crosbys opened their night club act in Las Vegas. Gary's drive helped make the debut a success. But the tension continued on their nationwide tour, and he suffered a series of colds and throat ailments.

"By the time we reached Montreal, I was screeching—ruining my voice by singing in my throat instead of lower, as singers are supposed to do," he recalled.

Montreal was the end of the line. The act broke up and came home. Gary vehemently denied that there had been any fights among the brothers, as had been reported.

"My doctor told me not to use my voice for five months or I wouldn't have any," Gary said. "So for five months I didn't go out of my house. I told the brothers it was ridiculous to wait around for me; they were working well together and should go on as a trio. They did, and it turned out fine."

Says Dad Greatest

Gary recovered and began taking vocal lessons to use his voice correctly. "Every singer should, except my dad—he's the greatest natural singing talent in the world," said Gary.

He had his own success in night clubs as a single. But illness struck again. On two occasions he lost the use of his legs. Then one day at his Hollywood home, he was unable to move. He was rushed to the hospital almost completely paralyzed. Quick treatment saved his life. Cause of the attack: Long use of the wrong diet pills.

Gary freely admits the turning point in his life came when he plucked Barbara Stuart from a Las Vegas chorus line to be his bride.

The female phalarope, which has brighter plumage and takes the initiative in courtship, is larger than the male.

Cottekill Vols Schedule Supper, Carnival, Bake

Three events have been scheduled by Cottekill Volunteer Fire Company as part of the fund-raising program during the coming months.

The first is scheduled for Saturday, May 6, when a spaghetti supper will be held. Vernon Quick, chairman, indicates the event will be one of the finest ever held. Tickets are available.

During the early part of July the annual carnival is scheduled at Cottekill Fire Hall.

The third fund-raising event is the annual clambake scheduled for the second Sunday in August. A limited number of tickets for the bake will be available.

Cottekill Volunteer Fire Company will be in charge of the next Rosendale Firemen's Association fire drill in May. Chief Ralph Temple hopes to cover another area in the district for this drill.

Fred Quick, company president, reports that all firemen of the Cottekill district are paid up to date on their dues. The announcement also came from Gus Backert, secretary.

Rochester Town Awards Oil Bid

Fuel oil bids for heating the Town of Rochester garage were received at the April meeting of the town board Thursday and the contract was awarded to William Anderson, Inc., low bidder.

Bids for cold patch and "1-A" stone or pea gravel were rejected and they will be readvertised calling for new bids to be in the town clerk's office by 12 o'clock noon April 27.

New contracts for furnishing lights in the Accord Light District, the Kerhonkson Light District and the General Town Charges were received from Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation.

Routine business including presentation of reports, reading communications and auditing bills for payments from the General Fund transacted.

All members of the town board were present, including Superintendent Richard T. Gray and Assessors Harold Schwab and Sam Waruch.

Prior to the meeting members of the town board paid their respects to Assessor Farries Smith by attending the funeral services at the H. B. Humiston Funeral Home. Siena, White Plains Gain Wins in YMCA Cage Tournament

WATCHING THE YANKS—Marilyn Monroe and her ex-husband Joe DiMaggio are very attentive as they watch the opening day game at Yankee Stadium April 11. The former Yankee great and the beautiful blond actress watched the Minnesota Twins and the Yankees from the team's private box. (NEA Telephoto)

Billy Golembiewski Will Be Here Tonight

Billy Golembiewski, one of bowling's top performers, will appear tonight at the Lions Club exposition from 7 to 9 at the Armory on Manor Avenue and will then roll two exhibition matches at the Bowlero, according to proprietor John Sangi.

"Billy G." as he's called by the nation's sportswriters, will bowl two matches of two games each. He'll team with Harold Broskie and shoot against Bob Shelightner and Jerry Kaplan and he will roll with Mike Rienzo against Dick Howard and Tom Carlino.

During his appearance at the Exposition, Golembiewski will give tips on bowling and will also talk about equipment. The public is invited to attend.

Yankees Play Exhibition At West Point on Friday

WEST POINT — The New York Yankees, favored to win the American League pennant once again, will renew its exhibition series with the Army baseball team at Doubleday Field Friday.

The game, which will start at 3 p. m., is open to the public. There will be no admission charge.

Led by the double M-boys, Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris, the Yanks will be making their first visit to West Point since 1944 when they beat the Cadets, 11-0.

The 11 game series, all won by the Yankees, dates back to 1927 when the Yanks brought the immortal Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig to West Point.

The Yanks don't have a murderers' row like that of the Ruth-Gehrig era, but as a team last year, they hit 193 home runs, 43 more than their nearest rival, in setting an American League record.

Besides the Mantle-Maris combine, the Yanks have a hatful of other stars. There is Yogi Berra, catcher, outfielder, clown and author; Bill "Moose" Skowron, who led the club in hitting—.309—and drove in 91 runs; Tony Kubek, "Mr. Versatile," and pitchers Whitey Ford and Bob Turley.

And the Yanks will be under a new manager in Ralph Houk who replaced Casey Stengel.

Piermont Five, Maines' Drop Opening Tilts

There's a dark horse club in the Kingston YMCA Basketball tournament. Last night at the Broadway court, the Siena Friars spotted the Piermont Cornhuskers a 15 point lead midway through the third quarter and then came roaring back to win an 89-84 decision and advance to the semi-finals of the tourney.

The Friars will meet the Ricci Pipers of White Plains, who used a productive second half to jolt Maines' Automotive of Kingston, 89-70, in the second attraction.

Piermont had won the Hudson Valley tourney at the Poughkeepsie YMCA under the banner of Nyack. The team looked like a sure winner last night, leading, 60-45, late in the third stanza. However, the Rockland County club became ice cold and the Friars started to jell.

The former Siena college aces moved ahead early in the fourth period and had opened the gap to as many as 11 points before the Cornuskers made a belated bid.

Coates Gets 36

Five of the winners were in double figures and they were enough to match a sterling performance by Ed Coates of the losers. He had 36 points. Tony Citerella, the MVP in the Poughkeepsie tourney, had 16 markers and Bob Brown, the Fairleigh Dickinson star, tallied 15.

A hustling Maines' club stayed on even terms with the sky scraping Pipers for the first half but the superior height began to take its toll in the third quarter and the local quintet fell far behind.

Al Byrne, George Uhl and Billy DuBois were outstanding. They ballhawked the White Plains crew and forced the Pipers into numerous mistakes. The clubs were deadlocked, 39-39, at the halftime intermission.

Nine Straight Points

The Pipers scored nine straight points at the start of the third period and they remained from eight to a dozen points ahead the rest of the way.

Ted Young scored 24 to pace the winners. Jim Peay, former Denver University performer, had 12 and plucked the backboards clean. Clarence Davenport, John Keels and Bob Johnson were also in double figures. Byrne, Uhl and DuBois did good scoring for the losers.

Action continues tonight with two local quintets in the spotlight. At 7:15, the French Dye Cleaners, featuring Joe Uhl, will oppose the Middletown Accords and then at 8:30 the powerful Ray's Tackle Shop club will oppose Van Voorhis Lumber of Fishkill.

Gary Threatens Palmer's Record

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — Gary Player, a young South African who amazed the golfing world by winning the Masters at Augusta, Ga., Monday, is riding a financial crest which may threaten Arnold Palmer's existing record.

Player's $20,000 for winning the Masters brings his official earnings this year to $44,185.33. This is more than Player made on the rugged tournament trail for the combined years 1957-60.

However, Palmer, of Ligonier, Pa., is still threatening. His tie for second in the Masters brought his total earnings up to $31,725.00.

Roberts Loses On Infield Hit; Giants Bow, 8-7

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

An infield hit by Charlie Neal off Robin Roberts leg led the way to a three-run inning and gave Los Angeles a 6-2 victory over Philadelphia Tuesday night. That put the Dodgers in a first place tie with Pittsburgh's world champion Pirates, the St. Louis Cardinals and the Cincinnati Reds as the National League opened the 1961 baseball season.

In the other NL openers, all afternoon contests, the Pirates were back in the old groove, coming from behind on Bill Virdon's three-run homer with two out in the ninth for an 8-7 victory at San Francisco. St. Louis defeated Milwaukee and Warren Spahn 2-1 on Daryl Spencer's solo home run in the 10th inning, and Cincinnati, rolling on homers by Frank Robinson and Wally Post, walloped Chicago's Cubs 7-1.

Sixth Opening Loss

Roberts, setting a NL record with his 12th opening day assignment for the Phils, wound up with a 5-6 record for inaugurals after the three-run Dodger seventh. Pinch-hitter Ron Fairly capped that rally with a two-run double, and rookie Carl Warwick drove in the final run with a pinch single, following two walks by Philie reliever Ken Lehman, in the eighth.

The Dodgers started fast, scoring in the first inning when speedster Maury Wills singled, went to second on a sacrifice and then scampered home on a single by Tommy Davis. Wally Moon homered in the second, but Johnny Callison then squared it for the Phils with a two-run homer in the third inning off winner Don Drysdale.

Southpaw Mike McCormick, whom new Giant Manager Al Dark had exempted from relief work earlier this spring, was hustled in to face left-handed hitter Virdon in the ninth after the Pirates had put the tying runs on base against Stu Miller with two out. Virdon creamed McCormick's first pitch. Sad Sam Jones started for the Giants, but left in a two-run sixth. Willie McCovey batted in two runs and Orlando belted solo homers, off Pirate starter Bob Friend. Elroy Face was the winner.

The Cardinals, blanked on two hits for seven innings, scored the tying run in the eighth off Spahn on Hal Smith's triple and a pinch single by Bob Nieman. Spencer's shot then put it away. Lindy McDaniel pitched three hitless innings and gained the decision in relief of Ernie Broglio, who gave up four hits, one was Ed Mathews fourth-inning home run.

Cincinnati collected 14 hits off loser Glen Hobbie and three relievers with Post's three-run homer breaking a 1-1 tie in the third. Jim O'Toole was the winner with a four-hitter.

Casey in Ball Park, Just as a Spectator

LOS ANGELES (AP)—For the first time in more than two decades, Casey Stengel watched the opening of a baseball season as a fan instead of a manager.

The transition didn't seem to bother him, particularly when he learned the New York Yankees got shut out 6-0 in their opener by the Minnesota Twins.

"You never miss those kind," said Casey.

180 Freshmen Routed By Smoke at College

No one was reported injured.

The freshman returned to their rooms after the building was cleared of smoke, a school official said.

The fire began in the basement music room of the west dormitory and destroyed some pianos, the official said.

No damage estimate was available.

The cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

HERE WE GO AGAIN—The Cleveland Indians' Jimmy Piersall, who has never been known as a timid soul on the ball field, shouts his displeasure after a ball thrown by pitcher Jim Bunning of the Tigers forced Jimmy to hit the dirt in the second inning of the year's opener in Detroit April 11. 284,732 Attend 1960 Openers

Major league baseball's nine-game, two-day opening drew 284,732 fans with the top crowd, 50,665, sitting in on Tuesday night's game between the Philadelphia Phillies and Los Angeles Dodgers at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Bolstered by the Los Angeles throng, the National League's four openers attracted 154,128. The American League, after drawing 26,725 at Monday's presidential opener in Washington, added 103,879 in four games Tuesday despite poor weather for a total of 129,604.

Last year, when the majors also counted nine-games on their opening schedules, the crowds totaled 370,435.

Ramos Allows AL Champions Only Three Hits

By TED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The wrong teams got off on the right foot Tuesday as the American League completed its opening schedule. The Minnesota Twins, with Pedro Ramos allowing just three singles, beat the pennant favored New York Yankees 6-0, and the new Los Angeles Angels, behind the six-hit pitching of Eli Grba, tripped Baltimore's hopeful Orioles 7-2.

Cleveland took off a-running with a 9-5 decision at Detroit, and Kansas City smacked the Boston Red Sox 5-2. The White Sox and Washington, who opened Monday, were idle.

Ramos, who lost 18 and won but 11 last season, walked just one man and struck out five while putting away the second three-hitter of his career and the first opening day shutout suffered by the Yankees in eight years.

Klu Hits Two Homers

Grba, never a winner against the Orioles in two seasons with the Yankees, squared his major league record at 9-9 after getting all the backing he needed from Ted Kluszewski. Big Klu walloped a pair of home runs and drove in five runs as the Angels counted three runs in the first and four in the second against loser Milt Pappas and John Papa, a 21-year-old right-hander making his major league debut. Bob Cerv also homered for the Angels.

A six-run second inning, with three unearned, wrapped it up for the Indians and Jim Ferry, who went all the way with a seven-hitter. Bubba Phillips hit a two-run homer for the Indians, who had 18 hits—four each by Vic Power and Jimmy Piersall and two by ex-Giant Willie Kirkland. Jim Bunning was the loser.

Ray Herbert allowed only six hits, but needed relief by Don Larsen and a mop-up save by Bud Daley as the A's defeated the Red Sox at Boston. Four Red Sox errors led to four unearned runs for Kansas City with Herbert bringing in the first two with a second-inning single. Bill Monbouquette was the loser.

Billy Golembiewski Will Be Here Tonight

Billy Golembiewski, one of bowling's top performers, will appear tonight at the Lions Club exposition from 7 to 9 at the Armory on Manor Avenue and will then roll two exhibition matches at the Bowlero, according to proprietor John Sangi.

"Billy G." as he's called by the nation's sportswriters, will bowl two matches of two games each. He'll team with Harold Broskie and shoot against Bob Shelightner and Jerry Kaplan and he will roll with Mike Rienzo against Dick Howard and Tom Carlino.

During his appearance at the Exposition, Golembiewski will give tips on bowling and will also talk about equipment. The public is invited to attend.

Yankees Play Exhibition At West Point on Friday

WEST POINT — The New York Yankees, favored to win the American League pennant once again, will renew its exhibition series with the Army baseball team at Doubleday Field Friday.

The game, which will start at 3 p. m., is open to the public. There will be no admission charge.

Led by the double M-boys, Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris, the Yanks will be making their first visit to West Point since 1944 when they beat the Cadets, 11-0.

The 11 game series, all won by the Yankees, dates back to 1927 when the Yanks brought the immortal Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig to West Point.

The Yanks don't have a murderers' row like that of the Ruth-Gehrig era, but as a team last year, they hit 193 home runs, 43 more than their nearest rival, in setting an American League record.

Besides the Mantle-Maris combine, the Yanks have a hatful of other stars. There is Yogi Berra, catcher, outfielder, clown and author; Bill "Moose" Skowron, who led the club in hitting—.309—and drove in 91 runs; Tony Kubek, "Mr. Versatile," and pitchers Whitey Ford and Bob Turley.

And the Yanks will be under a new manager in Ralph Houk who replaced Casey Stengel.

Coached by Eric Tipton, former major league outfielder, Army's baseball team is the defending eastern champion. The Cadets won their first two games this season, beating Manhattan, 4-0 and Swarthmore, 18-0.

Last night at the Broadway court, the Siena Friars spotted the Piermont Cornhuskers a 15 point lead midway through the third quarter and then came roaring back to win an 89-84 decision and advance to the semi-finals of the tourney.

The Friars will meet the Ricci Pipers of White Plains, who used a productive second half to jolt Maines' Automotive of Kingston, 89-70, in the second attraction.

Piermont had won the Hudson Valley tourney at the Poughkeepsie YMCA under the banner of Nyack. The team looked like a sure winner last night, leading, 60-45, late in the third stanza. However, the Rockland County club became ice cold and the Friars started to jell.

The former Siena college aces moved ahead early in the fourth period and had opened the gap to as many as 11 points before the Cornuskers made a belated bid.

Coates Gets 36

Five of the winners were in double figures and they were enough to match a sterling performance by Ed Coates of the losers. He had 36 points. Tony Citerella, the MVP in the Poughkeepsie tourney, had 16 markers and Bob Brown, the Fairleigh Dickinson star, tallied 15.

A hustling Maines' club stayed on even terms with the sky scraping Pipers for the first half but the superior height began to take its toll in the third quarter and the local quintet fell far behind.

Al Byrne, George Uhl and Billy DuBois were outstanding. They ballhawked the White Plains crew and forced the Pipers into numerous mistakes. The clubs were deadlocked, 39-39, at the halftime intermission.

Nine Straight Points

The Pipers scored nine straight points at the start of the third period and they remained from eight to a dozen points ahead the rest of the way.

Ted Young scored 24 to pace the winners. Jim Peay, former Denver University performer, had 12 and plucked the backboards clean. Clarence Davenport, John Keels and Bob Johnson were also in double figures. Byrne, Uhl and DuBois did good scoring for the losers.

Action continues tonight with two local quintets in the spotlight. At 7:15, the French Dye Cleaners, featuring Joe Uhl, will oppose the Middletown Accords and then at 8:30 the powerful Ray's Tackle Shop club will oppose Van Voorhis Lumber of Fishkill.

Roberts Loses On Infield Hit; Giants Bow, 8-7

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

An infield hit by Charlie Neal off Robin Roberts leg led the way to a three-run inning and gave Los Angeles a 6-2 victory over Philadelphia Tuesday night. That put the Dodgers in a first place tie with Pittsburgh's world champion Pirates, the St. Louis Cardinals and the Cincinnati Reds as the National League opened the 1961 baseball season.

In the other NL openers, all afternoon contests, the Pirates were back in the old groove, coming from behind on Bill Virdon's three-run homer with two out in the ninth for an 8-7 victory at San Francisco. St. Louis defeated Milwaukee and Warren Spahn 2-1 on Daryl Spencer's solo home run in the 10th inning, and Cincinnati, rolling on homers by Frank Robinson and Wally Post, walloped Chicago's Cubs 7-1.

Sixth Opening Loss

Roberts, setting a NL record with his 12th opening day assignment for the Phils, wound up with a 5-6 record for inaugurals after the three-run Dodger seventh. Pinch-hitter Ron Fairly capped that rally with a two-run double, and rookie Carl Warwick drove in the final run with a pinch single, following two walks by Phillie reliever Ken Lehman, in the eighth.

The Dodgers started fast, scoring in the first inning when speedster Maury Wills singled, went to second on a sacrifice and then scampered home on a single by Tommy Davis. Wally Moon homered in the second, but Johnny Callison then squared it for the Phils with a two-run homer in the third inning off winner Don Drysdale.

Southpaw Mike McCormick, whom new Giant Manager Al Dark had exempted from relief work earlier this spring, was hustled in to face left-handed hitter Virdon in the ninth after the Pirates had put the tying runs on base against Stu Miller with two out. Virdon creamed McCormick's first pitch. Sad Sam Jones started for the Giants, but left in a two-run sixth. Willie McCovey batted in two runs and Orlando belted solo homers, off Pirate starter Bob Friend. Elroy Face was the winner.

The Cardinals, blanked on two hits for seven innings, scored the tying run in the eighth off Spahn on Hal Smith's triple and a pinch single by Bob Nieman. Spencer's shot then put it away. Lindy McDaniel pitched three hitless innings and gained the decision in relief of Ernie Broglio, who gave up four hits, one was Ed Mathews fourth-inning home run.

Cincinnati collected 14 hits off loser Glen Hobbie and three relievers with Post's three-run homer breaking a 1-1 tie in the third. Jim O'Toole was the winner with a four-hitter.

Casey in Ball Park, Just as a Spectator

LOS ANGELES (AP)—For the first time in more than two decades, Casey Stengel watched the opening of a baseball season as a fan instead of a manager.

The transition didn't seem to bother him, particularly when he learned the New York Yankees got shut out 6-0 in their opener by the Minnesota Twins.

"You never miss those kind," said Casey.

180 Freshmen Routed By Smoke at College

No one was reported injured.

The freshman returned to their rooms after the building was cleared of smoke, a school official said.

The fire began in the basement music room of the west dormitory and destroyed some pianos, the official said.

No damage estimate was available.

Gary Threatens Palmer's Record

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — Gary Player, a young South African who amazed the golfing world by winning the Masters at Augusta, Ga., Monday, is riding a financial crest which may threaten Arnold Palmer's existing record.

Player's $20,000 for winning the Masters brings his official earnings this year to $44,185.33. This is more than Player made on the rugged tournament trail for the combined years 1957-60.

However, Palmer, of Ligonier, Pa., is still threatening. His tie for second in the Masters brought his total earnings up to $31,725.00.

Palmer broke the record last year by taking home more than $80,000.

HERE WE GO AGAIN—The Cleveland Indians' Jimmy Piersall, who has never been known as a timid soul on the ball field, shouts his displeasure after a ball thrown by pitcher Jim Bunning of the Tigers forced Jimmy to hit the dirt in the second inning of the year's opener in Detroit April 11. 284,732 Attend 1960 Openers

Major league baseball's nine-game, two-day opening drew 284,732 fans with the top crowd, 50,665, sitting in on Tuesday night's game between the Philadelphia Phillies and Los Angeles Dodgers at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Bolstered by the Los Angeles throng, the National League's four openers attracted 154,128. The American League, after drawing 26,725 at Monday's presidential opener in Washington, added 103,879 in four games Tuesday despite poor weather for a total of 129,604.

Last year, when the majors also counted nine-games on their opening schedules, the crowds totaled 370,435.

Ramos Allows AL Champions Only Three Hits

By TED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The wrong teams got off on the right foot Tuesday as the American League completed its opening schedule. The Minnesota Twins, with Pedro Ramos allowing just three singles, beat the pennant favored New York Yankees 6-0, and the new Los Angeles Angels, behind the six-hit pitching of Eli Grba, tripped Baltimore's hopeful Orioles 7-2.

Cleveland took off a-running with a 9-5 decision at Detroit, and Kansas City smacked the Boston Red Sox 5-2. The White Sox and Washington, who opened Monday, were idle.

Ramos, who lost 18 and won but 11 last season, walked just one man and struck out five while putting away the second three-hitter of his career and the first opening day shutout suffered by the Yankees in eight years.

Klu Hits Two Homers

Grba, never a winner against the Orioles in two seasons with the Yankees, squared his major league record at 9-9 after getting all the backing he needed from Ted Kluszewski. Big Klu walloped a pair of home runs and drove in five runs as the Angels counted three runs in the first and four in the second against loser Milt Pappas and John Papa, a 21-year-old right-hander making his major league debut. Bob Cerv also homered for the Angels.

A six-run second inning, with three unearned, wrapped it up for the Indians and Jim Perry, who went all the way with a seven-hitter. Bubba Phillips hit a two-run homer for the Indians, who had 18 hits—four each by Vic Power and Jimmy Piersall and two by ex-Giant Willie Kirkland. Jim Bunning was the loser.

Ray Herbert allowed only six hits, but needed relief by Don Larsen and a mop-up save by Bud Daley as the A's defeated the Red Sox at Boston. Four Red Sox errors led to four unearned runs for Kansas City with Herbert bringing in the first two with a second-inning single. Bill Monbouquette was the loser.

Team to Begin Season on Friday At Roosevelt

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Only 22 candidates have reported for baseball at Kingston High School and Coach Al Gruner is going to be a Casey Stengel this season, shifting several of them to different positions. The Maroon players are scheduled to open their season on Friday at Roosevelt Central, weather permitting.

Starting his sixth season as varsity baseball coach, Gruner said the candidates are the fewest in number he can recall. Several positions are still wide open, though some of them will be manned by returning veterans.

Pitching Is Wide Open

There's a wide open battle for a spot on the pitching staff. Mike Spada and Tom Gardner, the two aces from last season, have departed from the scene. Leading candidates are Terry Confer, Bob Dunn, Mike Celuch and Mike Ferraro. Also seeking berths are Jerry Howard, Bill Reed, Lonnie McAndrew.

John Hetsco is back and he'll handle the number one catching job. He did well last season, both in hitting and on defense. Backing him up will be Joe Bianco while Paul Natale and Al Gruner will also be available for backstop duties.

Eric Broberg is back at first base and Ken Horne figures to be the number two performer. Second base is wide open with Ronnie Thomas and Gerry Hawkins the top contenders. Jimmy Rua started there last season and he was graduated in June.

Ronnie Secreto returns at third base and John Saban is also a candidate for that position. Ferraro and Confer figures to alternate at shortstop, when they aren't hurling. Vinnie Smedes, who just came out for the sport, will be the handy man in the infield. He can play most of the positions.

One Outfielder Back

Leading outfield candidates include Frank Allen, Natale, Pete Tartarzewski, Gruner and Reed.

Coach Gruner feels that Newburgh has the edge in the DUSO race. The Goldbacks have their two ace hurlers, Jimmy McMillan and Jack Wolpe back this season.

"We expect to give a good account of ourselves," said Gruner. He's hoping the hitting will be as sound as it was last year and then he will have to count on some good hurling.

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

NEW YORK — (NEA) — After dishing out more than a million in bonus money, the Red Sox wind up asking a 21-year-old kid, in his second season as a pro, to bail them out.

All Carl Yastrzemski has to do is be another Ted Williams. Unless the unpronounceable Yastrzemski turns out to be a three alarm fire, it is difficult to peg Boston above any outfit except Kansas City and the two new American League clubs, which would duplicate the seventh place finish of '60.

Carl Yastrzemski

The pitching is only fair. The infield could be leaky as usual. There is little batting punch. Without Jackie Jensen, the Back Bay Millionaires would be helpless. That is unless Yaswhat's-his-name turns out to be something very extra special.

Everybody associated with the Bosox and a lot of others who have seen him seem to believe they have a world beater in the Notre Dame $100,000 bonus beauty with the long name. Once in a great while a youngster like Mickey Mantle has major league talent from the outset. Yastrzemski—throw out the z and pronounce it Yastrem-ski—could be one.

To date the converted infielder and son of a semi-professional ballplayer out of Southampton, Long Island, has led the B Carolina League in batting with .366 and last season just missed showing the way in the Triple A American Association with .339.

Outside of batting left-handed, Yas, as we have nicknamed him, resembles Williams roughly about as much as James A. Farley look like Frank Sinatra. Compared to Williams, willowy at 6-4 and 198, Yastrzemski is chunky at 5-11 and 185.

Where Williams pulled the ball and hit towering home runs — 521 of them — Yas swats the ball savagely and on the line to all fields from something slightly remindful of the Stan Musial crouch. He has extraordinary wrists and a quick swing, a sure antidote against setting any sort of a record for striking out.

Chuck Schilling, a two-year minor-leaguer like Yastrzemski, starts at second base, where he appears able to make the plays. Schilling has the marks of the Gold Sox' slickest second baseman since Bobby Doerr, but he's a little guy and the question is whether he'll hit enough singles. Brilliant as he may be, he will be handicapped by having the erratic Don Buddin at shortstop.

The veteran Pete Runnels is at the outset a utility man, but he remains the club's high average hitter. Jensen joins Vic Wertz as a run batter-inner. Frank Malzone is excellent at third base, but except for the already oft-mentioned Carl Yastrzemski, that's all there is.

Rexall Boy Wins Yonkers Feature

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—Rexall Boy, the 4-5 favorite, took charge half-way around and scored a neck win over Hoot Dolmont in Tuesday night's $6,000 Tuckahoe Trot before 17,970 at Yonkers Raceway. Time for the mile was 2:05 1-5.

Owned by Roger, Harry and Robert Ivey of Mineral Pt., Wis., the eight-year-old son of Rodney, returned $3.80 for his third win in four starts. The winner has now earned $11,850 this season and $80,729 lifetime.

Sumter Prince finished third a length and three-quarters behind Hoot Dolmont and three-quarters of a length in front of Demon Damsel.

Driver Richard Thomas was suspended for five nights for moving War Haven into the path of High Heels, driven by Gene Bell, in the fourth race. Gene Bell was fined $50 for not reporting the foul.

It was an all New Jersey $121.60 daily double at Yonkers as Dixie's Pride took the first race and Panther scored in the second.

Celts Win On Magic By Russell

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — The old pro Boston Celtics — schoolboy happy and professionally proud — today reign from the high position they have held for three years, champions of the National Basketball Association.

As usual, it was a team effort. But as usual, it was keyed by the great Bill Russell and the incomparable Bob Cousy.

Russell, the 6-foot-10 post man and the league's most valuable player, scored 30 points—22 of them in the first half as Boston struggled to a 62-61 intermission —and hauled down 38 rebounds.

Cousy, the veteran backcourt man who wears the label "Mr. Basketball," scored 18 points, 13 of them in Boston's third-quarter burst that broke open the game, and contributed 12 assists.

The Cooz, who played 42 minutes on the dead run in Boston's lung-straining fast break, collapsed after the game and took no part in the victory celebration.

"Russell was fantastic," St. Louis Coach Paul Seymour said. "He kept them alive in that first half. He gave them life. Thirty-eight rebounds. And then that third quarter. That did it."

The third-quarter spurt, in which Boston outscored St. Louis 37-23, gave the Celtics a 15-point lead and apparently put it out of reach. But the Hawks came clawing back.

Moved by the scoring prowess of Cliff Hagan and Bob Pettit, who had 26 and 24 points respectively, St. Louis closed to within five points before Cousy, Tommy Heinsohn, Frank Ramsey and Sam Jones finished the job.

Only 22 Candidates Report for Baseball at Kingston High

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Only 22 candidates have reported for baseball at Kingston High School and Coach Al Gruner is going to be a Casey Stengel this season, shifting several of them to different positions. The Maroon players are scheduled to open their season on Friday at Roosevelt Central, weather permitting.

Starting his sixth season as varsity baseball coach, Gruner said the candidates are the fewest in number he can recall. Several positions are still wide open, though some of them will be manned by returning veterans.

Pitching Is Wide Open

There's a wide open battle for a spot on the pitching staff. Mike Spada and Tom Gardner, the two aces from last season, have departed from the scene. Leading candidates are Terry Confer, Bob Dunn, Mike Celuch and Mike Ferraro. Also seeking berths are Jerry Howard, Bill Reed, Lonnie McAndrew.

John Hetsco is back and he'll handle the number one catching job. He did well last season, both in hitting and on defense. Backing him up will be Joe Bianco while Paul Natale and Al Gruner will also be available for backstop duties.

Eric Broberg is back at first base and Ken Horne figures to be the number two performer. Second base is wide open with Ronnie Thomas and Gerry Hawkins the top contenders. Jimmy Rua started there last season and he was graduated in June.

Ronnie Secreto returns at third base and John Saban is also a candidate for that position. Ferraro and Confer figures to alternate at shortstop, when they aren't hurling. Vinnie Smedes, who just came out for the sport, will be the handy man in the infield. He can play most of the positions.

One Outfielder Back

Leading outfield candidates include Frank Allen, Natale, Pete Tartarzewski, Gruner and Reed.

Coach Gruner feels that Newburgh has the edge in the DUSO race. The Goldbacks have their two ace hurlers, Jimmy McMillan and Jack Wolpe back this season.

"We expect to give a good account of ourselves," said Gruner. He's hoping the hitting will be as sound as it was last year and then he will have to count on some good hurling.

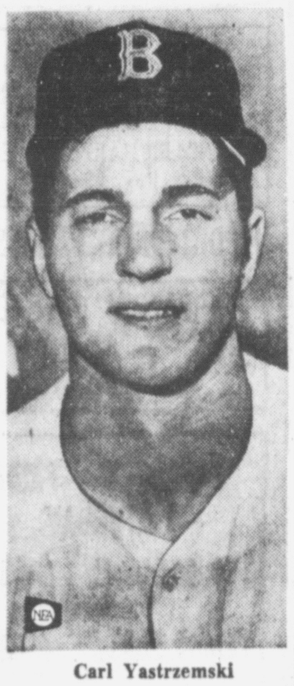

The schedule:

Date		Opponent	Where
Apr.	14	Roosevelt	Away
Apr.	18	Roosevelt	Home
Apr.	20	Saugerties	Home
Apr.	24	Middletown	Away
Apr.	27	Newburgh	Home

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

NEW YORK — (NEA) — After dishing out more than a million in bonus money, the Red Sox wind up asking a 21-year-old kid, in his second season as a pro, to bail them out.

All Carl Yastrzemski has to do is be another Ted Williams. Unless the unpronounceable Yastrzemski turns out to be a three alarm fire, it is difficult to peg Boston above any outfit except Kansas City and the two new American League clubs, which would duplicate the seventh place finish of '60.

Carl Yastrzemski

The pitching is only fair. The infield could be leaky as usual. There is little batting punch. Without Jackie Jensen, the Back Bay Millionaires would be helpless. That is unless Yaswhat's-his-name turns out to be something very extra special.

Everybody associated with the Bosox and a lot of others who have seen him seem to believe they have a world beater in the Notre Dame $100,000 bonus beauty with the long name. Moved by the scoring prowess of Cliff Hagan and Bob Pettit, who had 26 and 24 points respectively, St. Louis closed to within five points before Cousy, Tommy Heinsohn, Frank Ramsey and Sam Jones finished the job.

Even Arnold (The Lion) Palmer can take a double-bogie 6 on the 72nd hole to blow one of the world's most coveted golf prizes and bar the door to a piece of golf immortality.

Palmer's collapse in a situation he has mastered as a trademark was the most horrendous since Sam Snead took that awful 8 in Philadelphia many years ago with his first U. S. Open in his grasp. He needed only a five to achieve that victory but sand got in his eyes, just as it did to Arnold Palmer.

Golf historians and psychologists have insisted through the years that if Slammin' Sammy had taken that first Open in Philadelphia, he would have added a half dozen or more along the way. Snead's record in other competition — his more than 100 tournament victories — supports that kind of thinking.

But Palmer is a different species. The Latrobe, Pa., belter already has his Open, PGA and Masters. He will win them again.

One interesting sidelight: Wonder what Ken Venturi thought about the shenanigans Monday afternoon at Augusta? In case you've forgotten, Venturi was sitting in the clubhouse last year about to be crowned Masters champion when Palmer finished birdie-birdie and that was the end of the dream and the start of Ken Venturi's second ordeal at Augusta.

• The Pros Return Home:

Most of the area professionals have returned to familiar haunts, with general club openers scheduled this weekend. The angry young men — and some of the oldies — defied the elements in the early days of April, then came Sunday night.

But our area pros are all returning from profitable stints in the southland. Bob Mix, Albany Country Club, was head professional at Belleview Biltmore in Belleair, Fla. for the winter and had Bob Smith, Wolferts Roost (Albany) as teaching and playing professional. William McNab was the shop assistant to Mix. . . . Jim Thomson of Schenectady was the teaching professional at Pompano Beach, Fla. . . . Eddie Brown of Columbia and Mrs. Brown spend the winter at Deerfield Beach, Fla. Bill Gressick, Catskill, and his charming missus wintered at Cocoa, Fla., where Bill was on the teaching staff. . . . The Dick Baxters of Williamstown made their annual trek to Fort Lauderdale, where Tom Danaher, former Wiltwyck pro, is now in business. . . . Jack Maxwell, Stamford, and the Art Stuhlers wintered in Florida. . . . Ditto for Tim Gagen and wife and John Gaucas, Van Schaick, and the bett r half who spent the month of March in Fort Lauderdale and Pinehurst. . . . Jim Hutchins of Woodstock had a teaching job at Sarasota and returned to Woodstock just in time to get a sample of Tom Shultis' "spring weather." . . . Lou Pedulla of Highmount ran an indoor golf school in New York City. . . . Alex Gerlak, Twaalfskill's vetern pro, was again with his brother, Joe Gerlak, at the Hollywood Beach and Country Club. Alex had another banner teaching season and some of his clients several stars from the professional football world, including Earl Morrall, Warren Rabb, Zeke Bratkowski, Milt Plum and Dante Lavelli.

• Changes at Wiltwyck:

Wiltwyck Country Club will be the first of the area layouts to kick off the social season, with a roast beef dinner Saturday night. The restaurant at Wiltwyck this year will be operated by Wayfarers Inn,, Inc. an operating corporation owned by James S. Fahey and Charles La Forge which also operates Beekman Arms at Rhinebeck, Sky Lane Inn at Manchester Vt., and Westport Inn at Westport, N. Y. . . . Food service will be provided on a six day basis. The entire operation of the club office, accounts, dining room, etc., has been taken over by the organization. The new Wiltwyck president, A. J. Anderson, and his committees envision major improvements and Wiltwyck's greatest year. Ian (Scotty) Robertson returns for his second season as professional.

• A Travel Tip:

The parsimony of Sam Snead in golf is as legendary as that of Jack Benny in show business. Returning from a trip to Israel, Greece, Italy and France, Snead, a careful man with a buck, was explaining to a group of golfing cronies how he avoided being confused by foreign currency.

"I just marked on each foreign bill how much it was worth in American money," Samuel Jackson Snead said. "For instance, I would mark an Israeli pound, $5.55½.

"That way I knew exactly what I was paying for everything — in the only money I understand."

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit's banged-up Red Wings, claiming they are every bit as hungry as the Chicago Black Hawks, aim to square the Stanley Cup championship playoffs on their home ice tonight.

Trailing the rugged Black Hawks two-to-one in the best-of-seven, all-United States series, the Red Wings are looking forward to the faster ice at Olympia.

Neither team has been able to win away from home in the playoffs. The Black Hawks hope to break up this home ice domination and put an end to the series in Chicago Friday.

Detroit Coach Sid Abel, troubled because of injuries, was complaining about the slowness of the ice in Chicago Stadium Monday when the Hawks hammered out a 3-1 victory.

Abel called it the worst ice he has ever seen and answered Chicago Coach Rudy Pilous' remarks of the Hawks being hungry.

"They're not any hungrier than we are. They just grabbed control of the game in Chicago. We certainly didn't want them to control the game but they did."

Abel said one reason the Hawks took charge was due to the loss of defenseman Marcel Pronovost who suffered a foot injury before Detroit's 3-1 victory at Olympia Saturday night.

In addition to Pronovost, Warren Godfrey and goalie Terry Sawchuk have been injured in the series. Godfrey suffered a bruised knee Monday night and it is doubtful he will be ready tonight.

$15,000 Too Little For Newcombe

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don Newcombe, an unemployed pitcher, would rather stay out of work that spend a season throwing baseballs for the Los Angeles Angels for a paltry 15,000.

That, he says, is what they offered him—plus a $3,000 bonus.

"I made $27,000 last season," Newcombe said, "and I'm not going back to work for nothing. I'm not going to leave my business back in New Jersey all summer for the kind of money the Angels offered."

Newcombe is working out with the Dodgers as a free agent. He said he may ask the Pittsburgh Pirates for a job when they arrive here later this week.

Newcombe, the National League's most valuable player in 1956 when he won 27 games for Brooklyn, spent the spring in Florida with the Dodgers but couldn't make their roster.

The Dodgers might have used him as a reliever, but pitching coach Joe Becker wasn't certain Newcombe's 34-year-old arm had the kind of resiliency needed for relief pitching.

Former Ace Driver

Larry Shurter, 25-Year Vet, Is Racing Chief at Onteora

Racing operations at Onteora Speedway Park this season will be under the astute supervision of Larry Shurter, of West Shokan, a famous retired driver who has had nearly 25 years of experience in almost every phase of the auto racing field.

The soft-spoken, self-effacing track executive (he's now vice president at the Olive Bridge plant) was ranked among the most famous drivers in the midget era, then continued to win laurels in stock car racing until his retirement in 1960 to handle operations at Onteora.

In the 1948 issue of "The Roar of the Mighty Midgets," a highly regarded trade publication, Shurter was profiled along with such titans of the speedways as Bill Schindler, Johnny Ritter, Tony Bonadies, Al Keller, Len Fannelli, Ray Nester, Johnny Carpenter, Rex Records, Dutch Schaeffer, Larry Zeke, Mike Nazaruk and others in this truly Hall of Fame collection.

Shurter started his racing career back in 1938 at the old Woodstock midget arena. The next year he completed building his own car and was on hand for Woodstock's opening card. From then on he enjoyed huge success at Woodstock Washington Hollow and widened his scope by racing at Springfield, Mass., Pottstown, Pa., and Syracuse. He also made appearances in the great classics of the day including the Thompson, Conn. Classic in 1941 and at dirt tracks near Buffalo, Union City, N. J., Paterson, Albany and the Kingsbridge Armory in the Bronx.

After serving in the Motor Corps in World War II under the late General George Patton, Shurter turned his attention to the fast rising and more lucrative stock car field.

In 1949, he and Joe Goldsmith assembled a stock car (No. 75) which Shurter drove at Rhinebeck Speedway, Lodi, N. J., Alcyon Speedway at Pitman and Nazareth, Pa. He finished second in the 100-lap classic at Alcyon and won the 100-lap races at Nazareth and Rhinebeck.

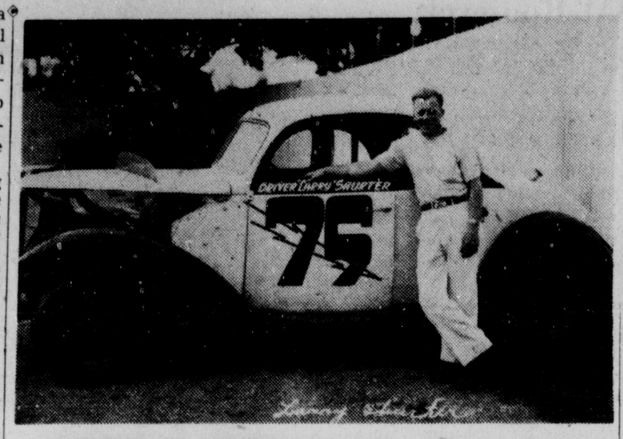

In 1950, the same car raced at Albany and also won the 100-lap race which closed out the season at Rhinebeck. In February, 1951, Shurter took his first shot at the Grand National and finished 11th in a 1959 Oldsmobile in the 250-mile classic at Daytona Beach.

For the balance of the 1950 season, Shurter spent most of the time at Middletown and the following year concentrated on Rhinebeck Speedway where he finished first in the point standings. In 1953, it was back to Middletown where he captured the 50-lap mid-championship and with the Olds won the 200-lap Grand National at Arlington Speedway.

In 1954, Shurter was behind the wheel of Joe King's No. 22 and for the next five years this car brought him a steady stream of victories at Middletown where he was third in the points standing in 1956. In 1959 he purchased the car and continued to race at the Middletown track.

With the opening of Onteora Speedway in 1960, Shurter turned his faithful No. 22 over to Don Avery, who won first place in the point standing place at the picturesque Olive Bridge track.

The auto racing fortunes have turned full wheel for the modest, 42-year-old Shurter who was born in nearby Samsonville. Even at the peak of his racing fame, he was always proud to maintain his West Shokan address. He's back home again and both the drivers and spectators can be assured of a first class operation at Onteora Speedway which opens its 1961 season on Sunday, April 30.

NANCY E. MAJOROS

Nancy E. Majoros, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Majoros of Glasco Turnpike, Woodstock, has been chosen to represent Onteora Central School at Empire Girl's State this year.

Miss Majoros will be sponsored by the Woodstock Unit 1026, American Legion Auxiliary. She was selected by administrative and faculty ballot at the school where she is a junior.

The twenty first session of Girl's State will be held again this year at State University College of Education, New Paltz, June 23 through July 1.

The Girl's State program is designed for training girls in practical Americanism. It provides citizenship through actual performance of the duties of a citizen. These girls learn in their teens what many people do not begin to realize until they are much older, that government is not a drab, mysterious puzzle, but instead an exciting, easy to learn process, in which all can and should take an active part.

As a Girl Stater, she will trace the organization of the political parties from the township through the county and state organizations. She learns how the state party conventions are conducted, the party platform drafted and the election campaign carried out. She also learns parliamentary procedures—how to conduct meetings and how to extend proper courtesies to guests attending these meetings.

Girls chosen to attend Girl's State are selected for the qualities of leadership, scholarship, character, honesty and cooperativeness. The primary purpose of Girl's State is not to train our future governors, but to train good citizens.

Haggerty Urges 11-Room Setup At Woodstock

Jack Haggerty of West Hurley, a former member of the Onteora Board of Education, has submitted the following letter "to the people of the Onteora district who have just voted down a proposition for over one million dollars, which was presented to them by the Board of Education."

"The bond issue was voted down by a small margin, nonetheless, it was voted down. What the Board of Education has in mind now to present to the people, I do not know. But I feel quite certain that if the same proposition is put before the people again it will go down by a larger majority.

"I do not believe the people of the Onteora Central district want to deny any child the right to obtain the kind of education they are entitled to, but it does seem that the people will not go for the same kind of proposition they just voted down.

"When I was a member of the Board of Education, I proposed to the board an alternate proposition for 11 rooms in Woodstock. Then the people would have had the choice to vote for the proposition they just defeated or my No. 2 proposition — an 11-room addition to Woodstock which would cost less than a half million dollars. But the board voted down my alternate proposal.

"As of now, we have no prospects of any rooms either in Phoenicia or Woodstock. So, in fairness to the children why doesn't the Board of Education put before the people my proposal to add 11 rooms at Woodstock that would cost less than a half million dollars.

"I feel quite sure the people would vote for it . . . JACK HAGGERTY."

Hall of Famers Inducted at ABC

The bowling wasn't bad, either. Leo Faetz of Chicago, junior member of the firm at 58, led with 671 for the famous White Tower Restaurant team at Stamford, Conn., which meets only once each year, at the ABC.

On the squad, which totaled 2,580, are three members of the game's hall of fame—Hank Marino, 70, Milwaukee; Harry Steers, 80, Phoenix, Ariz., and Herb Lange, 59, Watertown, Wis. The fifth member was Billy Sixty, 61, Milwaukee, who will be inducted into the Hall of Fame Thursday night.

Steers, rolling in his 56th ABC, got a 388 and Marino 520, Sixty 515 and Lange 486.

Minnesota Vikings Placed In NFL Western Division

NEW YORK (AP) —The Minnesota Vikings have been placed in the Western Conference for their debut in the National Football League and will open play Sunday, Sept. 17 at home against the Chicago Bears, NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle announced today.

Minnesota's placing in the West and the switch of the Dallas Cowboys to the Eastern Conference were part of the release of the official NFL schedule. Now a 14-team league with the addition of the Vikings, the NFL will play 98 games next season — an increase of 20 over last season.

Under the new schedule, each team will play home-and-home series with the six other clubs in its conference and also will play two inter-conference games —one home and one away. Although the league had authorized Rozelle to draw up a schedule with both Minnesota and Dallas playing "swing schedules" as Dallas did last year the commissioner said this was unnecessary "because of increased availability of playing sites, including a new stadium in Washington." Minnesota and Dallas, however, will play a home-and-home inter-conference series with each other.

The season starts for all clubs Sept. 17 and ends Dec. 17, with all but four games on Sundays. The Bears will play at Los Angeles on Saturday night, Sept. 23, and Green Bay will play its traditional Thanksgiving Day game with Detroit on Nov. 23. In addition, two late-season games —still not selected — will be switched from Sunday to Saturday to permit national telecasts.

Take heart, duffers of the golf world!

Even Arnold (The Lion) Palmer can take a double-bogie 6 on the 72nd hole to blow one of the world's most coveted golf prizes and bar the door to a piece of golf immortality.

Palmer's collapse in a situation he has mastered as a trademark was the most horrendous since Sam Snead took that awful 8 in Philadelphia many years ago with his first U. S. Open in his grasp. He needed only a five to achieve that victory but sand got in his eyes, just as it did to Arnold Palmer.

Golf historians and psychologists have insisted through the years that if Slammin' Sammy had taken that first Open in Philadelphia, he would have added a half dozen or more along the way. Snead's record in other competition — his more than 100 tournament victories — supports that kind of thinking.

But Palmer is a different species. The Latrobe, Pa., belter already has his Open, PGA and Masters. He will win them again.

One interesting sidelight: Wonder what Ken Venturi thought about the shenanigans Monday afternoon at Augusta? In case you've forgotten, Venturi was sitting in the clubhouse last year about to be crowned Masters champion when Palmer finished birdie-birdie and that was the end of the dream and the start of Ken Venturi's second ordeal at Augusta.

• The Pros Return Home:

Most of the area professionals have returned to familiar haunts, with general club openers scheduled this weekend. The angry young men — and some of the oldies — defied the elements in the early days of April, then came Sunday night.

But our area pros are all returning from profitable stints in the southland. Bob Mix, Albany Country Club, was head professional at Belleview Biltmore in Belleair, Fla. for the winter and had Bob Smith, Wolferts Roost (Albany) as teaching and playing professional. William McNab was the shop assistant to Mix. . . . Jim Thomson of Schenectady was the teaching professional at Pompano Beach, Fla. . . . Eddie Brown of Columbia and Mrs. Brown spend the winter at Deerfield Beach, Fla. Bill Gressick, Catskill, and his charming missus wintered at Cocoa, Fla., where Bill was on the teaching staff. . . . The Dick Baxters of Williamstown made their annual trek to Fort Lauderdale, where Tom Danaher, former Wiltwyck pro, is now in business. . . . Jack Maxwell, Stamford, and the Art Stuhlers wintered in Florida. . . . Ditto for Tim Gagen and wife and John Gaucas, Van Schaick, and the better half who spent the month of March in Fort Lauderdale and Pinehurst. . . . Jim Hutchins of Woodstock had a teaching job at Sarasota and returned to Woodstock just in time to get a sample of Tom Shultis' "spring weather." . . . Lou Pedulla of Highmount ran an indoor golf school in New York City. . . . Alex Gerlak, Twaalfskill's vetern pro, was again with his brother, Joe Gerlak, at the Hollywood Beach and Country Club. Alex had another banner teaching season and some of his clients several stars from the professional football world, including Earl Morrall, Warren Rabb, Zeke Bratkowski, Milt Plum and Dante Lavelli.

• Changes at Wiltwyck:

Wiltwyck Country Club will be the first of the area layouts to kick off the social season, with a roast beef dinner Saturday night. The restaurant at Wiltwyck this year will be operated by Wayfarers Inn,. Inc. an operating corporation owned by James S. Fahey and Charles La Forge which also operates Beekman Arms at Rhinebeck, Sky Lane Inn at Manchester Vt., and Westport Inn at Westport, N. Y. . . . Food service will be provided on a six day basis. The entire operation of the club office, accounts, dining room, etc., has been taken over by the organization. The new Wiltwyck president, A. J. Anderson, and his committees envision major improvements and Wiltwyck's greatest year. Ian (Scotty) Robertson returns for his second season as professional.

• A Travel Tip:

The parsimony of Sam Snead in golf is as legendary as that of Jack Benny in show business. Returning from a trip to Israel, Greece, Italy and France, Snead, a careful man with a buck, was explaining to a group of golfing cronies how he avoided being confused by foreign currency.

"I just marked on each foreign bill how much it was worth in American money," Samuel Jackson Snead said. "For instance, I would mark an Israeli pound, $5.55½.

"That way I knew exactly what I was paying for everything — in the only money I understand."

Red Wings Stop Black Hawks, 3-1

Former Ace Driver

Racing operations at Onteora Speedway Park this season will be under the astute supervision of Larry Shurter, of West Shokan, a famous retired driver who has had nearly 25 years of experience in almost every phase of the auto racing field.

The soft-spoken, self-effacing track executive (he's now vice president at the Olive Bridge plant) was ranked among the most famous drivers in the midget era, then continued to win laurels in stock car racing until his retirement in 1960 to handle operations at Onteora.

In the 1948 issue of "The Roar of the Mighty Midgets," a highly regarded trade publication, Shurter was profiled along with such titans of the speedways as Bill Schindler, Johnny Ritter, Tony Bonadies, Al Keller, Len Fannelli, Ray Nester, Johnny Carpenter, Rex Records, Dutch Schaeffer, Larry Zeke, Mike Nazaruk and others in this truly Hall of Fame collection.

Shurter started his racing career back in 1938 at the old Woodstock midget arena. The next year he completed building his own car and was on hand for Woodstock's opening card. From then on he enjoyed huge success at Woodstock Washington Hollow and widened his scope by racing at Springfield, Mass., Pottstown, Pa., and Syracuse. He also made appearances in the great classics of the day including the Thompson, Conn. Classic in 1941 and at dirt tracks near Buffalo, Union City, N. J., Paterson, Albany and the Kingsbridge Armory in the Bronx.

After serving in the Motor Corps in World War II under the late General George Patton, Shurter turned his attention to the fast rising and more lucrative stock car field.

In 1949, he and Joe Goldsmith assembled a stock car (No. 75) which Shurter drove at Rhinebeck Speedway, Lodi, N. J., Alcyon Speedway at Pitman and Nazareth, Pa. He finished second in the 100-lap classic at Alcyon and won the 100-lap races at Nazareth and Rhinebeck.

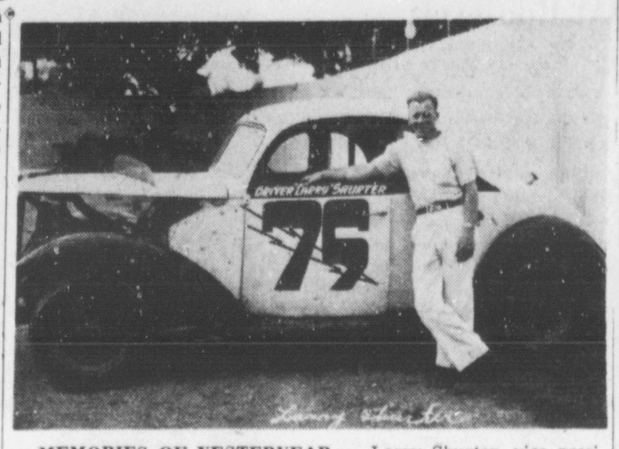

In 1950, the same car raced at Albany and also won the 100-lap race which closed out the season at Rhinebeck. In February, 1951, Shurter took his first shot at the Grand National and finished 11th in a 1959 Oldsmobile in the 250-mile classic at Daytona Beach.

For the balance of the 1950 season, Shurter spent most of the time at Middletown and the following year concentrated on Rhinebeck Speedway where he finished first in the point standings. In 1953, it was back to Middletown where he captured the 50-lap mid-championship and with the Olds won the 200-lap Grand National at Arlington Speedway.

In 1954, Shurter was behind the wheel of Joe King's No. 22 and for the next five years this car brought him a steady stream of victories at Middletown where he was third in the points standing in 1956. In 1959 he purchased the car and continued to race at the Middletown track.

With the opening of Onteora Speedway in 1960, Shurter turned his faithful No. 22 over to Don Avery, who won first place in the point standing place at the picturesque Olive Bridge track.

The auto racing fortunes have turned full wheel for the modest, 42-year-old Shurter who was born in nearby Samsonville. Even at the peak of his racing fame, he was always proud to maintain his West Shokan address. He's back home again and both the drivers and spectators can be assured of a first class operation at Onteora Speedway which opens its 1961 season on Sunday, April 30.

NANCY E. MAJOROS

Nancy E. Majoros, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Majoros of Glasco Turnpike, Woodstock, has been chosen to represent Onteora Central School at Empire Girl's State this year.

Miss Majoros will be sponsored by the Woodstock Unit 1026, American Legion Auxiliary. She was selected by administrative and faculty ballot at the school where she is a junior.

The twenty first session of Girl's State will be held again this year at State University College of Education, New Paltz, June 23 through July 1.

The Girl's State program is designed for training girls in practical Americanism. It provides citizenship through actual performance of the duties of a citizen. These girls learn in their teens what many people do not begin to realize until they are much older, that government is not a drab, mysterious puzzle, but instead an exciting, easy to learn process, in which all can and should take an active part.

As a Girl Stater, she will trace the organization of the political parties from the township through the county and state organizations. She learns how the state party conventions are conducted, the party platform drafted and the election campaign carried out. She also learns parliamentary procedures—how to conduct meetings and how to extend proper courtesies to guests attending these meetings.

Girls chosen to attend Girl's State are selected for the qualities of leadership, scholarship, character, honesty and cooperativeness. The primary purpose of Girl's State is not to train our future governors, but to train good citizens.

Aussie Net Aces WinTheirMatches

Neale Fraser, Rod Laver and Roy Emerson, Australia's Davis Cup teammates, swept the first round Tuesday without losing a set.

But Bernard Bartzen of Dallas, rated No. 1 in the United States and seeded fourth in the 27th River Oaks Tournament, lost to unseeded Frank Froehling, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4. Froehling, a 19-year-old freshman at Trinity University (San Antonio, Tex.), is rated No. 30 in the nation.

Fraser, seeded first, easily handled Tim Heckler of Kimberly, South Africa, 6-1, 6-1. Fraser met Neal Marcus, a Rice University junior from Tampa, Fla., today.

Froehling's victory over Bartzen was the youngster's third impressive win in recent weeks. He beat Mexican cham pAntonio Palafox in the Rice Tournament and beat Orlando Zulueta earlier.

Today he met Rudy Hernando, who upset Chris Crawford, 6-3, 6-3.

Laver, second seeded, beat Al Driscole of Hollywood, Calif., 6-1, 6-4. Emerson beat Gabino Palafox of Mexico, 6-2, 6-0.

Emerson and Reed played what was expected to be today's top match (at 4:30 p.m., EST). Reed beat Butch Newman of San Antonio, 6-3, 7-5, Tuesday.

Haggerty Urges 11-Room Setup At Woodstock

Jack Haggerty of West Hurley, a former member of the Onteora Board of Education, has submitted the following letter "to the people of the Onteora district who have just voted down a proposition for over one million dollars, which was presented to them by the Board of Education."

"The bond issue was voted down by a small margin, nonetheless, it was voted down. What the Board of Education has in mind now to present to the people, I do not know. But I feel quite certain that if the same proposition is put before the people again it will go down by a larger majority.

"I do not believe the people of the Onteora Central district want to deny any child the right to obtain the kind of education they are entitled to, but it does seem that the people will not go for the same kind of proposition they just voted down.

"When I was a member of the Board of Education, I proposed to the board an alternate proposition for 11 rooms in Woodstock. Then the people would have had the choice to vote for the proposition they just defeated or my No. 2 proposition — an 11-room addition to Woodstock which would cost less than a half million dollars. But the board voted down my alternate proposal.

"As of now, we have no prospects of any rooms either in Phoenicia or Woodstock. So, in fairness to the children why doesn't the Board of Education put before the people my proposal to add 11 rooms at Woodstock that would cost less than a half million dollars.

"I feel quite sure the people would vote for it . . . JACK HAGGERTY."

Baptists to Meet In Portland for Annual Session

An estimated 6,000 American Baptists delegates and visitors are expected to converge upon Portland June 14-18, for the 54th annual meeting of the American Baptist Convention. The denomination is the fourth largest Baptist body in the United States with over a million-and-a-half members. There are some 27 Baptist groups in the country with a total membership exceeding 18 million.

One of the major business items to come before the delegates at the annual meeting will be the new General Council proposal for reorganization of the denomination's administrative life. For more than half a century, the convention has functioned as a series of separate boards and societies related to the convention as cooperating or associated organizations. Under the new plan, these agencies will retain their present status, except that at the point of long-range planning and policy making they would accept the leadership of the General Council, in which they would be represented, and the American Baptist Convention. The new General Council plan will be offered as a substitute motion. The three other plans ("Hargroves Plan," the "MacDonald Plan," and the earlier "General Council plan) previously presented in annual session will automatically be taken "off the table" for consideration at Portland.

C. Stanton Gallup, Plainfield, Conn., president of the American Baptist Convention, will deliver the presidential address at the opening session of the convention at 8 p. m. June 14. All convention sessions will be at the new Memorial Coliseum.

Court Order Is Filed Asking That Bus Strike Halt

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A three-day-old dispute that has tied up bus service in this city of 533,000, moved into State Supreme Court today.

Union officials, representing 1,000 Niagara Frontier Transit Co., bus drivers Tuesday were ordered to show cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued to end the work halt.

Justice Carlton A. Fisher signed the order after company officials filed a complaint seeking to enjoin the union from continuing the stoppage.

It was served on Clayton F. Stephenson, president and business agent of Division 1342, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway & Motor Coach Employes, and Frank W. Gernold, secretary-treasurer of the local, as they left a meeting with company officials at which "no progress" was reported.

Drivers refused to accept new working schedules Sunday morning, claiming the new tours of duty were a continuance of 8½ hour schedules on weekends. Union officials said the drivers had been locked out, but the company labeled the action a strike and a violation of the contract.

While the controversy continued, former bus riders were forming car pools and downtown parking was on a first-come, first-serve basis. Parking restrictions were lifted Monday and motorists were having free time at parking meters and in once-busy bus stops.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Enterprising NBC had President John F. Kennedy and the First Lady themselves making first-hand reports Tuesday night on what it's like to work and live in the White House.

It was not only a television scoop for the network, but an absorbing, enlightening hour.

President Kennedy, sitting relaxed and comfortable in the White House Cabinet room, looked over a sheaf of photographs of his official family, identifying each informally and describing the man's background and present function.

He compared his White House organization of aides and assistants to a wheel, with each man a spoke but all working together as well as directly with the President.

"The president has many functions," Kennedy remarked, "and one is to gather as many able people as possible — and then stimulate them to action."

The second half of the program was a delightful interview with Mrs. Kennedy, who spoke affectionately of the 18th-century mansion—and frankly of the problems of raising children in it.

She told of plans to collect period furniture to make more of a museum of the White House—"Most of the furniture dates only from 1902." She said she wants to make it look warmer and more homelike "with flowers and fires going," particularly for child visitors.

"But it's hard with children," she admitted. "There is so little privacy."

She told of wanting to take Caroline to the circus recently but deciding against it. She told of finding photographers at her daughter's ballet class which "I tried to make a private thing." Asked if she thought the limelight had changed Caroline, she replied gravely, "No, she's too little. But sometime she'll go to school and her little classmates will treat her differently."

The National Association for Better Radio and Television recently monitored a week of TV shows and checked off 144 murders, 143 attempted murders, 53 "justifiable" killings, 14 cases of drugging, 12 jail breaks, 36 robberies, 13 kidnapings plus many more assorted types of mayhem.

Recommended tonight: Bob Hope Show, NBC, 9-10 (EST)—Patti Page and Phil Harris are among the guest stars; Circle Theatre, CBS, 10-11—repeat of "Eichmann—Engineer of Death."

Court Order Is Filed Asking That Bus Strike Halt

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A three-day-old dispute that has tied up bus service in this city of 533,000, moved into State Supreme Court today.

Union officials, representing 1,000 Niagara Frontier Transit Co., bus drivers Tuesday were ordered to show cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued to end the work halt.

Justice Carlton A. Fisher signed the order after company officials filed a complaint seeking to enjoin the union from continuing the stoppage.

It was served on Clayton F. Stephenson, president and business agent of Division 1342, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway & Motor Coach Employes, and Frank W. Gernold, secretary-treasurer of the local, as they left a meeting with company officials at which "no progress" was reported.

Drivers refused to accept new working schedules Sunday morning, claiming the new tours of duty were a continuance of 8½ hour schedules on weekends. Union officials said the drivers had been locked out, but the company labeled the action a strike and a violation of the contract.

While the controversy continued, former bus riders were forming car pools and downtown parking was on a first-come, first-serve basis. Parking restrictions were lifted Monday and motorists were having free time at parking meters and in once-busy bus stops.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Enterprising NBC had President John F. Kennedy and the First Lady themselves making first-hand reports Tuesday night on what it's like to work and live in the White House.

It was not only a television scoop for the network, but an absorbing, enlightening hour.

President Kennedy, sitting relaxed and comfortable in the White House Cabinet room, looked over a sheaf of photographs of his official family, identifying each informally and describing the man's background and present function.

He compared his White House organization of aides and assistants to a wheel, with each man a spoke but all working together as well as directly with the President.

"The president has many functions," Kennedy remarked, "and one is to gather as many able people as possible — and then stimulate them to action."

The second half of the program was a delightful interview with Mrs. Kennedy, who spoke affectionately of the 18th-century mansion—and frankly of the problems of raising children in it.

She told of plans to collect period furniture to make more of a museum of the White House—"Most of the furniture dates only from 1902." She said she wants to make it look warmer and more homelike "with flowers and fires going," particularly for child visitors.

"But it's hard with children," she admitted. "There is so little privacy."

She told of wanting to take Caroline to the circus recently but deciding against it. She told of finding photographers at her daughter's ballet class which "I tried to make a private thing." Asked if she thought the limelight had changed Caroline, she replied gravely, "No, she's too little. But sometime she'll go to school and her little classmates will treat her differently."

The National Association for Better Radio and Television recently monitored a week of TV shows and checked off 144 murders, 143 attempted murders, 53 "justifiable" killings, 14 cases of drugging, 12 jail breaks, 36 robberies, 13 kidnapings plus many more assorted types of mayhem.

Recommended tonight: Bob Hope Show, NBC, 9-10 (EST)—Patti Page and Phil Harris are among the guest stars; Circle Theatre, CBS, 10-11—repeat of "Eichmann—Engineer of Death."

Baptists to Meet In Portland for Annual Session

An estimated 6,000 American Baptists delegates and visitors are expected to converge upon Portland June 14-18, for the 54th annual meeting of the American Baptist Convention. The denomination is the fourth largest Baptist body in the United States with over a million-and-a-half members. There are some 27 Baptist groups in the country with a total membership exceeding 18 million.

One of the major business items to come before the delegates at the annual meeting will be the new General Council proposal for reorganization of the denomination's administrative life. For more than half a century, the convention has functioned as a series of separate boards and societies related to the convention as cooperating or associated organizations. Under the new plan, these agencies will retain their present status, except that at the point of long-range planning and policy making they would accept the leadership of the General Council, in which they would be represented, and the American Baptist Convention. The new General Council plan will be offered as a substitute motion. The three other plans ("Hargroves Plan," the "MacDonald Plan," and the earlier "General Council plan) previously presented in annual session will automatically be taken "off the table" for consideration at Portland.

C. Stanton Gallup, Plainfield, Conn., president of the American Baptist Convention, will deliver the presidential address at the opening session of the convention at 8 p. m. June 14. All convention sessions will be at the new Memorial Coliseum.

The only methods of curing cancer today are radiation or surgery, or a combination of both. In the treatment of certain types of cancer, however, hormones, drugs, and some radioactive substances have proved valuable. Teachers Salary Minimum Raised To $4,600 Total

The sum of $4600 will become the minimum salary for teachers in the Saugerties Central School system next year who hold an AB or BS degree. The current minimum is $4400.

Commensurate increases for each other level of the salary schedule were approved by the board at their meeting this week. Each step on the schedule is correspondingly raised by $200. Schedule B which is for teachers with an AB degree formerly began at $4400 and went to $7600 at the 17th step. Now it will begin at $4600 and go to $7800 at the 17th step. A similar revision is made for all other levels of the schedule.

The schedule means that most of the faculty members in the local system who return next year will receive an increase in salary of $400 — $200 is the regular increment provided by the schedule and $200 is caused by raising the schedule at each step. Both Catskill and Kingston have adopted schedules for next year with similar minimums.

There will be approximately 126 classroom and special teachers on the staff of the local school system next fall. This means that raises in salary will total approximately $47,000. Since the staff is to be increased by approximately eight members next year this will add approximately $35,000 to $40,000 more to the salary bill making a total increase in the local cost for teachers next year of approximately $87,000.

Money to meet these increases will come from an increase in state aid of approximately $74,-000 plus local tax receipts from assessments on new properties in the approximate amount of $20,000.

Dr. Grant D. Morse, superintendent of schools, reported to the board that 10 or more teachers now on the staff will not be returning next year. They include Paul Whiting, Donald Lee, Diane Caslar, Sylvia Chipman, Ann Knight, William Ammerman, Donna Tripp, Aileen Russell, Robert Weiss Deborah Davenport.

Some of these teachers are leaving to accept positions in other school systems, some to be married, and others for a variety of reasons. Since the board of education has approved an increase in the total number of faculty members for next year of eight teachers there are approximately 18 vacancies on the staff of the local school system for next year. These vacancies are chiefly in the grades, kindergarten through fifth.

Superintendent Morse discussed with the board of education on Monday evening the advisability of offering a summer course this year in driver training for high school pupils. The guidance department at the high school reports that there are approximately 141 pupils who desire instruction in driver training next year. Of these 96 can be accommodated in the regular school year classes taught by Leon McLaughlin. A six weeks course this summer would take care of 28 students. Part of the expense of a summer course would be offset by special state aid and by a registration fee for each pupil instructed.

The board also discussed with the superintendent the possibility of granting in-service credit to elementary teachers if a local offering in science can be set up under State supervision under the National Science Foundation. Board members present indicated a favorable attitude on this question but no definite decision was made.

Seven parents have sent written requests to the Board of Education for transportation beginning next September for 13 children to non-public schools. The requests are made in accordance with the provisions of the Speno Bill which provides transportation up to 10 miles for pupils who attend non-public schools. The requests are being studied by the director of transportation and provision will be made for them in the budget where they are in accordance with the provisions of the Speno Bill.

An executive session was held following the regular business of the board at which time a discussion was held as a result of a grievance from a group of teachers who resented releasing of wage increases and other pertinent facts to newspapers and radio media prior to their receiving the information personally. Dr. Morse agreed to post all notices on bulletin boards for their information in the future before informing the public on these matters.

With the absence of two board members, Agnes Schroeder and Charles Riccardi, the board did not vote on a replacement for Clarence Brower, board member who has recently been transferred out of town by IBM.

3-Point Program Adopted by Police

A three-point program for the Saugerties Police Department was adopted at a two-hour session Saturday when George Terpening Jr., newly appointed police commisisoner, met with the entire police force.

The program will aim at providing the police department with the necessary equipment for better police and detection work and more effective rescue work; promoting civic activities for the betterment of the youth of Saugerties with the idea of cutting future delinquency; and raising the standards of the police department personnel and promoting a closer relationship with the department, village board and the public.

VFW Poppy Week Starts May 1st

Mayor George P. Holmes today issued a proclamation declaring the Veterans of Foreign Wars annual Buddy Poppy Sale week as May 1 through 6. Members of the Saugerties Memorial Post 5034 and its Ladies Auxiliary will be on the streets of the village and in Simmons Plaza on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons and evenings to enlist the public's support in financing next year's relief program by the purchase of a poppy.

In conjunction with Poppy Week, the VFW Post and Auxiliary will hold a benefit movie on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, Mary 3 and 4 at the Orpheum Theatre. A first run picture, "Ferry to Hong Kong," starring Orson Welles, Curt Jurgens and Sylvia Syms, will be shown at the 6:45 and 9 p. m. performances. Tickets may be purchased from any VFW member. Only advance sales of the tickets credit the relief fund.

An innovation this year will be a "master" poppy boy to accompany the poppy girl in the promotion of sales. Miss Anita Smith, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Smith of Barclay Heights and Robert Thein, son of Commander and Mrs. Robert Thein of Veteran, are the two children selected to aid in the poppy campaign. The children will also ride in the Loyalty Day parade.

"The department quota for 1961 is an increase of 25 per cent over last year's," explained Mrs. Joseph Dengler, auxiliary president. "All proceeds from the poppy sale are retained by the Post to continue work at the veterans' hospital at Castle Point and in local welfare needs during the year," concluded Mrs. Dengler.

Through the courtesy of Joe Benjamin and Paramount Pharmacy, poppy window displays will be in the Flower Garden and the shop recently vacated by Vivian's on Partition Street.

Co-chairmen are Mrs. Robert Sperl and Mrs. Arthur DeCelle. Since May, 1924, the VFW has sponsored an annual poppy sales nationwide.

Debate Coach Is Honored by NFL

A letter of commendation was received this week by Malcolm Bump, coach of the Saugerties High School Debating teams, from the headquarters of the National Forensic League at Ripon, Wis.

At the request of Dr. Grant D. Morse, superintendent of the Saugerties Central Schools, the letter is herewith printed in full, in order to acquaint the people of the area with the full honors accorded the work being accomplished by the coach and the students whom he instructs:

Dear Sir:

"It is always gratifying to observe progress in the fine speech program you are directing at Saugerties High School.

"Today it is a privilege to report that your own total of NFL points is highest among the coaches eligible for a diamond key award and that accordingly we are adding your name to the select list of coaches who wear diamonds in their NFL keys.

"The program of speech education you have directed has been both broad and excellent. Under your instruction Saugerties High School students have earned over 14,000 points. This number is impressive, but even more so is the influence for effective citizenship which this training represents.

"For the sake of Saugerties High School students yet to come I hope you will long continue your work as speech director so that we may in time be privileged to add more diamonds to your illustrious record.

"Please accept my hearty congratulations on attaining this coveted diamond key award."

Cordially yours,
BRUNO E. JACOB, Sec.

Health Program Skit to Be P-TA Feature April 19

Wednesday, April 19, at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of the Main Street School, Saugerties, the Saugerties Parent-Teacher Association will present a program concerned with "The School's Health Program."

The program will be under the supervision of Mrs. Elizabeth Boyce, chairman, assisted by Miss Audrey Grant. Mrs. Boyce and Miss Grant are employed as nurses by the Saugerties Central Schools. An entertaining skit will be presented by several teachers and students in order to show the scope of the school health program. The skit will show the many people who work together to promote good health among the pupils, and the activities in which these people engage.

As part of the program, the choir of the Main Street School will sing two musical selections. During the business meeting officers for the ensuing year will be elected. Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Local Knights Receive Fourth Degree in NYC

Lions Club Plans Ladies Night May 6

Plans were made at the Monday night meeting of the Lions Club for the annual ladies night at the Flamingo Saturday, May 6. Ben Fein, chairman of the event, will have the assistance of Frank Greco and Louis Francello in planning a gala evening for the Lions ladies, and although the complete evening's program will not be released prior to the event, present plans include a roast beef dinner with dancing and awards to round out the evening's entertainment.

Teachers Salary Minimum Raised To $4,600 Total

The sum of $4600 will become the minimum salary for teachers in the Saugerties Central School system next year who hold an AB or BS degree. The current minimum is $4400.

Commensurate increases for each other level of the salary schedule were approved by the board at their meeting this week. Each step on the schedule is correspondingly raised by $200. Schedule B which is for teachers with an AB degree formerly began at $4400 and went to $7600 at the 17th step. Now it will begin at $4600 and go to $7800 at the 17th step. A similar revision is made for all other levels of the schedule.

The schedule means that most of the faculty members in the local system who return next year will receive an increase in salary of $400 — $200 is the regular increment provided by the schedule and $200 is caused by raising the schedule at each step. Both Catskill and Kingston have adopted schedules for next year with similar minimums.

There will be approximately 126 classroom and special teachers on the staff of the local school system next fall. This means that raises in salary will total approximately $47,000. Since the staff is to be increased by approximately eight members next year this will add approximately $35,000 to $40,000 more to the salary bill making a total increase in the local cost for teachers next year of approximately $87,000.

Money to meet these increases will come from an increase in state aid of approximately $74,-000 plus local tax receipts from assessments on new properties in the approximate amount of $20,000.

Dr. Grant D. Morse, superintendent of schools, reported to the board that 10 or more teachers now on the staff will not be returning next year. They include Paul Whiting, Donald Lee, Diane Caslar, Sylvia Chipman, Ann Knight, William Ammerman, Donna Tripp, Aileen Russell, Robert Weiss Deborah Davenport.

Some of these teachers are leaving to accept positions in other school systems, some to be married, and others for a variety of reasons. Since the board of education has approved an increase in the total number of faculty members for next year of eight teachers there are approximately 18 vacancies on the staff of the local school system for next year. These vacancies are chiefly in the grades, kindergarten through fifth.

Superintendent Morse discussed with the board of education on Monday evening the advisability of offering a summer course this year in driver training for high school pupils. The guidance department at the high school reports that there are approximately 141 pupils who desire instruction in driver training next year. Of these 96 can be accommodated in the regular school year classes taught by Leon McLaughlin. A six weeks course this summer would take care of 28 students. Part of the expense of a summer course would be offset by special state aid and by a registration fee for each pupil instructed.

The board also discussed with the superintendent the possibility of granting in-service credit to elementary teachers if a local offering in science can be set up under State supervision under the National Science Foundation. Board members present indicated a favorable attitude on this question but no definite decision was made.

Seven parents have sent written requests to the Board of Education for transportation beginning next September for 13 children to non-public schools. The requests are made in accordance with the provisions of the Speno Bill which provides transportation up to 10 miles for pupils who attend non-public schools. The requests are being studied by the director of transportation and provision will be made for them in the budget where they are in accordance with the provisions of the Speno Bill.

An executive session was held following the regular business of the board at which time a discussion was held as a result of a grievance from a group of teachers who resented releasing of wage increases and other pertinent facts to newspapers and radio media prior to their receiving the information personally. Dr. Morse agreed to post all notices on bulletin boards for their information in the future before informing the public on these matters.

With the absence of two board members, Agnes Schroeder and Charles Riccardi, the board did not vote on a replacement for Clarence Brower, board member who has recently been transferred out of town by IBM.

Debate Coach Is Honored by NFL

A letter of commendation was received this week by Malcolm Bump, coach of the Saugerties High School Debating teams, from the headquarters of the National Forensic League at Ripon, Wis.

At the request of Dr. Grant D. Morse, superintendent of the Saugerties Central Schools, the letter is herewith printed in full, in order to acquaint the people of the area with the full honors accorded the work being accomplished by the coach and the students whom he instructs:

Dear Sir:

"It is always gratifying to observe progress in the fine speech program you are directing at Saugerties High School.

"Today it is a privilege to report that your own total of NFL points is highest among the coaches eligible for a diamond key award and that accordingly we are adding your name to the select list of coaches who wear diamonds in their NFL keys.

"The program of speech education you have directed has been both broad and excellent. Under your instruction Saugerties High School students have earned over 14,000 points. This number is impressive, but even more so is the influence for effective citizenship which this training represents.

"For the sake of Saugerties High School students yet to come I hope you will long continue your work as speech director so that we may in time be privileged to add more diamonds to your illustrious record.

"Please accept my hearty congratulations on attaining this coveted diamond key award."

Cordially yours,
BRUNO E. JACOB, Sec.

Health Program Skit to Be P-TA Feature April 19

Wednesday, April 19, at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of the Main Street School, Saugerties, the Saugerties Parent-Teacher Association will present a program concerned with "The School's Health Program."

The program will be under the supervision of Mrs. Elizabeth Boyce, chairman, assisted by Miss Audrey Grant. Mrs. Boyce and Miss Grant are employed as nurses by the Saugerties Central Schools. An entertaining skit will be presented by several teachers and students in order to show the scope of the school health program. The skit will show the many people who work together to promote good health among the pupils, and the activities in which these people engage.

As part of the program, the choir of the Main Street School will sing two musical selections. During the business meeting officers for the ensuing year will be elected. Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the meeting.

3-Point Program Adopted by Police

A three-point program for the Saugerties Police Department was adopted at a two-hour session Saturday when George Terpening Jr., newly appointed police commisisoner, met with the entire police force.

The program will aim at providing the police department with the necessary equipment for better police and detection work and more effective rescue work; promoting civic activities for the betterment of the youth of Saugerties with the idea of cutting future delinquency; and raising the standards of the police department personnel and promoting a closer relationship with the department, village board and the public.

VFW Poppy Week Starts May 1st

Mayor George P. Holmes today issued a proclamation declaring the Veterans of Foreign Wars annual Buddy Poppy Sale week as May 1 through 6. Members of the Saugerties Memorial Post 5034 and its Ladies Auxiliary will be on the streets of the village and in Simmons Plaza on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons and evenings to enlist the public's support in financing next year's relief program by the purchase of a poppy.

In conjunction with Poppy Week, the VFW Post and Auxiliary will hold a benefit movie on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, Mary 3 and 4 at the Orpheum Theatre. A first run picture, "Ferry to Hong Kong," starring Orson Welles, Curt Jurgens and Sylvia Syms, will be shown at the 6:45 and 9 p. m. performances. Tickets may be purchased from any VFW member. Only advance sales of the tickets credit the relief fund.

An innovation this year will be a "master" poppy boy to accompany the poppy girl in the promotion of sales. Miss Anita Smith, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Smith of Barclay Heights and Robert Thein, son of Commander and Mrs. Robert Thein of Veteran, are the two children selected to aid in the poppy campaign. The children will also ride in the Loyalty Day parade.

"The department quota for 1961 is an increase of 25 per cent over last year's," explained Mrs. Joseph Dengler, auxiliary president. "All proceeds from the poppy sale are retained by the Post to continue work at the veterans' hospital at Castle Point and in local welfare needs during the year," concluded Mrs. Dengler.

Through the courtesy of Joe Benjamin and Paramount Pharmacy, poppy window displays will be in the Flower Garden and the shop recently vacated by Vivian's on Partition Street.

Co-chairmen are Mrs. Robert Sperl and Mrs. Arthur DeCelle. Since May, 1924, the VFW has sponsored an annual poppy sales nationwide.

Local Knights Receive Fourth Degree in NYC

Four members of Saugerties Council, Knights of Columbus, John Blake, John Stenson, John Curry and Joseph LaHoud, were among approximately 250 members of the fraternal society who received the exemplification of the Fourth Degree at ceremonies last Sunday at the Hotel Astor in New York City. A large delegation from the Saugerties Council were in attendance to witness the exemplification and attend the banquet following the honors.

Lions Club Plans Ladies Night May 6

Plans were made at the Monday night meeting of the Lions Club for the annual ladies night at the Flamingo Saturday, May 6. Racial Quarrel Hangs Over War Fete in Dixie

New Jersey delegates called for removal of the chairman, Maj. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant III (Ret.), for sponsoring a Southern speaker "who grossly insulted us."

The threat to try to depose the 80-year-old grandson of the famed Union general came at the height of the three-day round of centennial luncheons, banquets, receptions and ceremonies. The firing on Ft. Sumter, first battle of the Civil War 100 years ago, will be re-enacted tonight.

Halsey's claim that New Jersey practices racial discrimination led to a New Jersey protest at the national commission's banquet Tuesday night.

Vice chairman Joseph Dempsey of the New Jersey Centennial Commission said he wanted to ask the national commission "to determine who is responsible for this pathetic mismanagement and ask the President of the United States to remove him."

Grant won applause when he adjourned the banquet without yielding the floor to the New Jersey chairman, Donald Flamm. Dempsey said the protest would be put in a formal resolution to the commission's business session today.

The New Jersey delegation, whose Negro member caused President Kennedy to order national sessions held at the integrated Charleston naval base, charged earlier "there is ample evidence" that Grant should not be running the program of the congressionally created national commission.

The Negro is Madaline A. Williams, whose husband is New Jersey state president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Senior Seminar Program Listed For April 15th

The senior seminar students of central schools in Ulster County will meet Saturday with Professor Richard Ordway, a faculty member of the State University College of Education, New Paltz, for a discussion of Astronomy and the Universe.

Dr. Ordway is a graduate of Yale University in 1948. Some of his experiences included a Ford Foundation Faculty Fellowship, a member of the Geological Institute of the University of Illinois, and a consultant on the Conference on Apalachian Geology in June of 1960. He is, also, the recipient of a National Science Foundation Grant. Professor Ordway is co-author with Professor Allen of the college of a physical science text which is presently being used by over 50 colleges in the country.

The lecture will cover the study of the size and nature of the universe. Dr. Ordway will explain the scientific methods which are used by astronomers in obtaining their information and calculations. Students will be demonstrated the spectroscope and slides will also be included. The usual informal question and answer period will follow the presentation.

The seminar program is a project of the Secondary School Principal's Council of the Board of Cooperative Educational Services of Ulster County. The project is a jointly sponsored program of the College of Education at New Paltz and the Cooperative Board.

Sees Lower Deficit

NEW YORK (AP) — Chairman Harry W. von Willer of the new Erie-Lackawanna Railroad says the road's 1961 deficit probably will range between $12 million and $15 million, compared with almost $20 million in 1960.

He said in an interview after the annual meeting Tuesday that his estimate was based on some improvement in business during the second quarter and a substantial pickup during the second half.

Senator in Call For Law to Aid Migrant Worker

WASHINGTON (AP) — Migrant farm labor is trapped in a system where "hopelessness becomes a way of life," Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-NJ, said today.

Williams called for the enactment of laws aimed at poverty, illiteracy and other problems which, he said, have dogged the trial of 2 million migrant farm workers and their families.

His testimony was prepared for the start of hearings by his Senate migratory labor subcommittee on bills designed to improve the workers' lot and offer their children a better chance for education.

The legislation would prohibit agricultural child labor and register labor contractors who recruit the traveling armies of farm workers. It also would create a national citizens council to deal with the migrant farm labor problems.

Companion bills aim to increase educational opportunities and health services for migratory workers and their children. The bills all fit into an 11-point program sponsored by Williams.

Williams said that since World War II the country has become increasingly aware of the problems. But since then, he said, "a new generation of American citizens has grown almost to maturity in the migratory way of life, still trapped in the same sad system.

"Families make less than $1,000 a year. Youngsters are years behind in their schooling. Needless health hazards weaken and cripple young and old. Hopelessness becomes a way of life."

'Splendid Russian' Has Good, Honest Smile

Reds Pull Out All Stops in Heaping Praise on Soviet's First Space Man

LONDON (AP) — Moscow television presented a picture of the Soviet Union's first space man today, describing him as a man with "a good, honest smile."

"On the screen appears the image of a man aged about 25-28 with a kind, Russian face, eyes set well apart, fine bushy brows and high forehead.

Very Great Character

"He wears a flying helmet, a light overall suit. He smiles a good, honest smile. And is there any need to add that this man who has been the first to dare to fly to space, to reach for the stars, to look down on our earth, is a man of a very great and very real character. This is evident in his smile, in the intelligent, fine eyes."

Gagarin was 27 just a month ago.

He is married to Valentina Gagarina, 26, who also has a scientific background. She was graduated from medical school at Orenburg.

Father of Two

Gagarin was born March 9, 1934, in the Gzhatsk district of the Smolensk area. As a child of 7, just starting school, he and his family experienced the Nazi invasion and fled into the hinterlands.

At the end of the war the family returned to Gzhatsk to a collective farm. Gagarin resumed his schooling and in 1251 was graduated with distinction from a vocational school in Lyubertsy, outside Moscow.

He qualified as a moulder. Simultaneously, he attended evening classes for working youths and then was sent to an industrial college at Saratov on the Volga. Again he was graduated with honors, in 1955.

At Saratov, Gagarin took training in aviation and after graduation attended an air school at Orenburg. He has been a Soviet airman since 1957, a member of the Communist party since last year.

The answers to everyday insurance problems*
HERMAN J. EATON, C.L.U.

QUESTION: I know insurance doesn't cover wear and tear but what if a car is stolen and driven at high speed without oil and the engine is ruined. Would that damage be covered?
ANSWER: Yes, theft insurance would cover that damage because the company wants to return the car in as good condition as it was before it was stolen.
* If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be NO CHARGE or OBLIGATION OF ANY KIND.
